BAKER INITIATES SWEEPING INQUIRY INTO MILITARY LAW

TELLS OF INSPECTION TRIP

Found Widespread Approval of League of Nations Throughout the Country.

TO SPEED DEMOBILIZATION

Secretary Expects Immediate Results from Visit He and March Made to Camps.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Upon his return to Washington today after a seventeen-day inspection tour which took him and General Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff, to the Pacific Coast, Secretary of War Baker announced that he had asked President Page of the American Bar Association to appoint a committee of lawyers to investigate the whole question of military law. Secretary Baker announced that Mr. Page had appointed as members of this committee S. S. Gregory of Chicago, Judge W. F. Bynum of Greensboro, N. C.; Martin Conboy of New York City, Judge Andrew Jackson Bruce of Bismarck, N. D., and Colonel John Hinckley of Baltimore.

One of the first things Mr. Baker did after returning to his office in the War Department this afternoon was to confer with Chairman Gregory and Judge Bruce of this committee.

"They came in to see me," said Secretary Baker, "to say that they wanted to go forward with their inquiry. I placed General Kreger in immediate communication with them, and told him to produce all records for their inspection. I told them that I would send any one connected with the War Department, civilian or military, to talk with them at any time.

"As I understand their function," continued Mr. Baker, "and I do not want to limit it by any description, what they are asked to do by the Bar Association, which acted at my request, is to examine the whole question of substantive and procedural military law, with a view to making recommendations for improvements in either the substantive law or the method of procedure. I told General Kreger to place every record of court-martial trials at their disposal, and asked them to bring to my attention any matter in connection with these trials which they believe to be in error."

Secretary Baker said that, while he and General March were on their inspection tour they were asked by Chambers of Commerce to dine.

Found Sentiment for League.

"They usually asked us to make remarks," said Mr. Baker. "I discussed the necessity of a League of Nations, and found what seemed to me to be a very widespread interest in it and approval of the idea. In fact, every audience I addressed seemed to approve it.

"We went from one camp to another, inquiring into the process of demobilization," said Secretary Baker, "and seeking to get uniformity in the matter of making records, and, as far as possible, uniformity in speed, and to cut down the time that a man stays in a camp after he gets there for demobilization. In one small camp we found men sometimes get out the same day they arrive. The best record generally was forty-eight hours. In some places it was six days.

"General March instructed the commanding officers as to the best practice in other places. I am certain that the result of the trip is going to mean greater speed and greater uniformity in the demobilization process.

"We found, what I had not known in so much detail, that there are a good many things to be done when a man is demobilized. In the first place he is sent to a depot company; from there he has nine different sets of papers made up; he has to be interviewed by representatives of the Department of Labor, who se whether he has a job waiting for him, and if not what kind of work he would like to have, and correspondence has to be entered into with bureaus in his own home town to help to get him a job; his status with regard to war risk insurance has to be worked out, and any difficulties which have arisen with regard to allotments of pay have to be straightened out. A great many of the papers have errors in them.

Examined by Specialists.

Then the man must go through the physical examinations. Each man is examined ordinarily by ten or twelve doctors—heart, lung, brain, ear, eye, and throat specialists. If any doctor discovers anything wrong the case goes to the Board of Review, which passes upon the character of the disability, and it sometimes finds most serious things.

"A man we saw the record of was supposed by somebody to have tuberculosis. He went up to the Board of Review and it was discovered by the board that, while he entered the army weighing 120 pounds, he was ready for demobilization at 160 pounds, so that he gained 40 pounds. The board made radiographs of his lungs, and these showed old scars which had long since healed;

Germany to Force Giving Up Foreign Securities to State

COPENHAGEN, March 26.—In order to defray the cost of food supplies, the German Minister of Finance is about to issue a decree requiring delivery to the State of all foreign securities with a fixed rate of interest, except Russian securities and loans to Germany's former allies, according to advices from Berlin.

They will be bought at their market value at the end of 1919.

TWO MORE ENTER FOR OCEAN FLIGHT

BOTH TO FLY BIPLANES

To Start from Newfoundland in April—English-American Mail Service Planned.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 25.—Sydney Pickles, the Australian aviator who won distinction in the Royal Navy Air Service during the war, has entered for the transatlantic prize, with a Fairey biplane. Pickles is the fourth British entry for The Daily Mail prize. He says his machine is much faster than the others entered.

Another competitor for the transatlantic flight has handed in his name to the Royal Aero Club, making the fifth British entry. He is F. P. Raynham, on the staff of the Martinsyde Aeroplane Company of Woking. He is a pioneer aviator, having been a pilot since 1911. During the war he was engaged in important work in testing and experimenting with new types of machines developed by the Martinsyde Company for the Government.

In talking to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent Raynham explained that he expected to use a new commercial biplane which was based on the latest type of bombing machine, and which his concern had built before hostilities closed. Its wings have a forty-one foot span, and it is twenty-six feet over all. The Martinsyde navigator has already visited Newfoundland to make preparations for the start, and Raynham and his machine will sail for Newfoundland by the next steamer. He expects to attempt the big flight about the middle or end of April.

Sir William Beardmore, head of the firm which built the R-34, says that he is preparing to construct two other airships, both larger than the R-34. Sir William believes that within a very short time regular airship transatlantic service will be established. Definite plans have been drawn up with a view to mail service between England and America.

Beardmore is no visionary, but a practical business man and an expert engineer, and though he is not yet prepared to discuss the trial problems for publication, he made the foregoing prediction with absolute confidence in its early realization.

LONDON, March 26, (Associated Press.)—An airship, with engines and cabins inclosed in an outer envelope so that the craft can float on the sea, may be a competitor for the Atlantic flight. The Admiralty was engaged in building two such air vessels before the war ended, and it was expected that they would be superior to Zeppelins for scouting for fleets. The feature of this craft, which was one of the several surprises being prepared for the Germans, is the use of a non-inflammable gas which permits the construction of engines so that they can be placed on an airship which can float on the water if disabled. The airship is not expected to be ready for trial before June.

May Cross Within a Month.

Copyright, 1919, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

LONDON, March 26.—The first transatlantic flight may be accomplished within the next month. The feat may even be performed before the general public knows a start has been made. The chances are greatly in favor of the air Columbus rediscovering America, not with an airplane but with a rigid airship, either the R-33 or the R-34 of the British Royal Air Force, piloted and manned by officers and men formerly in the Royal Navy.

This is the impression gathered from conversations with the officials of the Air Ministry and with the officers directly connected with the airship branch of the service.

"We are taking up the study of long-distance flying with rigid airships," a high technical airship officer said today. "We are not primarily concerned with crossing the Atlantic in a hurry, but as that body of water offers a greater cruising space than the North Sea we are conducting our experiments and studies there. Some day—and it may be any time now—the pilot of one of our ships somewhere over the Atlantic will find weather conditions favorable and will go all the way across. If he makes an economical fuel run over he will probably return to the British Isles without landing on the other side."

The Ministry is also understood to be pushing forward rapidly the plans for making the Atlantic flight with one or more airplanes, but the officials are extremely reticent regarding this. It is said that the officers have already been selected for the attempted crossing, and are now giving their machines exhaustive tests. Probably several machines will make independent flights by different routes.

KAROLYI ARRESTED BY REDS

ALLIES EXPLAIN ORDER

Demarkation Line Not to be Regarded as Political Frontier, Government Is Told.

BERLIN, March 25, (via Copenhagen.)—It is reported here from Vienna that communication between Vienna and Budapest has been interrupted through the capture by the Czechoslovaks of the town of Raab, on the Danube, about midway between the two cities.

Large Hungarian cannon foundries are situated at Raab.

LONDON, March 26.—Count Michael Karolyi, former President of Hungary, has been arrested and will be brought before a revolutionary tribunal for trial, according to a Vienna dispatch to the National Tidende of Copenhagen, quoted in advices here from the Danish Capital. A Berne dispatch says that an unconfirmed rumor that Karolyi has been assassinated has reached Prague from Budapest.

Dr. Alexander Wekerle, the former Hungarian Premier, whose arrest in Budapest was reported yesterday, is said to be charged with introducing measures for the socialization of landed estates in a form enabling him to dispose on favorable terms of his own heavily mortgaged estates, Vienna advices say.

Berne hears from Prague that Colonel Vix, head of the French Mission, whose seizure by forces of the new Hungarian Government was reported yesterday, was also wounded. Major Freeman of the British Army, it is added, succeeded in making his escape from Budapest. On the other hand, the Abendpost of Berlin publishes a Vienna dispatch saying that all the members of the Allies' military missions, except one American officer, have left Budapest.

A wireless dispatch to Copenhagen from Budapest says the commander of the French troops in the Hungarian capital denies the report that his soldiers have been disarmed by the Communists.

The correspondent of Vienna prints a dispatch from Budapest that allied troops occupying Arad and Szegedin, on the Maros and Theiss Rivers, respectfully, have been withdrawn.

COPENHAGEN, March 26.—The Hungarian Soviet Government, a dispatch from Budapest says, has received a written communication from the Allied Mission there that the line of demarcation laid down in an earlier ultimatum should not be regarded as the political frontier of Hungary. In accordance with the new decision, it is added, there will be established a neutral zone for the sole purpose of preventing collisions between Hungarian and Rumanian troops.

A dispatch from Pressburg, Hungary, announces the arrival there of a Czechoslovak mission from Budapest. All the members of the mission were arrested on March 21, and all their documents and money were seized. Finally they were allowed to leave the next day, but were searched at the frontier. Valuables to the amount of more than 1,000,000 crowns were taken from them.

The Hungarian National Council has been dissolved on motion of its President.

The Government edict establishing revolutionary courts says that each must consist of a President and two members, while the prosecutor will be appointed by the Government. It is provided that the death sentence must be by a unanimous decision of the court. No appeals or requests for mercy will be permitted and execution of the death sentence must be carried out immediately.

A Pressburg report received in Berlin says that martial law has been declared throughout Czechoslovakia as a result of events in Hungary.

New Bolshevist Outrage Rouses Vladivostok

VLADIVOSTOK, March 2, (Canadian Press.)—Bodies of two Russian officers, with the ears cut off and the hands nailed to the shoulder blades, were found in First River, near here today. Allied officers say the discovery corroborates stories of Bolshevist outrages.

Canadian officers and soldiers have been instructed to go only in pairs after nightfall in Vladivostok streets and to carry arms.

Nine Bolsheviki were arrested here yesterday. The political situation is increasingly disturbing.

ROTTERDAM, March 26.—Apart from the policy definitely decided upon by the German Government it is impossible to resist the conclusion from the tone of the whole German press and other expressions of public opinion that the intention is not to sign the peace treaty—that is to say, assuming that any of the territorial demands in question are among the terms.

Originally the protest movement, so far as the press was concerned, was inspired by the Government with the idea of bringing pressure on the Entente, and also out of conviction. Whether there is any substance in it or not does not matter, because it is firmly held that in so doing the Germans have been giving support to President Wilson.

The situation has so developed that the movement has passed beyond the control of the Government, which initiated it. At the very beginning it was seized upon by all the reactionary forces as a heaven-sent opportunity of reawakening the national sentiment of the German people. Gradually they were joined by the radicals, and afterward by groups standing further to the left than the Government itself.

Newspapers and publicists of usually moderate opinion are now shouting as loudly as the conservatives, but not so loudly as to convey the impression that it is a matter of bluff. The truth is that stage is past.

The longer the agitation continues, the more numerous and more sharply defined become the specific demands which it is maintained the Government must refuse. Not only the claims to Danzig and the Saar Valley, but also the claim to Malmedy are now included.

The movement has united the conservatives and the radicals, and to so much have responsible people now committed themselves that retreat is impossible.

Swears Cabinet Will Not Yield.

BERLIN, March 26.—"I take a most solemn oath that the Government will not surrender to the enemy one inch of German territory, either east or west," said Dr. Schiffer, Minister of Finance in the new Cabinet, in addressing a great crowd in front of the Chancellor's palace on Sunday, according to the Tageszeitung.

In the Prussian Assembly yesterday Premier Hirsch declared that the Government had no thought of abandoning the Eastern districts of the State, and that he considered its chief duty was to ward off all attacks on the territory of the State, especially attempts aimed at West Prussia, Posen and Upper Silesia.

PARIS, March 26.—The Prussian National Assembly has voted unanimously against the relinquishment by Germany of any of the Rhine territory, especially the Sarre Basin, according to German dispatches reaching here.

The advices also tell of meetings of protest multiplying in all parts of Germany against what is called an "enslaving peace." According to the Zurich correspondent of the Paris Journal these manifestations are being organized by the Government through Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, the Foreign Secretary.

PARIS, March 25.—As to nearly every question that comes up, the answer of the French to the new complication caused by the Hungarian Government collapse is, "Send troops." France still would put a barrier between Russia and Hungary to prevent the co-operation of the Bolsheviki in the two countries.

This may seem like locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen, in view of the fact that Bela Kuhn and Lenine are in communication, and it is reported that several thousand Russians are already passing through the Carpathians into Hungary unhindered.

Nevertheless French statesmen do not admit that the case is hopeless, and say that 500,000 troops might be made quickly available to establish that much-talked-of barrier from the Baltic to the Black Sea by co-operation between Poland and Rumania, backed by allied support.

This estimate of 500,000 includes General Haller's three Polish divisions still in France, whose landing rights at Danzig continue to be a matter of controversy. Other forces which the French would use against the westward spread of the Bolsheviki and to prevent the effective co-operation of Russia and Germany include the Poles, what is left of the Rumanian and Serbian Armies, and the French, Italian, English, and Greek troops of the old Saloniki expedition, now pretty generally scattered through the Balkans.

But, while they contend that their military plan would be successful as the only possible solution, the French have little hope that England and America will agree with them as to any extension of military operations anywhere.

President Wilson has been quoted as saying in a recent conversation that it would be as sensible to try to prevent the air going through a sieve as to try to check Bolshevism with troops. Lloyd George clings to the belief that sooner or later the Allies must confer with the Bolsheviki.

Renewed Criticism of Conference.

French criticism no longer names individual peacemakers or separate nations, but that criticism is growing greatly in volume, taking the ground that the delay in Paris over what it calls unessential, or at least untimely, things has come dangerously near to making world peace impossible for a long time to come.

The situation in Hungary furnishes a prolific text. It is called the beginning of a new war. It is also described as being to the Paris conference what Napoleon's Hundred Days were to the Congress of Vienna. Whatever it may be called, it is attributed wholly to the delays in the Peace Conference.

"Hungary comes now to focus attention on the fact that we have no Russian plan, nor any other plan," said a member of the French Foreign Office today. "There have been one sound Russian policy, one partly good, and one a dream. The sound plan was that of the French to intervene in Russia while there was yet time, before Bolshevism had spread an inch out of that country. Our Allies would not consent. Now it is too late. France herself could not now send troops to Russia.

"The dream we familiarly call 'Prinkipo.' It is gone the way of all dreams.

"The third plan was part dream and part wise policy. It was to put a girdle of peace and plenty about Russia so that Bolshevism could not prevail beyond. But delays and blunders have caused the failure of that.

"Lemberg is an illustration. For two weeks we have been getting wire-

Italy Lifts the Blockade in the Adriatic; Will Give Relief to Harassed Nations

PARIS, March 26.—The Italian delegation today notified the Peace Conference of the lifting of the military and commercial blockade in the Adriatic by which trading returns to conditions before the war, except that, until peace is declared, allied warships will have the right to search merchantmen.

The lifting of the blockade in the Adriatic is a sequel to the occupation of the chief seaports on the eastern littoral by allied detachments, announced from Rome as completed a few days ago.

The lifting of the blockade, in the light of complaints which have been made against it, is likely to relieve the food situation in Croatia and possibly further north, in Hungary, German Austria, and Bohemia.

When the armistice was signed on Nov. 4 the situation in regard to the blockade was left as follows, according to Section 2, Article I. of the capitulations:

"Notification is to be made to neutrals that freedom of navigation in all territorial water is given to the naval and mercantile shipping of the Allies and associated powers, all questions of neutrality being waived."

Both Spain and Greece have made several protests against the blockade being continued, the latter on account of the alleged doubtful status of certain ships flying the Greek flag.

HUGHES POINTS TO FLAWS IN COVENANT

CALLS GUARANTY A PERIL

Pledge in Article X. He Regards as a "Trouble Breeder and Not a Peacemaker."

Speaking as one desiring the establishment of institutions of international justice wherein the United States, without sacrificing its essential national interests, would co-operate "in a Society of Nations to promote lasting peace under the reign of law," Charles Evans Hughes, former Justice of the Supreme Court, in an address yesterday before the members of the Union League Club, of which he is President, analyzed the proposed covenant of the League of Nations.

Mr. Hughes went over it article by article, pointing out what he considered merits and defects, and in conclusion suggested that it should be amended as follows:

(1.) By explicit provision as to the requirement of unanimity of decision.

(2.) By suitable limitation as to the field of the League's inquiries and action, so as to leave no doubt that the internal concerns of States, such as immigration and tariff laws, are not embraced.

(3.) By providing that no foreign power shall hereafter acquire by conquest, purchase, or in any other way, any possession on the American Continent or the islands adjacent thereto.

(4.) By providing that the settlement of purely American questions shall be remitted primarily to the American nations, and that European nations shall not intervene unless requested to do so by the American nations.

(5) By omitting the guarantee of Article X.

(6.) By providing that no member of the League shall be constituted a mandatory without its consent, and no European or Asiatic Power shall be constituted a mandatory of any American people.

(7.) By providing that any member of the League may withdraw at its pleasure on a specified notice.

The address was made at the request of the Executive Committee of the club and members and their guests filled the assembly room and overflowed into the hallway.

Mr. Hughes was most outspoken in his characterization of the guarantee in Article X. wherein the contracting parties "undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial and existing political independence of all States member of the League" and "in case of any such aggression or in any case of any threat or danger of such aggression the Executive Council shall advise upon the means by which the obligation shall be fulfilled."

"I regard this guarantee as a trouble breeder and not a peacemaker," he said. "I believe it to be unnecessary and unwise; there is little ground for supposing that it will prevent war; on the contrary, it is likely to prove illusory and to create disappointment and a sense of injury and injustice on the part of those who are led to place confidence in it.

"The guarantee makes no allowance for changes which may be advisable. It ascribes a prescience and soundness of judgment to the present Peace Conference in erecting States and defining boundaries which nobody in the history of the world has ever possessed. Even as to the new States, it attempts to make permanent existing conditions, or conditions as arranged at this conference, in a world of dynamic forces to which no one can set any bounds. It gives no fair opportunity for adjustments. It is in the teeth of experience. What good reason is there for this

CHANGES WEAKEN FIGHT ON LEAGUE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—An appreciable shift of sentiment among Senators who have voiced disapproval of the League of Nations has been in evidence during the last few days. Guided reports of changes made in the draft of the League Constitution have had the effect of dissipating a considerable part of the opposition.

One thing that has affected the attitude of those who have stood out against the League as being inimical to the sovereignty of the United States has been the reported agreement among the peace conferees to insert a clause protecting the integrity of the Monroe Doctrine. Democratic Senators like King of Utah, Underwood of Alabama and Bankhead of Alabama, who have opposed any League that does not safeguard the Monroe Doctrine, will be able to support it, if the Paris conferees put through the program outlined in the dispatches.

Senator King expressed himself today as gratified at the changes made in the League Constitution, saying they would make it possible for him to withdraw the opposition he had felt impelled to undertake against the League.

Chief Obstacle Removed.

"The amendments made at Paris in the last few days remove the principal objections of the opponents of the League of Nations," said Senator King. "If the amendments as drawn up are accepted, I shall vote for the League project when it comes up in the Senate.

"To my mind, the chief obstacle against accepting the League has been removed by the clause to protect the Monroe Doctrine. The fear that the Monroe Doctrine would be upset by the League was in the minds of the people of this country, and I do not believe they would have countenanced any League that would endanger it. The integrity of the Monroe Doctrine will be guaranteed by the amendment offered by the American delegates, and, as reported, accepted by the delegates from the other nations.

"Another important amendment is that which provides that there shall be no cession or sale of territory in the United States to any non-American State. That runs in with the Monroe Doctrine and tends to strengthen it. Guarantees are given, also, in the control of a nation's domestic affairs. This is a vitally important amendment. It will affect the immigration question and other matters of purely domestic import.

Senate Indorsement Predicted.

As a result of the amendments to the League covenant the Senators at the Capitol voiced the belief that the League would be accepted by the Senate as a part of the peace treaty if it should come in that form. While the resolution expressed the sentiment of the Senators signing it that the League ought to be considered apart from the treaty of peace, it is felt that, with the amendments now made or about to be made, removing the basic features that aroused opposition, there will not be any great difficulty in getting the necessary two-thirds vote. That is the talk at the Capitol.

Senators Borah and certain other Republicans will oppose the League in any form, and it is expected that Senators Reed, Gore, and others aligned with them on the Democratic side will also.

INDEMNITY UNDER 30 BILLION

HUNGARY NOT DISCUSSED

BULLITT REPORT FAVORABLE

Clemenceau Is Ill and Did Not Attend Yesterday's Conference of the "Big Four."

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

By Wireless and Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 26.—To President Wilson is attributed the proposal to combine all peace treaties into one which shall be signed by every allied and enemy Government.

That the President should sanction such a move is surprising on account of his insistence upon making haste in concluding peace. It is generally admitted that the proposed change in the program will delay the signing of the treaty.

A most encouraging sign of progress toward peace was afforded this evening when it became known that the leading plenipotentiaries at the meeting held today adopted the American principle that "reparation" means "damages." Having agreed to this, the plenipotentiaries called on the economic experts for the amount of damages actually inflicted by Germany.

They learned that this was between $35,000,000,000 and $45,000,000,000. As it was evident from the reports of the experts that this was beyond Germany's capacity to pay, the experts were set to work to scale down the amount. It is pretty generally agreed that, on the basis of her ability to pay, Germany will be called upon for between $20,000,000,000 and $30,000,000,000.

This is the most important move made by the Peace Conference since the practical abolition of the Council of Ten and the transfer of the heavy work of peace-making to Wilson, Clemenceau, Lloyd George, and Orlando. Clemenceau was not present at the two meetings today, and it is understood that he is ill.

An authoritative intimation was conveyed this evening that the leading plenipotentiaries did not take up the Hungarian problem and the related Bolshevist menace at their session. This is surprising, whether the statement be honest or merely a diplomatic denial.

The fact remains that an undercurrent of sentiment in favor of recognizing the Bolshevist Government at Moscow has become apparent in the Peace Conference circles. Denial is made that any overtures have been made to or have come from Moscow, but some move by the Allies would not be surprising.

Interest in the Bolshevist situation has been increased among the American peace representatives through the return to Paris of William C. Bullitt of the State Department, who went to Moscow as an observer for the American Peace Commission. Lincoln Steffens, who accompanied him, returned to Paris with Mr. Bullitt, but it is still denied that Steffens had any official connection with the Bullitt mission. Mr. Bullitt, who was told that he must not talk to the press, made a report rather favorable to the Bolshevist rule. In his opinion the conservative element of the Bolsheviki is in control in Moscow.

There are indications that the Americans officially connected with the Conference are becoming impressed with the belief that unless the Bolshevist Government of Russia is recognized formally by the allied powers it will be useless to hope for complete and satisfactory peace in Europe. Some of these officials point to the map which shows the Bolsheviki in complete control of all old Russia and other parts of the former empire of the Czar. Whatever this undercurrent of sentiment may lead to it is evident that the plenipotentiaries of the principal powers must soon deal with the problem in no uncertain way. The Hungarian situation, it is contended here, compels action.

Copyright, 1919, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, March 26.—Peace will be made with all the enemy powers—Germany, Austro-Hungary, Turkey, and Bulgaria—simultaneously by the Allied and Associated Powers. This was decided this afternoon, and the declawas reached largely through the Italian ultimatum delivered last Saturday that Italy's Peace Delegation would return to Rome and make peace separately with Austria and refuse to sign the Allied peace with Germany unless Austrian peace terms were taken up at the same time with those of Germany.

The rest of the Allied Powers at first refused to consider the Italian ultimatum, but with the Hungarians allying themselves with the Bolsheviki and defying the Allies, it has been deemed best to make one peace with the Quadruple Entente.

These reversals, coming posthaste on the heels of one another, indicate clearly the weakness developing in the Peace Conference and the lack of unity of purpose and sticking to plans as outlined.

Furthermore, it is pointed out that making a single blanket peace treaty with the four enemy powers and interweaving the League of Nations covenant with it will make it nearly impossible for the Senate or any one else ever to split the peace treaty and the League of Nations apart.

Although the United States is not at war with Turkey and Bulgaria, this country has just as much right to be included in the peace treaty with those nations as to be represented on the commissions which are carving up Turkish and Bulgarian territory and awarding it to other nations.

Incorporating all four treaties in a single instrument admittedly delays peace, but that delay automatically gives more time for redrafting the League of Nations covenant, which is far from complete.

The decision to deal with all four enemies together has mollified the Italians considerably, and the next objections are expected from the Japanese, who probably will demand that the Kiao-chau controversy be decided at the same time.

A conservative expert guesser fixes May 1 as the earliest time the treaty can be handed to the enemy States, but that is no indication of when the treaty will be signed, as the Central Powers will have the right to discuss the covenant, and surely will demand changes and modifications.

Experts Study One Treaty Problem.

PARIS, March 26, (Associated Press.)—The technical experts of the American peace delegation, in consultation with experts of other delegations, have been considering a possible method for carrying out a project brought forward yesterday to include all four enemy powers in one peace treaty.

The fact that the United States was never at war with Turkey and Bulgaria complicates the matter, but the opinion of the American experts is that this is not insurmountable, and that it is feasible for the United States to sign such a quadruple treaty with an explanatory statement that the United States accepts only such portions of the treaty as directly affect it.

Preparatory to the execution of the plan without delay, in case it should be adopted, the commissions on reparations and boundaries are to reduce to form as quickly as possible all data they have collected bearing on the financial and economical ability of Turkey and Bulgaria, and of what remains of Austria-Hungary, to meet the charges they must pay, as well as the new boundaries they must accept in order to recognize the right of self-determination.

The problem is rendered difficult by reason of assessing fairly the share of the prewar debts of the three nations, which must be assumed by the separated provinces, and this is receiving careful study by experts.

President Wilson and Premiers Lloyd George, Clemenceau, and Orlando resumed at the Paris "White House" to day their series of conferences which is expected to continue until the most important questions which have been delaying the work of the Peace Conference are cleared up.

The differences of opinion which have developed since the return of Mr. Wilson to Paris are being considered fully and frankly, and a determined effort is being made in the interest of an early peace to reach an agreement on broad lines.

The meeting of the League of Nations Commission of the Peace Conference which was fixed for 3 o'clock this afternoon was postponed, by a decision reached this morning, until tonight in order to permit an uninterrupted day's sitting by the President and the Premiers in their effort to expedite the framing of the peace treaty.

The President and the Premiers held their first meeting for this purpose yesterday, beginning at 11 A. M. and continuing into the evening. The Super-Council, it is expected, will smooth over many of the difficulties facing the Supreme Council.

The session in the afternoon was held in the French War Office. Later Marshal Foch and Major General Thwaites, representing the British Staff in the place of General Wilson, were called in. The Premiers and the President considered advices just received about the military situation in Russia.

In the absence of official communiques, the public has learned little about the meetings of the Premiers and the President, but there is reason to believe that reparation for war damages was the first serious problem they sought to solve. All the data on the British, French, and American positions on this question were before them at the first meeting on Tuesday. It is understood that the data showed agreement on virtually all features except the total amount, on which the experts were unable to agree. Even the textual draft of the reparation articles of the peace treaty are ready, with a blank space waiting for the insertion of the amount.

After settling the reparations question, the Premiers and the President will consider the principal remaining problem—the Franco-German frontier along the Rhine. With these questions determined, the American delegation believes that a prompt conclusion of the peace treaty can be accomplished.

Such an outcome as the conclusion of the treaty by the end of the present week is doubted owing to the great amount of drafting work after the main questions are settled in principle. The drafters are steadily at work while the supercouncil is in session, and each step of progress is followed immediately by the completion of the articles of the treaty.

The same process is being carried on with the draft of the covenant of the League of Nations, which, in addition to being amended, will be rewritten so as to combine clearness with the dignity of a notable State document.

Consider Basis for First Treaty.

LONDON, March 26.—The Paris correspondent of The Pall Mall Gazette says, on high authority, that "in order to avoid perils which would inevitable arise if preliminary peace terms are not drafted until such time as the various commissions shall have finished their labors and have presented their respective reports, the representatives of the great powers have drawn up certain proposals which seem ample to constitute the basis of the first treaty, or one analogous to that signed at Versailles in 1871."

The correspondent adds that these proposals are under the consideration of the inner Council of Four—President Wilson and Premiers Clemenceau, Lloyd George, and Orlando—which has temporarily superseded the Council of Ten, and that this arrangement will greatly expedite decisions.

"A final settlement will not be aimed at," continues the correspondent, "but the terms will be sufficiently firm, drastic, and definite to provide for an enduring peace, justify in large measure early demobilization, simplify the grave international food problem, and pave the way for speedy industrial reconstruction and financial reorganization.

"The principal aims of the proposals now before the inner council are: (1) To insure ample security for the future protection of France, especially on her eastern frontier; (2) to establish a strong Italy, with a formidable northern barrier against aggression; (3) to create a strong Poland; (4) to found a League of Nations pledged, on material as well as moral grounds, to the preservation of world peace."

MAY RENEW PROPOSAL FOR RUSSIAN MEETING

Report Conference Will Act Follows Return to Paris of American Investigator.

PARIS, March 26, (Associated Press.)—The return to Paris of one of the attachés of the American Peace delegation, who has been in Petrograd and elsewhere in Bolshevist Russia, has given rise to a report that there is under consideration a renewal of the plan for bringing the Russian factions together, either directly or through the intermediation of third parties.

If this is not feasible, the plan as reported is to develop clearly the exact aims and propositions of the Soviet Government, so that the problem of the future relations of Central Russia with the Entente and the United States can be dealt with in the light of full information.

Reports by Government agents returning from Russia are much at variance with the impressions which American Commissioners had previously received as to conditions in Soviet Russia. They report that wholesale massacres have generally ceased, that order prevails, and that industries are being resumed. It is said that even the railroads are returning to something like normal service, trains being run between Moscow and Petrograd on schedule time.

Conservative influences are making themselves manifest in every direction in Russia, it is said, and the officials in power appear to realize the necessity of recognizing individual rights to property in order to maintain their authority.

Investigating agents were instructed not to make public any information until the American Commissioners had an opportunity to consider their reports, which are regarded as of utmost importance in forming a possible basis for consideration of any relations eventually to be established with Russia.

GERMANS ADD TO MISSION.

Military Men Named for Peace Conference Delegation.

BERLIN, March 26, (Associated Press.)—The German military representation to the Peace Conference will be made up as follows:

General von Hammerstein, hitherto Military President of the Armistice Commission; Major Von Boeck, a former General Staff officer in the ex-Crown Prince's army group; Lieut. Col. von Aylander, of the Bavarian General Staff; Major Boettcher, of the Saxon General Staff, and Captain Geyer of Wurtemberg.

The mission will be under the control of General von Wrisberg, of the Prussian War Ministry.

BRITISH WORRIED OVER CONFERENCE

PRESS ROUSED BY SECRECY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 26.—Despite reports from Paris that the "Big Four" are making express speed with the peace terms, London opinion remains decidedly pessimistic and despondent.

Ramsay MacDonald's views do not often find support here outside his own particular following, but he reflects widespread opinion when he declares "we are facing today the creation of a red League of Nations as a rival to the Paris League." MacDonald foresees the Soviet tide sweeping West and East. He refers in an article printed in the Manchester Guardian to an extraordinary demonstration of miners in the French Department of Pas de Calais, of which nothing has been said in the English press, and to a vote of the Executive Committee of the Italian Socialist Party declaring allegiance to the Moscow International.

Both The Manchester Guardian and MacDonald urge that complete reversal of the Paris Conference's policy in regard to Russia is one of the first essentials toward real peace. The Guardian calls for a revival of the Prinkipo or similar proposal. Bolshevism has broken through the sanitary cordon which the Allies sought to establish, and Poland is no longer a buffer State, but a peninsula beset behind and before with red revolution.

MacDonald writes:

"Hungary's revolt came when it was told Paris had decided what was to be done with Transylvania without consulting Hungary, and the world has been informed that this is to be the Paris method. This method will probably shatter every Government upon which it is practiced. The Karolyi Government was shaky at best. So is the Scheidemann Government, and it is now more than likely that when the time comes Scheidemann will follow Karolyi's example.

"The only alternative to the present German Government is a Soviet Government or a monarchist and military one, and the latter is almost unthinkable. A Soviet Government will be one of little authority. It will lack personality unless in some unforeseen way it throws up a Lenine or Trotsky, one for political and the other for military purposes. So the German Soviet Government would be an administration without power, but it would not deal with the Allies, but with Russia.

"In Vienna Fritz Adler has the power of vision and caution, but his mind goes in the direction of Bolshevism. He will put the need of feeding his people in the foreground of his policy, but if his hands were free in this respect he would move toward Moscow rather than toward Paris."

Withdrawal of the allied expeditions from Odessa and Archangel is called for as an earnest of the Paris Conference's determination to make a good peace.

It will be noted that the two schools which Ramsay MacDonald and Harold Williams represent arrive from the same premises at entirely different conclusions. It is here believed that President Wilson's view is, roughly, that of MacDonald, while Williams takes the same attitude as the French.

And just at the moment when public disquiet over the proceedings in Paris has reached its highest point "the Big Four" have decided to conduct their business behind a heavy veil of secrecy. From the conservative Times to the radical Star practically the whole British press is united in a demand for greater publicity. The last-named paper says:

"It is incredible that the Big Four should have decided to refuse to make any communication whatever to the press. If a decision so outrageous were promulgated the duty of the allied press would be to withdraw in a body from Paris and leave the Big Four to perish in their vacuum. But we refuse to believe that either Wilson or Lloyd George proposes to commit suicide. Wilson must stand by the League and he must call for the backing of the allied democracies against all its enemies. Publicity we must have, and we must have it at once."

The Daily Chronicle says:

"It is not entirely reassuring to find the heads of the Peace Conference surrounding themselves with a thicker hedge of secrecy. At least, if the public is to be limited for its news to the official communiqués, these should be less jejune than they are. If the remapping and readjustment of Europe is to carry the moral assent of those whom it concerns, there must be some publicity. It will never do for settlements hatched in secret by the Council of Ten—still less for settlements shaped in private conversations between three or four of its members—to be suddenly presented, cut and dried, to the world, for its people to take or leave."

OUR PEACE DELEGATES SEND OPTIMISTIC CABLE

Report to White House Greater Progress Than 'Appears on the Surface.'

WASHINGTON, March 26.—A message to the White House today from the American peace delegation in Paris said that greater progress toward peace was being made than "appeared on the surface."

No details of the progress were given, and White House officials declined to speculate on what developments might have furnished the basis for the dispatch.

In some quarters it was assumed that the American delegates were optimistic over the important amendments to the League of Nations Constitution agreed upon yesterday, including one specifically to exempt domestic questions from the jurisdiction of the League, and over the apparent certainty that the Associated Powers would accept President Wilson's provision designed to safeguard the Monroe Doctrine.

SAYS GERMANY STICKS TO WILSON PROGRAM

If It Should Be Disregarded, Bolshevism Would Gain Immensely, Bernstorff Declares.

PARIS, March 25.—Germany is determined to stick close to the Wilson program in making peace with the Allies, Count von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador to the United States, declared in an interview given to the Berlin correspondent of the Temps, which that newspaper prints today.

"The armistice of Nov. 11," said Count von Bernstorff, "was signed when all the Powers interested had accepted the program of peace proposed by President Wilson. Germany is determined to keep to this agreement, which history will regard, in a way, as the conclusion of a preliminary peace. She herself is ready to submit to the conditions arising from it, and she expects all the interested Powers to do the same. If these essential conditions of the Wilson program should be violated or neglected, and especially if conditions are imposed which go beyond the program, the German delegates would unfortunately find themselves in a position of, say non possumus."

"Germany's attitude on indemnities," continued the former Ambassador, "is fixed by her acceptance of the note of Nov. 5, 1918, whereby reparation is accorded for all damage done to the civil populations of France and Belgium by German aggression. This note admits of the payment of no other indemnities."

Asked what the consequences would be if the fatherland sign a peace, Count von Bernstorff replied:

"I am no prophet, but Bolshevism would gain immensely."

TUMULT IN FRENCH CHAMBER.

PARIS, March 26.—Tumultuous scenes occurred in the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon when the Right and Left engaged in a controversy, each charging the other with being Bolsheviki, while cries of "Liar!" were heard in the midst of the storm of protests. The Socialists were bitter in their criticisms of the address made by Stephen Pichon, the Foreign Minister, in answer to interpellations made by Marcel Cachin and Ernest Lafont on the Government's policy in Russia.

Paul Deschanel, President of the Chamber, was unable to restore order for a long period, and the disorder later resolved itself into a bedlam, in which many Deputies added to the noise by pounding on their desks.

Bay State Legislators for Peace First

BOSTON, March 26.—The Peace Conference is urged to proceed at once to complete the treaty of peace with Germany in resolutions reported to the Legislature today by the Committee on Federal Relations. The resolutions recommend that the establishment of a League of Nations be taken up immediately after peace is concluded.

LINKS PEACE LEAGUE WITH LOWER TAXES

Sovereignty Not Abandoned Nor Monroe Doctrine Sacrificed—Japanese Menace a Bugaboo.

CHICAGO, March 26.—Declaring that there is only one League of Nations constitution before the world and that people must accept this or nothing, Senator G. M. Hitchcock of Nebraska, formerly Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, paused a moment in his speech to the Association of Commerce today and added: "I am for it."

"We need not deceive ourselves with foolish hopes that wars will naturally cease," Senator Hitchcock said. "Experience has shown that they come whether nations are barbarous or civilized, Christian or pagan, educated or illiterate. They will continue in the future as they have in the past unless nations unite in a plan to avoid them. For the first time in history nations are making an effort to do this.

"Will the efforts of the men at Paris succed or fail? The answer is of tremendous importance to families who must furnish soldiers if they do fail. It is of great importance to taxpayers. If the League is not formed the peace signed at Paris will be only a truce, and every nation will resume war preparations on a bigger score than ever. Taxes in the United States to cover these preparations would run into hundreds of millions of dollars a year. Most of this burden would be in the form of taxes on incomes and business profits.

"Prohibition has knocked out several hundred million dollars a year of Government revenue, and public sentiment probably never again submit to the old practice of raising the bulk of the revenue by taxes on the consumer, no matter how they are levied. This may be a cold-blooded way of looking at the question, but I wish to make it plain that the Paris Conference is not entirely academic but affects us all tremendously.

"Perhaps the establishment of a League of Nations never was possible before. A great change, however, has come over the world. In the past the world has been cursed by autocratic governments bent on conquest. Now, however, the nations of the world have become or by our aid may become largely democratic. It should be comparatively simple for them to make an agreement to establish international peace based on justice.

"That is the effort now being made at Paris. America leads. Her representatives are devoting their energies to securing for humanity the great boon of a world free from future wars. In this historic effort the leader is the American President, Woodrow Wilson.

"Shall we support this effort or repudiate it? Already opposition is strongly developed. Considering these objections it was first said the League would be a sort of super-nation, with a great standing army and navy capable of destroying any particular nation. The objection disappeared as soon as the League constitution was published.

"Second, the objection was made that the United States surrendered a part of its sovereignty by entering the League. It has now become evident that neither the United States nor any other nation surrenders anything, as the League is not a government and has no sovereign powers.

"Third, objection has been made that the United States abandons the Monroe Doctrine. How can this doctrine be abandoned by joining a League which proposes to put a stop to aggressions by force against every nation, including those in America?

"Fourth, objection has been made that British self-governing colonies, like Canada and Australia, may be admitted to the League, which, it is claimed, would give Great Britain five votes to our one. If it were true, it would not matter because all important questions must be decided by unanimous vote. Also, these colonies are now almost completely independent of Great Britain, and Canada, especially, has many interests in common with the United States.

"Fifth, it has been objected that Japan might insist on having the League settle the immigration question and through the League force us to admit Japanese. If she could she could also force us to change our laws of marriage and divorce, taxation, or any other domestic question. The League, however, deals only with international questions and has no relation to domestic affairs.

"I feel that these objections will be brushed aside, and that men will meet the big issues squarely. Our answer must be 'yes' or 'no,' and I am sure there is but one correct answer, and that is 'yes.'

"I believe that the people of the world will accept the League as it has been prepared in Paris because they must realize the promises the nations make to each other will act as an effectual preventive of war."

WOULD BAR FOE FROM RHINE

Right Bank Must Not Belong to Prussia, Says Franklin-Bouillon.

PARIS, March 25.—"The right bank of the Rhine must not belong to Prussia," said Henry Franklin-Bouillon, former Minister of Missions Abroad, in a bitter speech against what he charged was the dilatoriness of the Allies and the silence of the Government, delivered in the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon.

"The right bank of the Rhine," continued the Deputy, "must serve no more as a base for Prussian aggressions against France. We ask this indispensable minimum, and it is our right to exact it.

"The silence of the Government and its other methods have culminated in the maximum of unrest in the country and the maximum of anarchy outside of it. Germany begins to raise her head. It was with anguish that we learned that France had not exacted the disarmament of Germany, and that it was England who was obliged to seek to disarm Germany for the benefit of France."

The Deputy declared that the Russian policy of the French Government was weak and uncertain, adding: "It is necessary to be either for or against the Bolsheviki."

He complained also that the voice of France was not heard sufficiently in the "concert of nations."

CALLS LEAGUE INTOLERABLE

Senate and People Against It, Poindexter Tells Cincinnatians.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, March 26.—Senator Poindexter of Washington, Republican, addressing the Business Men's Club here tonight, declared that the proposed League of Nations plan was "utterly intolerable" in whatever form it might be developed and was unacceptable to the Senate and the American people. He said "union of action and co-operation" was highly desirable if it did not involve "surrender of the independence and sovereignty of the free nations of the world."

"Under the constitution of the League of Nations or any constitution based upon similar principles," said Mr. Poindexter, "the autonomy and self-determination of the individual nations would be absolutely destroyed. In other words, while pretending to preserve liberty, it would by this very act at once destroy the liberties of the world and set up a monstrous military despotism in its place.

"Europe with its community of interests may feel that it can control the proposed League of Nations and undoubtedly it can. The United States, however, with a different set of interests, having paid the fearful cost of its entry into the war against Germany to preserve liberty, would make a monstrous mistake now to surrender that very liberty to a different form of world government in the shape of a League of Nations with authority and power to enforce its decrees upon the United States."

KAISER IN FLIGHT ADVISED SON TO STAY

Crown Prince Wrote Hindenburg That Ludendorff Ignored His Peace Advice.

COPENHAGEN, March 26, (Associated Press.)—The Deutsche Zeitung of Berlin has published some letters illustrating the attitude of the German Emperor and the Crown Prince last November, according to a dispatch from the German capital.

The Emperor wrote to Frederick William on Nov. 9:

"My Dear Boy: After the Court Chamberlain informed me that it was impossible longer to guarantee my safety at Main Headquarters and that the troops were no longer trustworthy, I resolved, after a severe mental struggle, to leave the army, which had collapsed, and go to Holland. I advise you to stick to your post until the conclusion of an armistice.

"In Berlin two Governments, under the leadership of Ebert and Liebknecht, are fighting against each other. Hope to see you again in happier times.

"Your faithful, deeply afflicted father,

"WILHELM."

The Crown Prince, on Nov. 11, wrote to Premier Ebert, asking permission to remain at his post so that he might bring his army back in a well-disciplined and orderly manner. The Government refused his request, whereupon the Crown Prince, in a letter to Field Marshal von Hindenburg, resigned his command, declaring that he acted under deep emotion and after a hard internal struggle against a course repugnant to his nature.

In his letter the Crown Prince proceeded to justify his attitude against those representing him as a war instigator and reactionary. He declared he had always taken the standpoint that the war, for Germany, was a war of defense. He had repeatedly during 1916, 1917, and 1918 urged the persons concerned that Germany must by every possible means endeavor to terminate the war and be glad at maintaining herself against the entire world on the basis of the status quo.

"I had long pleaded with General Ludendorff," he asserted, "for a wise peace by understanding under the favorable opportunity when we occupied strong positions during and before the Spring offensive. As regards international policies, I would be the last person to oppose the liberal development of our Constitution, and I represented this in writing to Prince Max. Nevertheless, when the great event hurled my father from his throne, not only was I not heard, but was simply passed over as the Crown Prince and heir to the throne.

"No renunciation was either demanded of or made by me."

WANT WAR UPON HUNGARY

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

less appeals from that city for munitions, with assurances that if it had supplies it could hold out successfully, even if no reinforcements were sent. It was possible to respond to that appeal, but no munitions were sent and no plans were formulated for sending anything. That is an illustration of the manner in which the Allies' Peace Conference has allowed the Eastern European situation to go from bad to worse through sheer neglect, waste of time, and other matters."

Karolyi a Tool of Germany?

The same Foreign Office man expressed the opinion that Karolyi was working in co-operation with Germany when he turned over Hungary to the Bolsheviki. This, he said, was in accord with what seemed to be the German plan to let Bolshevism overrun the world, including Germany, with the hope that Germany would recover first, and thereby be in a position to become the dominant nation instead of a conquered country.

One thing that Hungary has done for Paris is to give at least an atmosphere of hurry, as indicated by the shelving of the Council of Ten and the assuming of the executive directing control of all Conference affairs by Wilson, Clemenceau, Lloyd George, and Orlando.

A curious thing about this change is that Japan drops out as suddenly and mysteriously as she came into the inner circle. In the beginning of the Conference we heard much about the "Big Four." Then, without any explanation or warning, it became the "Big Five" by the addition of Japan. Now by this latest change the Japanese delegates apparently have no place in the inner group—a fact that causes no grief whatever in the Chinese delegation headquarters.

Japan had embarrassed the situation by her demand for an equality of races clause in the League of Nations covenant. One cynical explanation of this was that Japan had put forward an ethical principle for trading purposes, being ready to withdraw it on the assurance that she would be allowed to continue in possession of Kiao-Chau and other Chinese territory on the Shantung Peninsula.

HUGHES POINTS TO FLAWS IN COVENANT

guarantee to apply to unknown and unforeseeable contingencies? Why not leave the future to conference and decision in the light of events?"

The members and their guests, listening attentively to the points made by the speaker, applauded for the first time when he read from the 1914 address of Elihu Root on "The Real Monroe Doctrine," the declaration that the substance of the doctrine "is and always has been that the safety of the United States demands that American territory shall remain American."

There was more applause when Mr. Hughes said: "It is idle to say that the covenant in its present form adequately safeguards our traditional policy." He added that in this vital matter there was no reason why this country should trust to "equivocal clauses or vague assurances." Other references to the Monroe Doctrine were applauded, especially the words of President Lowell of Harvard and ex-President Taft, suggesting amendment, so that no foreign power shall in any way come into possession of land in or adjacent to America.

In conclusion, Mr. Hughes said that "it should be remembered that the great protection against war for a considerable period of years will be found not in any form of words that may now be adopted, however desirable these may be, but in economic conditions which are an assurance that for a considerable time at least we shall not have a recurrence of world strife."

Sees Danger in Disorders.

"The danger now lies," he added, "not in the menace of force employed to further imperial designs, but in the disorder due to the break-up and the removal of traditional restraints and the tendency to revolution within States. In making commitments it should be remembered that while it is highly important that at this time we should do everything that is practicable to promote peace and to secure stable conditions, we should be cautious in making promises which are to be redeemed in unknown contingencies."

The greatest outburst of applause occurred when, in almost the final words of his address ex-Justice Hughes said: "It was not the red flag but the Stars and Stripes for which we fought."

In his opening remarks Mr. Hughes urged that the problem be considered without partisan bias. After saying that it was conceded that the covenant was poorly drafted, even by those who were in favor of it, he asserted that the American people were entitled to a better piece of work, and much would have been gained if at the outset a part of the time expended in its praise had been devoted to its correction.

Asserting that the covenant contains no plan for the establishment of a permanent court of international justice, Mr. Hughes went on to say that it was extraordinary that clear and specific provision should not have been made as to the vote by which the body of delegates and the Executive Council, respectively, should act.

In cases where unanimity is not necessary, he thought that there was a manifest lack of proportion in voting power when the States which are members of the League are considered with respect to area, population, and wealth. He asserted that in the body of delegates such states as Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, and Chile, if members of the League, would each have but one vote, and the United States would have but one. And the self-governing dominions of Great Britain would also each have one vote.

Taking up Article XI., which proposes that any war or threat of war is a matter for concern to the League and that the high contracting parties reserve the right to take any action they deem wise, Mr. Hughes said that when this clause was properly understood and confined to the proper sphere of international conference it was "flexible and practicable," providing the machinery for consultation, mediation, and conciliation, committing to no action but leaving the door open for co-operation.

"Important as it is that there should be broad opportunity for consultation, mediation, and conciliation, it is equally important that this opportunity should not be made the occasion of intrusive inquiries into internal concerns," he continued, taking up the subject of immigration, tariff laws, and other internal matters. "Attempts to make such concerns the subjects of inquiry by the League would tend to its disruption and would be likely to breed troubles rather than to cure them.

"While the authority does not extend beyond the domain of recommendation, the jurisdiction should be properly defined, else that which is intended to heal difficulties may create them. If the United States proposes to regard her immigration laws, her tariff laws, and her laws relating to the regulation of commerce, including her coastwise traffic, as matters of her exclusive concern, then there should be appropriate qualifications to the general words of the covenant, both with respect to the field of the League's inquiries and as to the submission of disputes.

"The suggestion that it is unwise to refer particularly to such matters as immigration and the tariff shows conclusively that it would be the height of unwisdom not to refer to them. The very fact that even now, when any reasonable request should not go unheeded, we are told that, although such matters are of internal concern, reference should not be expressly made to them as belonging in that category, shows conclusively that it is not safe to trust this matter to the future.

Wants "Explicit Provision."

"On this matter there should be candid and explicit provision in order that the nation may be properly advised of what it is proposed to do. I must assume until the contrary is established that those in charge of our interests at Paris will see to it that the covenant is suitably amended in this respect."

The assertion by some of the covenant's proponents that it extended the Monroe Doctrine to the world was referred to by Mr. Hughes as "a singularly infelicitous and inaccurate description of the effect of the covenant upon a doctrine which is nothing if not a distinctly national policy." The guaranty in Article X., he said, besides being highly objectionable, could not be regarded as an adequate substitute for the Monroe Doctrine. It was then that Mr. Hughes read from the 1914 speech of Mr. Root. Amendment such as suggested by President Lowell regarding the Monroe Doctrine, said the speaker, was vital to the just interests of the United States.

Although in favor of eliminating the guarantee in Article X. binding the United States to preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity of all members of the League, Mr. Hughes said:

On the other hand, if in our conception of our duty, clarified by our experience in the great war, we should conclude that we should go to war to preserve the territorial integrity of another State, or in defense of liberty and civilization, we should respond with heartiness to that call of duty in the absence of Article X."

"I think that it is a fallacy to suppose that helpful co-operation in the future will be assured by the attempted compulsion of an inflexible rule," continued the speaker. "Rather will such co-operation depend upon the fostering of firm friendships, springing from an appreciation of community of ideals, interests, and purposes, and such friendships are more likely to be promoted by freedom of conference than by the effort to create hard and fast engagements."

Taking up constitutional questions and their relation to the proposed covenant, Mr. Hughes said:

"It is a very serious matter for the treaty-making power to enter into an engagement calling for action by Congress unless there is every reason to believe that Congress will act accordingly. Assuming that this could be expected with respect to the legislation required by Article XVI., it is manifest that when the covenant calls for the making of war there can be no such assurance. And this does not mean that Congress will repudiate an admitted obligation, but that Congress may conclude that the obligation does not exist because in such a matter it could not be imposed. From such a decision there could be no appeal."

The last topic Mr. Hughes discussed before making his suggestions for amendment was the one concerning mandatories, and he thought that the mandatory plan had decided merits. It did not follow, however, that the United States should assume the obligation of a mandatory in the Eastern Hemisphere.

"Such an undertaking would present the most serious questions," he asserted. "It is clear that we ought not to be put in a position where we would be bound, even morally, to accept such a designation. The right to refuse to be a mandatory should be distinctly reserved."

OF course you'll come back with the answer, "Because he takes hold and keeps hold." And that's correct.

It is this tenacity of purpose, this holding on "for the last fifteen minutes," that makes him a good fighter and a winner. That, also, is the American spirit. It was the spirit of the famous "Lost Battalion" over in France, the Battalion which held on so hard that even their enemies envied them.

That's the kind of fighters Uncle Sam had in his army. That's the kind of fighters he wants here at home.

Uncle Sam still needs your money—You still need to save

And, remember this: you have got a real grip on the habit of sensible spending and wise saving. You've got your teeth fixed in the coat-tails of opportunity. Don't let go!

Campaign There Was Organized by Radovsky, Lenine Agent, Now Chief in Ukraine.

BOLSHEVISM SPREADS FAST

Though Bankrupt in Northern and Central Russia, It Is Reaching Out Into Untried Fields.

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 26.—The Bolsheviki have secured in Budapest an excellent strategical position. As always, the heterogeneous entity in Paris has given them the opportunity they badly needed at the moment.

Lenine saw the possibilities of Budapest long ago, and just after the armistice he sent there his friend, Radovsky, who was received by the Karolyi Government and permitted to carry on propaganda among the Slovaks, Serbs, and Transylvanian Rumanians. He also worked among the Magyars, and when he returned to Russia he left behind him a band of trained agents, well supplied, and a following among the returned prisoners of war who had been subjected to an intense propaganda in Russia.

In the meantime, again owing to the collective supineness of the allied powers, the Bolsheviki were allowed to overrun the Ukraine, and Radovsky is now President of the Ukrainian Soviet Republic.

Radovsky, it should be noted, is an expert in Balkan propaganda. He is a Rumanian subject, and during the war he published in Bucharest a Socialist paper with German funds. He was arrested, but was released in Jassy by Russian revolutionary troops, and afterward he joined Lenine in his destructive campaign against Budapest. Thus he is extremely useful to the Bolsheviki at the present juncture.

The Russian Bolsheviki, in their advance southward and westward, have reached the frontiers of Galicia and the boundary of Bessarabia. Bessarabia, under Rumanian military rule, is seething with discontent which has assumed Bolshevist forms and shows signs of spreading into Hungary, which is unsettled and exhausted, and into Rumania to a little extent.

The Ukraine is struggling hopelessly in a corner of Eastern Galicia and will be tempted to throw in its lot with the Russian Bolsheviki on the one side and the Magyars on the other in order to defend itself against the Poles and Rumanians.

Poland, isolated from the Allies, is in a state of suspended animation and exposed to the full force of Bolshevist propaganda and attack by Czechoslovakia, but is struggling bravely to maintain its newly won national liberty. But the Bolshevist propaganda, under the leadership of a man named Muna, is active even there.

Vienna, strongly tempted by the example of Budapest, is straining at the leash, and prevented from turning Bolshevist only by the knowledge that it depends on the Allies for food. Jugo-Slavia, so far, has been comparatively free from Bolshevism, but it is well known that Lenine's propaganda agents have been paying most particular attention to Italy.

The Magyars are a fighting race, but I do not believe that for the present the Magyar Bolsheviki will be able to raise a very effective fighting force. But if Budapest is allowed to remain Bolshevist, it will become the centre of a most powerful contagion which will swiftly cross the frontiers. The atmosphere is favorable, and if no strong action is taken at once, the Peace Conference may find itself in the position of the Allies in Odessa—exposed to the shameful possibility of ejection by a tidal wave of Bolshevism. One grows weary of repeating that Bolshevism ought from the first to have been seriously grappled with at its source in Russia.

It is significant that, at a time when Bolshevism is morally and physically bankrupt in Northern and Central Russia, where the terrible results of its rule are so glaringly visible, it should be allowed to adventure at will into untried fields in the west.

Bolshevist papers are full of complaints of the desertion en masse of soldiers of the Red Army. Kolchak's ill-equipped army has retaken Ufa and is advancing toward Samara; but, as though moved by some fatal impulse, the allied powers open fresh doors to enable the Bolsheviki to escape their first retribution.

Let the Peace Conference deliberate, by all means, but it can only deliberate in safety if it recognizes that it is charged with the government of Europe now, and that it can only govern if it makes it possible for all nations and peoples and tongues at least to live in the meantime.

RED ENVOY EX-NEW YORKER.

Bolgar, in Vienna for Hungarian Soviet, Tells of His Work Here.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, March 25, (via Geneva, March 26.)—The first Minister of the Hungarian Bolshevist republic, Alexis Bolgar, has just arrived in Vienna. Interviewed, he stated that he had lived many years in New York, where he studied Socialist conditions, published a Hungarian Socialist paper, and lectured at Worcester University, [probably Clark University of Worcester, Mass.]

He said further that the amalgamation of the Socialist and Communist Parties took place in a prison cell where the present Foreign Minister, Bela Kun, was imprisoned. The next task was absolute reconstruction of economical and social life on a Communist basis, including, also, theatres, art, and the professions.

Communism, he concluded, was essentially anti-militarist and pacifist, but the Red Guard was necessary to defend Communistic achievements.

Alexis Bolgar lived in New York City several years ago and published The People's Will, a Hungarian Socialist paper, which appeared bi-weekly and has since gone out of existence. It was stated at the offices of the Hungarian Socialist paper, The Elore, that Bolgar had returned to Hungary before the war started in 1914.

REPROACHES THE ENTENTE.

Prominent Hungarian Says It Drove His Country to Bolshevism.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, March 25.—The situation in Hungary is considered here to be very grave, the general impression being that it may have a repercussion on the Peace Conference. The whole country considers it indispensable that the problems of the Paris Conference be decided in the shortest possible time. In all circles there is a call for haste. The Idea Nazionale, commenting on the Hungarian situation, publishes an interview obtained by its correspondent in Switzerland with an important Magyar personage who reflects the personal ideas of Count Karolyi.

"Hungary would not have taken such an extreme resolution," this personage says, "if it had not been forced to it. For five months Hungary worked to cancel her past policy, to repudiate the errors and crimes committed by the men of the old régime, to convince the Entente that it was confronted by a new Hungary, by different men determined scrupulously to apply the principles of President Wilson. We prostrated ourselves; we kissed the Entente's feet. It treated us with kicks. No injustice was spared us on the part of the Czechs, while Serbia and Rumania treated Hungary like mangy dogs, only worthy of kicks.

"Karolyi did everything in his power to get into closer contact with the Entente, to persuade it of the sincerity of his proposals, and to convince it that the Hungary of today was not that of yesterday. Karolyi was known for his Francophile sentiments. He asked nothing but an honest application of Wilson's program. We have been pulled by our hair. Therefore the responsibility for this act of ours falls in great part on the incapacity of some political men of the Entente."

Hungarian Move Releases Men on Various Fronts, Berlin Thinks.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

BERLIN, March 24.—The Austrian Government has been forced by food conditions to limit its support of Budapest to the moral variety. That only lack of food prevents German Austria from following the lead of Hungary shows how additionally difficult and dangerous the situation is.

Those who watch events here believe that new forces are being sent against the Germans and Poles, and that Lenine can now release forces from the Don and Ural regions and from the Czecho-slovak front. The forces operating against Bolshevism in the north are scattered and, some say here, unreliable to a certain extent. It is believed that the danger at present is on the East Russian frontier, and a Bolshevist onslaught there is greatly feared.

AMERICAN MISSION SAFE.

Captain Roosevelt Has Left Hungarian Capital for Paris.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, March 26.—The American mission in Budapest is safe. It was respected by the Government.

Captain Nicholas Roosevelt has left Budapest for Paris to report on Budapest events to the American peace delegation. Professor Philip Brown remains in Budapest.

TO MAKE REPORT AT PARIS.

Professor Coolidge Leaves Vienna to Inform Delegates of Situation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, March 25.—Professor Coolidge, chief of the American Mission in Vienna, has left for Paris to report on the present political and social conditions in Austria and Hungary, with bearing on Hungarian events. Professor Coolidge expects to be absent ten days.

SEAPLANES THRILL JAMAICA.

American Machines in First Airplane Flight Over Kingston.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 25.—The American warships which have been here for several days left today for Guantanamo.

At the request of the citizens, four seaplanes flew over Kingston before the departure of the vessels. They were visible from all parts of the city, and, as this was the first airplane flight ever seen here, some consternation was caused among the natives.

Spain Is Quieting Down.

MADRID, March 26.—Premier Romanones, in discussing the situation in Spain with newspaper men last night, said that Barcelona, one of the main centres of unrest, was quiet. Shops and restaurants there were open and the municipal services were returning to normal. The railway services in Catalonia, he said, were quiet and normal.

Coblenz Paper Disciplined.

COBLENZ, March 25. (Associated Press.)—The morning and evening editions of the Coblenz Gazette were today ordered suspended for three days by General Dickman for criticising the Allies in connection with an article on developments in Hungary.

KAROLYI ARRESTED BY REDS

sary, Tchitcherin, instructing the Hungarian Soviet to arrest the Allied missions at present in Hungary and to hold them as hostages.

It now develops that Karolyi had long been planning his betrayal of civilization to Bolshevism. Upon his advent to power, Karolyi imagined that the Entente would welcome him with open arms and allow the Hungarians to maintain their domination over foreign nationalities. When the French troops entered Hungary, the Count greeted General Franchet D'Esperey with the optimistic words:

"Since Nov. 1, 1918, Hungary is neutral."

The General replied coldly:

"No, she is vanquished."

From that day on Karolyi hated the Allies, and at once began intriguing with the Bolsheviki. While pretending to suppress the Bolshevist movement in Hungary, he secretly supported the Soviet's propaganda in Transylvania and Slovakia, and joined forces with Pogany, President of the Budapest Workmen's Council. A few weeks before his coup, Karolyi was heard to declare publicly:

"I shall not rest until Bolshevism is established in Paris."

In his farewell address, Karolyi declares that he is willing to serve as a private in the Red Guard, but in reality he continues to be politically active behind the scenes, for several of the new Commissaries of the People, like Kunfi and Pogany, were already members of his Cabinet.

The Hungarian Soviet has thus an unmistakable character of camouflage.

The events in Hungary have caused a panic in Bucharest, Warsaw and Prague. Rumania is once more cut off from the Entente, and already regiments of Hungarian prisoners formed in Russia by the Bolsheviki are preparing to force a passage through her territory.

The Bolshevist triumph in Hungary is held here to be a warning to the Paris Conference that swift and armed intervention, based on adequate military support by the Allies of Polish, Czechoslovak, Serbian and Rumanian forces, can alone save Central and Southeastern Europe from Lenine's clutches.

KOLCHAK PURSUES BROKEN RED ARMY

Annihilates Three Regiments and Captures Many Men and Much Booty.

ALLIES ATTACK IN NORTH

Fighting to Recover Lost Villages—Polish Victories at Grodno and Pinsk Confirmed.

LONDON, March 26, (via Montreal.)—The troops of the Kolchak Government who pierced the Bolshevist front on a thirty-mile sector on March 11 continue their progress and the position of the Bolsheviki is precarious, according to a Reuter dispatch from Omsk. The Kolchak Army has completed the capture of Osa, southwest of Perm, and is driving the Bolshevist Army westward in three directions.

The Bolsheviki are abandoning large quantities of stores, while the Kolchak troops have taken a large number of prisoners and annihilated three Bolshevist regiments.

WITH THE ALLIED FORCES IN NORTH RUSSIA, March 24, (Associated Press.)—The Bolsheviki are intrenching and reinforcing both their infantry and artillery at Boishola-Ozera and are endeavoring to hold this important point in the line of the allied communications between Obozerskaia and Onega.

Yesterday the Americans and British attacked from the west side of the village and the Russians, supported by Americans and British, attacked from the east along the road. Fighting under the utmost difficulties, the allied troops were unable to advance beyond the line of enemy machine guns, while the Bolshevist artillery maintained a certain sweep of the winding high road through the woods.

Struggling waist deep in the soft drifting snow of the forests, the forces striking from the east found a flanking movement impracticable, and they were able to progress only at the rate of two-thirds of a mile an hour.

Today the allied troops were bivouacked along the road on both sides of the village within good artillery range.

The weather during the last few days has again been extremely cold and the American and other troops living in igloo-like arctic tents, are finding their first opportunity to test these shelters. They are holding the line to Onega and Obozerskala. Their big guns are moving up, drawn by American mules, who are steadily plodding ahead and conquering the steep icy hills and the deep drifts. The airplanes, equipped with runners instead of wheels for alighting on the snow, have bombed Bolshoia-Ozera.

PARIS, March 26.—The recent Polish victories over the Bolsheviki in the Pinsk and Grodno districts are officially reported by Polish headquarters here in a statement given out as follows:

"The administration of the City of Grodno has been formally taken over by the Polish authorities. The Bolshevist armies occupying the city and district of Pinsk have been beaten by the Poles. The Bolsheviki, in full flight, left behind many cannon, machine guns, ammunition, locomotives, railway material, and 500,000 rubles."

RUSSIAN BELITTLES THE BOLSHEVIST ARMY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, March 24.—Now that Bolshevism in Europe has gained from Hungary such an accession of strength, special interest attaches to a statement of Dr. Hessen, editor of the Petrograd newspaper Retch, who has been interviewed by the Berlingske Tidende on his arrival in Copenhagen. This statement gives a painful idea of the starvation at present prevailing in Russia and of the absolutely prohibitive scale of prices. The miseries of the country are now added to by a virulent outbreak of spotted fever, which has led to the suspension as a preventive measure, of all railway passenger traffic since March 18.

The most interesting part of the statement, however, in the present circumstances, is that in which Dr. Hessen discusses the Russian Bolshevist army. Is it only mythical? Dr. Hessen says that the army doesn't really exist at all, at least as an army in a military sense. Originally a volunteer army, it is now conscripted on the basis of an age limit which is fixed arbitrarily from month to month. But this conscription is not applied to the towns, but only to the poor, illiterate peasants who do not understand one atom of the whole business. They are without land, without food, without warmth and light, and when called to the army, which offers them most of these things, naturally they go. The knowledge of the death penalty ordained for those who desert keeps many of them in it, but not all. Dr. Hessen tells how some time ago 3,000 men had to march from one of the barracks in Petrograd to the railway station. When the detachment arrived there, there were only thirty men left, the rest having deserted on the way.

As another example of the state of affairs in the army, it is mentioned that at certain manoeuvres a brigade of heavy artillery refused to obey and armored cars had to be brought up to enforce orders.

The workers in the towns are drifting away from Bolshevism and all its works and armies. The Bolshevist leaders said that their program was peace, and the workers seem to be determined to insist on this plank in the program, even though denounced by the authorities as rebels.

"If," says Dr. Hessen, "a foreign army—and it would not require to be a large one—were to march into Russia at this moment and give confidence in its strength and determination, the Bolshevist army would at once disband itself, and the whole people would at once rally around it as a deliverer."

But, it may be commented, armies have before now achieved great things when tempted by the lure of foreign conquest.

RIOTERS IN EGYPT SACKED 2,000 HOUSES

Scores of Natives Killed by Troops After Trains and Stations Had Been Looted.

CAIRO, March 26.—The official reports of the riots in Egypt show that 2,000 houses in villages were sacked.

On March 14 several British soldiers were murdered, and a mob sacked and burned the stations at El-Rekkah and El-Wasta. On March 15 the express from Cairo was pillaged, and several other trains were sacked. An employe of the State railway was murdered. On March 16 the mob raided the police station at Miniet Camp and released prisoners. It then attacked the station, and the military picket was obliged to fire. Thirty natives were killed and nineteen wounded. Several thousand natives attacked the station tank, and the troops and police were obliged to fire. Twenty-two natives were killed and fifty wounded.

The disorders in Cairo were checked with the least possible employment of force. Altogether sixty-nine natives were killed and eight wounded here. The behavior of the Cairo police was excellent.

SETBACK FOR FRENCH IN UKRAINE VENTURE

Churchill Tells Commons of Situation in Anti-Bolshevist Parts of Russia.

LONDON, March 26.—Discussing the situation in Russia today in the House of Commons, Winston Spencer Churchill, Secretary for War, said that events during the last two or three months in Ukraine had been extremely disastrous to the French. He said they had entered from the south and had gone some distance from the coast, when they were confronted by superior forces and encountered hostility from the people. The Secretary pointed out that this latter feature was something which "must be carefully weighed, as it showed the danger that might result from rash or ill-considered action."

Kherson and Nikolaiev have been taken and Odessa is being defended by French, Greek and Russian forces against Bolshevist attacks, he said. The position of the Bolsheviki near Odessa, he pointed out, has exposed Rumania to a very direct threat of invasion, which, with the Hungarians advancing on the other side, has made the situation very difficult.

In speaking of General Denekine's army, the Secretary said that it was Great Britain's policy to give it support, but not to involve any British troops. He said that General Denekine is "fighting desperately for his native land and for the world's civilization." There is a British mission with General Denekine, and medical supplies, munitions, instructors and technical advisors are being furnished. He said that General Denekine had suffered a severe reverse while advancing toward Novo Tcherkask, but, by striking back toward the Caspian, he had successfully taken 30,000 prisoners. The British retain control of the Caspian, but there is a Bolshevist fleet at Astrakhan, where the harbor is at present icebound.

Small detachments of British troops stretching toward the frontiers of India are holding back without serious fighting Bolshevist emissaries seeking to advance and spread disturbances there.

Admiral Kolchak's armies in Siberia have done well in the northern sector, although not so successful further south, Mr. Churchill said, adding:

"The British have a handful of men there as a symbol and guarantee of the authority of Admiral Kolchak. The Government has supplied Admiral Kolchak's armies with a very large number of rifles, some cannon and other munitions by the way of the Siberian Railroad. It is intended to continue this support by sending technical instructors and experts to Siberia."

Replying to a question, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs Harmsworth said the Bolshevist Government arrested the British mission in the Caucasus last October and the men were now incarcerated in Moscow. They were allowed a certain amount of exercise, Mr. Harmsworth said, and extra food comforts were supplied by the British Government through the medium of the Red Cross.

VILLARD PITIES GERMANY.

Punished Enough, He Cables—Would Compel Red Cross to Aid.

Oswald Garrison Villard, who has been in Europe for some months, has sent two cable dispatches to his paper, The Nation, which were sent only to other newspapers yesterday. Mr. Villard, in these messages, says that the situation within the German nation is so grave that unless food is speedily forthcoming from the Allies the country will be turned over to Bolshevism and "Europe will be pulled down with them." He has just returned to Paris after four weeks in Germany, and it was impossible to exaggerate the conditions he had found.

"If humanitarian America," says Mr. Villard, "could realize the actual state of affairs it would compel the Red Cross to rush in food, milk, oils, grease, and soap. It is now agreed that food will be sent in, and fats, too, but milk and grease as well are needed."

Mr. Villard expresses the opinion that the moral superiority of the Allies is steadily waning, and that a bitter hatred, especially against the French, which did not exist at the time of the surrender, is rising in Germany. There is now talk of revenge, he said, which did not exist before. He adds that it is the universal belief that the Government will not sign any extreme peace terms, but will invite the enemies to enter and take over the country.

One of Mr. Villard's dispatches contains these statements:

"The spread of Bolshevism in Germany is remarkable. At least 500 Russian agents in Berlin are known to the Government, which is honestly and deeply concerned about the presence of the Trotzky army on the frontier.

* * * When I was in Munich the Soviet leader there received offer of unlimited sums from Berlin capitalists if they would go to the edge of the French zone of occupation to start propaganda in France. The feeling now being aroused makes against the hope of permanent peace and Wilson's plan."

"It now looks," he says, "as if Senator Lodge were right—that peace should have been made first and the League afterward, though not for the reasons which he wishes to further."

Fair-minded Americans, Mr. Villard says, if they had seen what he has seen would agree that Germany is now punished enough, and that the continuance of the blockade simply means suffering and death for the most innocent.

GERMAN WAR COST IS $46,500,000,000

Minister Schiffer States That the Annual Interest on the Debt Is $1,975,000,000.

TAXES TO BE QUADRUPLED

Funds to be Provided for Trade Propaganda—$25,000 for Ebert's Expenses.

COPENHAGEN, March 26. — German revenues from 1914 to the end of 1918 amounted to 17,000,000,000 marks, the German Minister of Finance, Dr. Schiffer, stated in a memorandum presented to the National Assembly at Weimar. The war expenditures totaled 186,000,000,000 marks, to which should be added the cost of demobilization.

The memorandum showed that war damages in Germany amounted to 4,500,000,000 marks, and claims of shipowners to 1,500,000,000 marks, and that 5,000,000,000 marks was spent for the relief of the families of dead soldiers.

The debts contracted by the Government during the war aggregated 157,700,000,000 marks, the annual interest on which was 7,900,000,000 marks.

Dr. Schiffer estimated that the national annual expenditures for the future would be 14,000,000,000 marks, compared to 2,400,000,000 marks before the war. The annual expenditures of individual States and communes in the future would be 5,000,000,000 marks, compared to 3,000,000,000 before the war.

The total amount to be covered by taxation in the future would be 19,000,000,000 marks each year. Before the war 5,000,000,000 marks was raised by taxation.

BERLIN, March 25, (Associated Press.)—The German Government has not yet been able to prepare a new budget for 1919, and has submitted to the National Assembly provisional estimates for April, May, and June. These estimates include an authorization to issue Treasury certificates totaling 3,000,000,000 marks to cover expenditures.

A number of new appropriations in addition to the payment of regular current expenses are authorized in the estimates. One of these provides for funds to establish a commercial news service in the Foreign Office to help German foreign trade.

The measure fixes the salaries of the Ministers at 64,000 marks annually. This sum covers house rent and expenses "of representation."

President Ebert is to receive 100,000 marks for social expenses and entertainment.

In asking for a credit of 10,000,000 marks in the Prussian Assembly today Herr Suedekum, the Minister of Finance, told the Assembly that the debts of the State of Prussia would amount to 6,000,000,000 marks by the end of May. The total deficit would be 2,400,000,000 marks, the Minister said, which was "unprecedented, and must be termed catastrophic."

WAR COST $260,000,000,000.

Crammond Includes Indirect Losses—Predicts Unprecedented Trade.

LONDON, March 25, (British Wireless Service.)—Edgar Crammond, a prominent British financial writer, estimates the direct cost of the war to the Allies at £28,300,000,000, and to the Central European Powers at £13,675,000,000. He estimates the total cost of the war, including indirect losses, at £52,000,000,000.

There has been nothing, he says, approaching this destruction of capital wealth in the history of the world. The immediate result of the upheaval is to be found in the high cost of living and universal increase of wages. Judging from past experience, he concludes that the fall in the price of commodities and wages will take place slowly and gradually.

The war has enormously increased the power of production in Great Britain, and Mr. Crammond is convinced that this, at the present time, is at least 50 per cent. over the production of 1913.

Through all the economic records of the past, Mr. Crammond says, it is possible to trace an advance in the standard of living for the masses concurrently with an increase in the amount of money in circulation and a decline in the purchasing power of money.

In the light of these conclusions, he is unable to see any real grounds for depression and anxiety about Great Britain's economic future, and he predicts that the nations are on the eve of a period of intense activity in trade such as the world has never known.

corps districts, and would have something less than 250,000 men.

Throughout Prussia steps were taken for the Reichwehr fairly in harmony with the brigade district plan. There is a notable exception, for the old third corps district has the von Lüttwitz volunteer army corps of approximately 50,000 men, and thus has several brigades. This corps has absorbed the volunteers of the old 15th, 16th, and 21st Corps districts of Alsace-Lorraine.

There has been no attempt in Bavaria to organize Reichwehr brigades on the Norske plan, and in Württemburg and Saxony little has been done in that direction. The Duchy of Brunswick is demanding a Reichwehr brigade of its own.

The Americans believe that there is ground for suspicion that Germany has a considerable force of volunteers stationed or assembling where they may be available in the event of renewed conflicts with the Poles, either in the Posen or Danzig regions.

The Commander of the 7th Corps at Münster has issued an order establishing training schools for non-commissioned officers at all garrison towns, similar to the schools in operation at Detmold.

PREPARING TO SHARE RULE WITH SOVIETS

German Plan Called Three-Chamber System—Move for War Blame Inquiry.

BERLIN, March 25, (Associated Press.)—The German Government will soon submit to the Committee on Constitution of the Weimar Assembly the proposal for the incorporation of the Soviet system in the constitution. The semi-official German Gazette says that the effect of this measure would be to establish a sort of three-chamber system of Government.

The Majority Socialists, as in forming their national government, were obliged to join hands with the Democrats and the Centrists in forming the Prussian Ministry today. The price of Centrist support is the postponement of the settlement of the religious and educational questions.

The Independent Socialists, one of whose principal planks is in favor of an alliance with Bolshevist Russia, refused to share in the government except on terms making the participation of the Democrats and the Centrists impossible.

In Bavaria, the Independent Socialists have demanded that the Government melt all statues of former royalties and statesmen, including that of Bismarck. The materials of the statues, they ask, shall be given to industry.

The national flags, the Independents demand, shall be converted into clothing for children.

COPENHAGEN, March 26.—A Weimar dispatch says it is understood that a provisional law will soon create a State tribunal to inquire into the events at the opening of the war and during its progress. Such an inquiry has long been demanded, the dispatch adds, on the ground of foreign and home policies.

REDS CRUEL IN COURLAND.

Germans Tell of Outrages Committed on Helpless People.

BERLIN, March 25, (Associated Press.)—Reports of cruel treatment of the non-Bolshevist population of Courland by Lettish Bolsheviki are printed by the Lokal-Anzeiger. The Bolsheviki took a large number of old men, women, and children from Mitau, when German forces approached that city, through the snow to a camp forty miles away. The children, the reports say, were separated from their parents, ostensibly to be educated in Bolshevist principles. Those in the party who were too weak to walk were executed, including a number of women and children.

According to the reports a number of leading residents of the towns of Tukkum and Talsen also were executed by the Bolsheviki. Great anxiety is felt in Courland for the thousands of non-Bolsheviki in Riga, which is held by the Bolsheviki.

American Food Ship at Hamburg.

BERLIN, March 26, (Associated Press.)—The American steamer West Carnifax, carrying 6,000 tons of flour and 1,500 tons of other foodstuffs, has arrived at Hamburg.

SAVE MONEY! SAVE SHOES!

In a long chase for a criminal, J. E. Jones, a secret service man of Chicago, wore one pair of shoes with Neolin Soles for nineteen months. This chase covering both American continents and Australia, ended in April, 1917. The shoes were then given a mechanic at Clearing, Ill., and were worn by him another seven months.

"Until I discovered shoes with Neolin Soles, I bought new shoes about every two months," said Mr. Jones.

Twenty-six months of wear under conditions such as these is indeed extraordinary even for Neolin Soles. But Neolin Soles are made by Science to be especially durable. They are comfortable and waterproof, too. You can get them on new shoes for men, women and children, or for re-soling. Manufactured by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels, guaranteed to outwear all other heels.

27TH BACK IN CAMP FOR MUSTERING OUT

5,000 Men a Day Will Be Discharged from the National Service.

Find No Relaxation of Discipline After Holiday Demonstration—Heavy Traffic on Traction Lines.

The men of the 27th Division moved yesterday to Camp Upton, in the last stage of their return to civil life. About 2,000 casuals, temporarily attached to the division, went to Camp Merritt, while the 25,000 New York State soldiers were on their way to Yaphank.

According to announcement at Divisional Headquarters, the mustering out of the former National Guardsmen will begin on Monday, and, proceeding at an average of 5,000 a day, should be completed on Friday, April 4. The mustering out will take place as follows:

Tuesday—Division Headquarters, 52d Artillery Brigade Headquarters, 53d and 54th Infantry Brigade Headquarters, 27th Military Police Company, 104th Artillery, 105th Infantry, and 106th Machine Gun Battalion.

Wednesday — 102d Trains Headquarters, 102d Ordnance Repair Shop, 106th Infantry, 106th Machine Gun Battalion, and 107th Infantry.

Friday—102d Sanitary Train and 102d Supply Train.

In the interval before the discharge papers are made out, relatives and friends of the men will be free to visit them at Upton. The usual liberal policy regarding passes for the men to come into the city will be continued.

One of the first of the units to leave for camp was the 104th Artillery, which, in command of Colonel John T. Delaney, swung out of the 9th Coast Defense Armory in Fourteenth Street, near Sixth Avenue, yesterday morning at 6:30 o'clock. The men went direct to the East Thirty-fourth Street Ferry, where they boarded a special train for Yaphank. Casuals, numbering 240, were left behind and later made the journey over to Camp Merritt in command of Lieutenant Miles Casteel of Niles, Mich.

Praises Men of the 107th.

Nineteen hundred officers and men of the 107th left their armory at Park Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street at 8:30 o'clock, with Colonel Mortimer D. Bryant commanding. Before leaving, Colonel Bryant made a speech to his men, complimenting them for their bearing during the parade. "I am proud to be the commander of such a well set up group of men," he concluded.

A casual detachment of 1,200 men, Far Westerners for the most part, sent in as replacements, stayed behind in the armory until the afternoon, when they went to Camp Merritt. Officers of the regiment were high in praise of the conduct of the men during the ceremonies of the last three days. They said that not a single man reported late yesterday morning, and that no "A. W. O. L.'s" had been reported.

Part of the 105th Infantry and the 102d Ammunition Train, 2,000 men in all, left on two ferryboats from the foot of East Thirty-fourth Street shortly after 11 o'clock. They entrained in Long Island City for Upton. The appearance of many of the men testified to fatigue. On the way over to the ferry from the 71st Armory, at Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, however, they whistled and sang and as the boats pulled out a chorus of "We'll be back soon looking for jobs, fellows," came back to the small-sized crowd at the slip. "All right; we'll have the jobs for you," was the reply.

About 3,000 men of the 102d Supply Train and the 108th Infantry left Thirty-fourth Street on three boats at 12:30 o'clock. They marched from the Thirty-fourth Street exit of the subway and were cheered along the route by noonday crowds. Many of the men carried bundles of civilian clothing in order to be ready when they were mustered out. "We had a wonderful time," said a spokesman, "but naturally we're anxious to get out of the army and back home as plain civilians again."

The 1,200 men of the 102d Engineers and 600 replacement troops, after a night in the armory at 168th Street and Broadway, were in line and on the way to the camps at noon. The 102d was drawn up in the former American League ball park, opposite the armory, and filed into ranks in Fort Washington Avenue, the lines extending from 170th to 165th Street. Coffee and lunch were served by canteen workers. The engineers embarked on the ferryboat Scandinavia at 158th Street and North River and took their last "ocean" trip in the army service down around the tip of Manhattan and up to Long Island City. The 600 replacements were ferried over to Fort Lee on the ferryboat Lakewood.

After working practically all night, street cleaners had restored Fifth Avenue to its normal condition early yesterday morning. Newspapers, wrappers from chocolate bars, empty luncheon boxes, and a miscellaneous assortment of rubbish were piled along the avenue in great heaps at dawn when the carts arrived to take it away. Window decorators were on the job early, too, redressing shop windows, while carpenters were hard to work clearing away the private stands which had lined the thoroughfare.

Heavy Traffic on Traction Lines.

In answer to many complaints that the company had failed to make provision to meet the heavy traffic on Tuesday, officials of the B. R. T. yesterday said that Brooklyn really had a better service than ever before on such an occasion. It was denied that the trains had been run on a Sunday schedule.

"The subways," said Vice President John J. Dempsey, "were run on a rush-hour schedule practically all day. There was what might be called an overload on only two occasions, when the Interborough lines were temporarily blocked and the crowds swarmed into the B. R. T. subways. The elevated and surface lines were operated on rush-hour schedules during the rush hour, and during the remainder of the day on a schedule about 25 per cent. lighter than that of the rush-hour period.

"The B. R. T. had one of the greatest days in its history. In addition to the civilian traffic, we operated twenty special trains for troops. About 1,900,000 cash fares were collected on all lines. The Broadway subway alone took in 220,000 nickels. However, the system did a bigger business on the previous day, when Brooklyn held its parade, the number of cash fares collected then being 2,100,000."

At the offices of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, 165 Broadway, it was said yesterday that on Monday, the day before the parade, 2,952,342 persons used the company's elevated and subway lines. On Tuesday 2,870,886 traveled, both days establishing new records in the number of nickels collected. It was explained that the greater business of Monday was due to the fact that it was a business day and also to the number of out-of-town visitors who had journeyed from point to point viewing the parade's decorations.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP DIX, N. J., March 26.—Base Hospital Unit No. 27, organized at the University of Pittsburgh, reached here for demobilization today, after eighteen months' service abroad, during which it cared for 19,500 wounded. Four of its members were cited for heroism—Captain Bender S. Cashman, First Sergeant Charles D. Strock and two nurses, Mary de Lozier and Marguerite Aaron. Captain Samuel S. Rodman, a Pittsburgh surgeon who returned as a casual officer with the unit, announced that just before leaving France he married Miss Katherine Hornsburgh of Baltimore, whom he met while she was entertaining in a Y hut in France.

TROOPS DETRAIN QUICKLY.

Transfer to Camp Upton Is Carried Out on Schedule Time.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, March 26.—Fatigued by their parade in New York and the festivities that followed it 19,000 officers and men of the 27th Division arrived here today to await demobilization. Between 9 o'clock this morning and 7 this evening twenty-five trains, of eleven to fifteen cars each, drew into the terminal at the south centre of the camp and rapidly discharged its passengers. As each train entered the terminal, officers jumped into the cars and ordered all hands to the platform in double-quick time. Within three minutes each train was emptied and hurried back on the spur to the main line and then eastward to return to Jamaica by the South Shore Division.

The organizations were hastily marched out of the station where they found 150 welfare workers of the various organizations, vieing with each other to see who could give out the most cigars, cigarettes, matches, chewing gum, and sandwiches.

The records are in good shape for early mustering out. For every man in the ranks eleven forms have to be prepared. He will hear lectures on compensation, insurance, morale, and labor before he is paid and discharged. Practically 400,000 industrial forms will have to be sent to Washington as a record of the enlisted men of the division. In addition, company records weighing 50,000 pounds will be forwarded to Washington. Each officer's discharge record will require eleven forms.

KEEP FIFTH AVENUE ABLAZE.

Illumination in Honor of the Troops Will Continue.

Frank L. Dowling, Borough President of Manhattan and Chairman of the Committee on Illumination of the Mayor's Committee, announced yesterday that he would continue the illumination of Fifth Avenue, from the Washington Arch to 110th Street, every night until Sunday. After that, he said, he would have the thoroughfare illuminated two or three times a week until the celebrations of welcome to the Rainbow and the 77th Divisions had been completed.

Almost as many persons as were there on Tuesday night paraded back and forth on the avenue last night. Great crowds collected at the Victory Arch in Madison Square, where police lines were maintained; thousands walked slowly by the Court of the Heroic Dead in front of the Public Library, while the greatest throng of all congregated at Sixtieth Street, where the flashing Tower of Jewels maintained its two eighty-foot pillars of vari-colored brilliancy against the sky.

Plans are already under way by the Mayor's Committee of Welcome to Homecoming Troops to observe fittingly the return of the Rainbow and the 77th Divisions, it was announced last night. According to the latest information, the Rainbow men, with the 165th Infantry, will leave France about April 10, while the 77th will be on the high seas twelve days afterward. The committee said that it had not been able to ascertain whether the Rainbow as a division, or only the former 69th, would land at this port.

Major S. Fullerton Weaver of the Camp Upton Divisional Staff conferred yesterday with Grover A. Whalen, Secretary to the Mayor, and accepted an offer of offices in the Hall of Records. Major Weaver will take up quarters there in a few days, directing the work of finding re-employment for 77th men, and arranging the details of the welcome home to the Metropolitan Division, which, it was announced, would be just as big and as elaborate as that accorded the 27th Division.

It was said the details of the return of the Rainbow men had not yet been fully worked out. It was expected that transports bearing the first of the men would arrive here about April 20, and that the men would immediately be sent to nearby camps. The campaign for the Victory Loan will begin on April 22, and there is a possibility that the Rainbow veterans will parade up Fifth Avenue while the loan drive is in progress.

77TH OFFICERS DUE TODAY.

Col. Campbell and Capt. Lindley Coming to Arrange Reception.

Lieut. Col. Douglas Campbell, a machine gun officer with Captain Lindley, Adjutant of the 308th Infantry, will arrive today on the transport Great Northern as an advance guard of the 77th Division and will make their headquarters at the Hotel Biltmore. They will make arrangements for the reception of the famous division which is expected to arrive during the first week in May.

The news of the coming of the advance party was sent in a wireless message yesterday afternoon to the 77th Division Association Headquarters, 280 Madison Avenue. Major James A. Roosevelt, a cousin of the late Theodore Roosevelt, who died suddenly on the Great Northern yesterday, was the third member of the party.

TO AID DISABLED SOLDIERS.

American Defense Society Sells Articles Made in Army Hospital.

Articles made by the crippled and disabled soldiers of General Hospital No. 3, Colonia, N. J., were placed on exhibition at a formal reception given by the Army and Navy Committee of the American Defense Society at 415 Madison Avenue yesterday afternoon. It is hoped that there will be a large sale of these articles, which include lamp shades, desk sets, book ends, trays, tin and wooden toys, waste paper baskets, decorated boxes, bead chains, &c. The men receive 50 per cent. of the returns for the work, the remaining 50 per cent. going to the school fund of the hospital to buy supplies for the shop. Mrs. McAlister Smith presided at the opening yesterday and was assisted by Mrs. Laurent Oppenheim and Mrs. Walter Crosley, wife of the Commander of the battleship Rhode Island. Mrs. G. J. Wheeler Jones is in charge of the work at Colonia.

TO WELCOME JEWS IN 77TH.

Plan Dinner for Soldiers and a Memorial to Fallen.

Plans to welcome the 14,000 Jewish members of the 77th (Upton) Division were formulated at the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society Building, 299 East Broadway, on Tuesday night, when it was decided that the Jewish soldiers in the division should be entertained at dinner. A memorial in honor of those who gave their lives will be erected in Seward Park, preferably, or on any other site that the city administration will grant. The committee, consisting of over 100, will also cooperate with the Mayor's Committee in its welcome to all troops.

Those who will serve on it include John L. Bernstein, President of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society, Chairman; Congressman Henry M. Goldfogle, Dr. Samuel Buechler, Deputy Commissioner of Charities; Dr. Herbert S. Goldstein, Dr. Nathan Peyser, Jacob R. Fain, Leon Sanders, Grand Master of the I. O. B. A.; Jacob I. Friedman, Michael Key, and Max L. Hollander.

Vanderbilt Gets Commission.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., son of Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, was notified yesterday that he had been commissioned a Lieutenant. Mr. Vanderbilt entered the United States military service at the beginning of the war as a private, saw service abroad, and was advanced through the noncommissioned grades of Corporal to Sergeant, and selected for promotion to a Lieutenancy six weeks before the armistice was signed.

FOOD SHIPS BRING 3,000 MORE TROOPS

Enemy Crews Barred from Landing —Soldiers Complain of Food and Quarters.

Nearly 3,000 troops arrived yesterday from Marseilles on the transports Francesca and Argentina, which formerly belonged to the Austro-American Line, and operated between New York and Trieste. They were both flying the white, blue and white interallied colors, which is the flag that the German food ships will sail under to America. This makes four steamships that are now in this harbor under the interallied flag. The other two are the Presidente Wilson, also of the Austro-American Line, and the freighter Dalmatia of the Austrian-Lloyd Steamship Company.

Two-thirds of the crews of the two steamships belong in Trieste, and as enemy aliens they will not be allowed to go on shore during the stay of their vessels in New York. The stewards and cooks, who hail from Italy, were given permits yesterday by the immigration authorities, and can go ashore whenever their duties permit them to do so.

There were 1,165 troops on the Argentina, and that made the sleeping quarters very cramped, the soldiers said yesterday. They also complained of the Continental style of food on the ship, which was not like the solid home cooking they had been accustomed to.

There was one death on the Francesca, that of Private Benjamin F. Oden of Greer, S. C., who died of meningitis on March 22 and was buried at sea.

Among the 983 on the Francesca were also casual companies from all parts of the country under the command of Captain W. R. James of the 19th Field Artillery. Both steamships left Marseilles at the same time and were compelled to take on coal at Gibraltar, as they could not look forward to getting any here.

FIGHT AT PARADE FATAL.

Police Investigate Death of British Soldier from Injuries.

An investigation of the death of Andrew E. De Vivo, 19 years old, a soldier in a British unit, who died in Roosevelt Hospital on Tuesday from the effects of an attack upon him by a spectator in the stand at 106th Street and Fifth Avenue, during the parade, was started yesterday at the Homicide Bureau of the District Attorney's office. A brother of the soldier, Rudolph De Vivo of 187 Rockaway Avenue, Brooklyn, told Assistant District Attorney Neary that he and his brother had climbed the rear of the stand to watch the parade and a young woman had thrown his brother's hat to the ground. When, he said, the soldier resented this a man with the woman had hit Andrew on the face.

After the soldier had been taken to the hospital Rudolph De Vivo said he had returned with a policeman and had caused the arrest of the alleged assailant, Conrad Anderson, a special officer, of 608 West 189th Street. A witness for Anderson, who is detained pending the inquest, testified that Andrew De Vivo had challeneged Anderson to go to the street to adjust their argument and that when Anderson responded the soldier was hurt during the fist duel. Andrew De Vivo came from France on March 15, on leave to get his discharge papers from the British Consul here.

ARMY MEDICAL CASUALTIES.

Total of 442 Among Officers in France—185 Died.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Casualties among American medical officers in France from the time of the arrival of the first units to March 13 numbered 442, a War Department statement today showed. Forty-six were killed in action, 22 died of wounds, 12 died of accident and other causes, 101 died of disease, 4 were lost at sea, 7 were missing in action, 38 were taken prisoner and 212 were wounded in action.

TRANSPORTS BRINGING MANY

Record Number of Soldiers' Wives on the Aquitania.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Transport sailings were announced by the War Department today as follows:

The Aquitania, due at New York March 29, is bringing the headquarters of the 85th Division, and Michigan and Wisconsin headquarters troops, 85th Division, for Camp Custer, Michigan; 166th Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters, 347th and 348th Field Artillery Regiments complete, mainly for Camps Kearny and Funston; detachments of the following units for Camps Dix and Upton: 134th Field Artillery, 112th Ammunition Train, 112th Engineers, 135th Field Artillery, Companies F, G, H, K, I, L, and M of the 165th Infantry; medical and camp detachments, 146th Infantry; Field and Staff, Headquarters and Supply Companies of the 337th Infantry; Base Hospital No. 92; casual company for New York, and 98 casual officers.

The Aquitania is also bringing a record number of soldiers' wives, there being sixty-nine brides with the army troops and six with a small naval contingent.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LEADERS DISAGREE

DENY RIGHT TO OUST THEM

Directors Represented as Admitting They Intend to Control or Destroy Publishing Concern.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, March 26.—A breach of unity that has arisen among the Christian Scientists led today to the filing of a bill in equity by the trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Society against the directors of the Mother Church to enjoin the latter from establishing a competing publishing business or injuring the present one.

The plaintiffs have retained as counsel Charles E. Hughes of New York, Sherman L. Whipple of Boston, and Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, and the case bids fair to develop into one of great magnitude.

Justice Braley of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court has already issued a preliminary injunction restraining the defendants.

The plaintiffs to the suit are Herbert W. Eustace of Boston, David E. Ogden of Brookline, and Lamont Rowlands of Picayune, Miss., trustees under a deed of trust dated Jan. 25, 1898, in which Mary Baker G. Eddy was the donor.

The defendants are Adam H. Dickey, James A. Neal, Edward A. Merritt of Brookline, and William R. Rathvon of Boston, trustees under a deed of trust dated Sept. 1, 1892, in which Mrs. Eddy was the donor, and a supplementary declaration of trust dated March 19, 1893, also directors of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, John V. Dittemore and Annie M. Knott, both of Boston, each claiming to hold the position and office of Trustee and Director in association with the other defendants.

The magnitude of the publishing business being conducted is revealed in the bill, which recites that for the six months ended Oct. 1, 1918, the plaintiffs have paid over to the defendant trustees profits in excess of $450,000.

Dispute Centres on Rowlands.

The schism seems to centre around Mr. Rowlands, who on March 17 was served with a notice of dismissal by the defendant trustees, which declared that he had not followed the church by-laws of Mrs. Eddy, but had shown a disposition to adopt or invent other interpretations of them that prevented their meaning or annulled their effect; that he had tried to enlarge the trusteeship into an office or function of a new and different character; that he had threatened the Mother Church Board with litigation if it exercised its "right and power" to remove any of the plaintiff trustees; that he had allowed a sense of self-interest to interfere with the interests of Christian Science; had become self-asserted and contentious and disposed to make trouble without regard to consequences, and had other interests which prevented him from giving sufficient time and attention to the business of the Christian Science Publishing Society.

Judge Braley's preliminary injunction commands the defendants to "desist and refrain from taking any further action intended directly or indirectly to interfere with the plaintiff Rowlands, or either of the other plaintiffs in the discharge of his or their respective duties as trustees under the trust instrument of Jan. 25, 1898, and from carrying out any purpose or plan by either direct or indirect means to compel the plaintiffs or any of them to resign their offices as trustees, or to impair, destroy, or in any way injure the business of the Christian Science Publishing Society."

The bill declares that Mrs. Eddy's conception of spreading Christian Science consisted of two distinct branches of activity. First, the organization of churches, and second, the increasing of the circulation throughout the world of publications. It says she determined to put the two activities in the hands of two different sets of trustees, and, accordingly, on Sept. 1, 1892, by one deed of trust and an amended deed of March 19, 1893, placed the Mother Church in the hands of the Christian Science Board of Directors," and in 1898, by a second deed of trust, conveyed her property used in the Christian Science Publishing Society and delegated to the trustees of that trust the authorities she had up to that time reserved exclusively to herself. The plaintiffs aver it was her intention to keep the affairs of the publishing society separate from the control and management of her church.

Arbitrary Action Charged.

The plaintiffs say that no valid or sound reason exists why Mr. Rowlands should be removed or should resign his office; that the action of the defendant Directors in seeking his dismissal is an arbitrary and capricious attempt to exercise a fancied power which does not exist, and that the action is for the purpose of extending their powers individually and collectively into a domain purposely excluded from their jurisdiction by the trust of Mrs. Eddy. They say they have been advised by counsel that the defendants have no right to remove Rowlands as matter or fact or in law.

It is alleged that the defendants' plan involves an attempt to force the plaintiffs out of their trusteeship in order to replace them with three of themselves or three who will be subservant to them. The bill says it is the plaintiffs belife that if Eustace and Ogden decline to appoint a successor to Rowlands agreeable to the defendants, they plan to make the refusal ground and excuse for an attempt to remove both of them.

The plaintiffs further aver that the defendants have stated to many Christian Scientists in substance that they plan to obtain control of the publishing society or to destroy it; that if the plaintiffs as trustees continue to resist the demands of the directors and refuse to conform to their will, the directors propose, in the terms used by one of them, "to make the publishing society an empty shell," and to accomplish that result by using their great influence with Christian Science churches and field to induce Christian Scientists not to continue to authorize and support the publications published by the society established and founded by Mrs. Eddy, but to subscribe for and support new publications which the directors have threatened, themselves, to publish.

As a result of conferences of counsel on both sides, it was agreed that both sides should try to harmonize their views. The plaintiffs say they tried to carry out their agreement to do so, but that the defendants demanded that the plaintiffs should repudiate the opinion of counsel, especially the part of the opinion declaring that in the event of a conflict between the terms of the deed of trust and the church manual, the trustees were bound to obey the mandates of the deed.

It is alleged that the Directors also insisted that as a further condition of the Trustees retaining their offices as such, the Trustees should acknowledge in writing that the Board of Directors have final authority in regard to the editorial policy of the publications of the Christian Science Publishing Society and general supervision of the affairs of the publishing society. Then followed the notice of dismissal to Rowlands.

Directors Defend Their Stand.

BOSTON, March 26. (Associated Press.)—The Board of Directors of the First Church of Christ Scientist issued the following statement tonight:

"The suit filed by Messrs. Eustace, Rowlands, and Ogden is part of an effort to hold their positions as publishers of the Christian Science periodicals without responsibility to the church of which these periodicals are the organs. These periodicals have their existence and value as organs of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, and they get their substantial support from or through the members of the Mother Church. The Board of Directors of this church has only insisted that these trustee publishers fulfil the rightful obligations of their positions or relinquish them.

"All that this board has done has been done in perfect accord with the deed of trust by which said trusteeship was constituted, and everything done or contemplated by this board is called for by the by-laws of this Church.

"In this exigency we must steadfastly heed what Mrs. Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, said in a somewhat similar situation:

"'I approve the by-laws of the Mother Church and require the Christian Science Board of Directors to maintain them and sustain them.'"

FLETCHER GIFT TO HARVARD

Will Gives Estate to Foster Knowledge of Health.

The will of Horace Fletcher, dietary expert, who died Jan. 12 at Copenhagen, Denmark, was filed for probate in the Surrogate's Court yesterday. The will does not disclose the value of the estate, the residue of which goes to Harvard University after gifts to the widow and to friends. He provides an annuity of $3,600 for his widow, Mrs. Grace A. Fletcher of 222 West Twenty-third Street, and gives her all his personal property in Venice.

The bequest of the residue states that the income is to be used by Harvard University for "fostering knowledge of healthful nutrition" and to offer the Horace Fletcher prize for the best thesis on the subject, "Special Uses of Circumvallate Papilli and the Saliva of the Mouth in Regulating Physiological Economy in Nutrition." Mr. Fletcher states that the gift is made in recognition of the services and sympathy of Professor Henry Bowditch Pickering and Professor William James to the cause "to which I have devoted my life." The testator stated that he regarded himself "as a resident of New York and intended on his return from Denmark to take his residence at the Lotos Club."

Western Men Are Entertained.

The Rocky Mountain Club fed and entertained 130 men of the 27th Engineers whose homes are in Arizona, New Mexico, and Alaska, last evening and gave the soldiers a rousing send-off previous to their departure for demobilization camps in the West. Following the dinner the men marched to the Hippodrome and after seeing the performance they entrained for Camp Merritt, leaving this morning for their homes in the West. Herbert Wall, Secretary of the Rocky Mountain Club, welcomed the engineers at the dinner.

HAYWARD PRAISES FRENCH.

Army Most Scientific and Greatest Ever Created, He Says.

At a luncheon of the Fifth Avenue Association in Delmonico's yesterday Colonel William Hayward of the old 15th Infantry recounted the deeds of his negro soldiers in France, and carried out the resolution which he said he had made in the heat of battle. He determined there that, once he got back to America, he would pay tribute wherever and whenever he could, first, to the "gallant French Army, the most scientific, the greatest organization ever created," and second, to the "American doughboy, the high private in the ranks, who looked over the French and English, and said, 'If those guys can do it, then I can, too.'

Robert L. Moran, President of the Board of Aldermen, and E. J. Cattell of the Chestnut Street Association in Philadelphia also spoke. Mr. Cattell, who was introduced by the toastmaster, G. E. Tarbell, as the world's greatest optimist, expressed his complete confidence in the future of business relations, suggesting that business men here adopt the motto of the French: "If it's possible, it's done; if it's impossible, let's do it."

POGROM IN BUENOS AIRES.

Zionists Here Get Report that Many Were Killed on Jan. 9.

Details of a pogrom in Buenos Aires, Argentina, on Jan. 9 last, when many Jews were killed—the report says "thousands" but this is believed to be an exaggeration—have just been received by the Zionist organization of America, according to a statement issued by that organization last night. The slaughter of the Jews was the result, it is stated, of a rumor that a strike was the beginning of a Bolshevist revolution incited by Jews.

A White Guard was organized, the statement says, which raided the Jewish quarters, killing a number of persons that cannot be estimated because they were all buried in one grave. It adds that all the horrors were perpetrated with police co-operation. Every person who was a Jew or looked like a Jew was stopped, brutally beaten, and dragged off to a police station. Young and old, men and women, were treated alike.

The excuse given in each case was that the Jews were hiding Maximalists from the police. Even synagogues were raided.

The report says that the Argentine Federation of Zionists caused an end to be put to the pogrom by the police, after it had been explained that there was no Bolshevism among the Jews there.

O'LEARY TO GO FREE UNDER BAIL TODAY

Despite Treason and Espionage Indictments Pending, Court Will Release Him.

SUM OF $10,000 AGREED ON

His Alleged Offenses Unbailable Heretofore — Co-defendants Are Likely to Stay in the Tombs.

Jeremiah A. O'Leary, whose trial on an indictment charging that he had entered into a conspiracy to obstruct the military laws of the United States, ended in a jury disagreement last Sunday afternoon, and is awaiting trial on indictments which charge conspiracy to commit treason against the United States and conspiracy to commit espionage in time of war, will be released in $10,000 bail this morning.

It has been the general opinion that conspiracy to commit espionage in war time, which is a capital offense under the Federal law, is an unbailable offense, but the action to be taken this morning would indicate that it is not. It was recalled last night that when O'Leary pleaded to the indictments charging conspiracy to commit treason and espionage, Judge Learned Hand, before whom he was arraigned, remarked, when the question of bail was raised, that "I take it that in a case like this there can be no bail."

Attorneys for O'Leary will appear in the Federal District Court at 10 o'clock this morning. The application for bail will then be made to Judge John C. Knox who, it was said last night, will immediately sign the bail order which will mean the liberty of O'Leary. Bondsmen are ready and the prisoner will be free, it was said last night, by noon.

Matter Decided at Conference.

It first became known late last Sunday afternoon that an effort was to be made to get O'Leary out of jail before he was brought to trial on the two indictments still hanging over his head. O'Leary himself started to make a speech on the matter when he was stopped by Judge Augustus N. Hand, who ruled that the question of the prisoner's liberty was not one that he could consider at that time.

The matter of bail was finally decided yesterday at a conference of lawyers for the accused agitator and representatives of the Federal Attorney for the Southern District of New York. The fact that the jury had disagreed in the "Bull" case was admitted last night to have been one of the principal reasons for the decision to permit O'Leary to be released from the Tombs. The sum of $10,000 was then agreed upon, and O'Leary's friends immediately made provisions to have the bondsmen ready when Judge Knox signs the order this morning.

While O'Leary will be released, his co-defendants, who are in the Tombs with him, will not be so fortunate, at least not for the present. An official familiar with the situation said last night that he did not think any of the co-defendants would be released but that they would be held in the Tombs and brought to trial in due course.

The co-defendants are Hermann Wessells, a Commander in what was once the German navy, and who is charged with having operated in this country as an official spy of the old Imperial German Government; Mme. Victorica, who in Germany is said to be known as the Baroness Maria von Kretchsmann, who, the Government contends, came to this country in December, 1916, as an aid of Wessels; Willard Robinson, who is a friend of O'Leary, who is alleged to have made secret trips to Europe for the enemy; Albert Paul Fricke, an American citizen of German birth; Emil Kipper, and John T. Ryan.

Ryan, also a friend of O'Leary, is now a fugitive from justice. He is a Buffalo lawyer and is the man to whom one of the German agents who was selected to blow up the Welland Canal, went for financial identification when he arrived in Buffalo in 1915 to carry that plot into effect. Dr. Hugo Schweitzer, who died on Dec. 23, 1917, was also named in the original indictments.

In Tombs Since Last June.

O'Leary has been in the Tombs since June 19 of last year. Just before the conspiracy to commit treason and espionage indictments were returned he disappeared from New York, and Ryan, his friend, quit Buffalo. The Secret Service has searched to the corners of the earth for Ryan, but to date not a trace of him has been found. O'Leary disappeared from New York in the afternoon of May 7, 1918, and was captured on a chicken farm near the little village of Sara in Clarke County, Washington, on June 13, following.

FORM A LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Will Be Non-Partisan, Non-Militant, and Non-Sectarian— Defers Choosing Name.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 26.—Following the organization of a non-partisan, non-militant, and non-sectarian woman voters' league, the afternoon session of the National American Woman Suffrage Association adjourned late today without deciding on a name for the league.

It was agreed that the name should not be applied until after the convention in February, 1920, which is to be a centennial celebration of Susan B. Anthony's birthday. Arguments also were advanced that the name of the association should not be changed while there is still a fight for suffrage in many States and the Federal amendment unratified.

The object of the new organization, which is in the form of two houses, one composed of delegates from voting States and the other from nonvoting States, is to secure protection in their right to vote to the women citizens of the United States by appropriate national and State legislation, and to increase the effectiveness of women's votes in effecting better Government. Delegates from the nonvoting States shall compose the House of Delegates and those from suffrage States the House of Voters.

At the afternoon session $89,000 was raised from the various States, completing a budget of $120,000 to carry the work during next year. Mrs. Mary H. Loines of New York City is the only delegate attending the convention who was present at the first convention of the American Suffrage Association in 1869.

Militant suffragists were arraigned bitterly for their public demonstrations and denounced as obstructionists to the success of the amendment.

Sectional executive conferences composed the night session. Speakers included Mrs. Frank J. Shiels, Miss Mary Garrett Hay, and Miss Rose Young, all of New York City.

RUSSELLITES OUT OF PRISON

Rutherford and Seven Associates, Back from Atlanta, Give Bail.

Joseph Rutherford and his seven associates of the Russellite sect in Brooklyn, who were sentenced last June to serve twenty years on each of four indictments for violating the Espionage act, got back to Brooklyn from Atlanta prison last evening and were released on bail by Federal Judge Chatfield, pending their appeal.

The men looked healthy, and Rutherford said they were glad to return to Brooklyn and that they had no doubt of their ultimate discharge. They were brought back from Atlanta by Marshal Power and two deputies.

When the men reached the Federal Court room they were surrounded by friends. The reception was continued last night at the Bethel Home, local headquarters of the association, at 122 Columbia Heights.

Sparkes and Fuller represented the eight men in court. Judge Chatfield fixed bail at $10,000 each, which was furnished by the New Amsterdam Casualty Company. Rutherford's seven comrades in conviction are William E. Van Amburgh, George H. Fisher, Clayton J. Woodworth, Robert J. Martin, A. Hugh McMillan, Fred H. Robison, and Giovanni Dececca. They were instructed to appear in the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals in Manhattan next June.

NEW BODY FORMED TO EXPAND TRADE

State Department Organizes Committee to Co-ordinate with Other Boards.

SANCTIONED BY PRESIDENT

Will Provide Advisory and Supervisory Machinery for Developing Foreign Commerce.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Announcement was made today by the Department of State, through Acting Secretary of State Phillips, that an organization had been created to co-ordinate the work of all Government departments in building up and extending American interests in foreign trade. The step has the full sanction of President Wilson, who signed an order authorizing the State Department to proceed with the work on Feb. 28 in Washington.

Such action has long been advocated, but lack of an adequate American merchant marine has served to delay it. With a large American merchant marine now assured and the certainty that Congress will take up recommendations for a permanent trade expansion policy at an early date, today's announcement is of far-reaching importance not only to shipping but also to finance, industries, and business interests in general.

This latest activity means that the research work of Government agencies which has been going on for years will be utilized to aid American commerce in expanding. It means also that the Government will give official cognizance to the need of obtaining long credits and removing other obstacles which have worked in the past to the injury of American trade expansion.

A careful study of the opportunities awaiting American industries in South American countries has been made by agents of the Department of Commerce, and there have been conferences here between Government officials and representatives of South American countries. Financial problems have been discussed and ways and means considered for extending aid to American commerce so that it will be able to compete on an equal basis with any other nation. It is stated that there is in sight a great era of development in South America opening fields of the utmost importance to any nation which goes into foreign trade on a large scale.

The same efforts are in view with relation to European and Far Eastern fields. As a result of close studies made during the war, the State Department, the War Trade Board, and the Shipping Board and the Department of Commerce are in a position to supply information of the greatest advantage to American industries.

The prime purpose of the new organization which is representative of all of the Government agencies which may have a share in contributing to the development of foreign trade is to compile data and promote team work. Individual agencies will continue to deal with specific cases but they will have the benefit, through committee conferences, of the co-operation of other agencies.

Prominent among the problems which will receive immediate attention are tonnage allocation and marine freights, cable and radio facilities, reconstructon loans and Latin-American loans, consortiums for buying in Europe, labor and immigration and the development of what are known as "key industries" such as the dye industry and strategic raw materials.

The formal announcement from the State Department said:

"The Department of State, through Acting Secretary of State William Phillips, today announced the organization of a co-ordinating committee on foreign trade. An order authorizing such a committee was formally signed by the President on Feb. 28, during his recent visit to Washington.

"The committee includes representatives of all the Governmental offices which deal in any way with foreign trade matters. Its duty is to formulate conclusions and to harmonize and co-ordinate all Governmental activities in any way connected with foreign trade, thus safeguarding the economic future of the nation.

"The committee will provide advisory and supervisory machinery of Government executives for unifying the work of further extending and developing the business interests of the United States in foreign channels.

"Neither the committee as a whole, nor its subcommittees, will deal with specific cases of foreign trade interests except as they may be brought to its attention by the different Government officers now handling these matters. In other words, the American business public will not have direct communication with the committee, but will continue to deal as heretofore, with the various pre-existing agencies of the Government.

"At a preliminary meeting, which was held last Thursday in the office of Acting Secretary of State Polk, the following representatives of various governmental agencies were present:

Department of State, Acting Secretary Polk, Mr. Lay, Mr. Frost; Department of Commerce, Acting Secretary Sweet, Mr. Cutler; Shipping Board, Chairman Hurley, Mr. Stevens; Treasury Department, Acting Secretary Rowe, Mr. McGuire; Department of Agriculture, Mr. Brand, Mr. Moomaw; Department of Labor, Acting Secretary Post; Navy Department, Admiral Peoples; War Department, Colonel Dunn; War Trade Board, Mr. DeLaittre; Federal Trade Commission, Commissioner Fort; Tariff Commission, Commissioner Culbertson; Railroad Administration, Mr. Spens; Interstate Commerce Commission, Acting Chairman Woolley; Post Office Department, Mr. Maddox.

A subcommittee on organization was created, with Julius G. Lay, acting foreign trade advisor of the Department of State, as Chairman. To this committee, composed of representatives of the various departments named above, was assigned the task of organizing subcommittees for particular functions.

Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst Seriously Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst left yesterday afternoon for San Francisco, where they were called in response to a telegram stating that Mr. Hearst's mother, Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst, is seriously ill. Mrs. Hearst, who is widely known throughout the country for her many benefactions, has been ill for some time.

INITIATES INQUIRY INTO MILITARY LAW

the first doctor had discovered the scars, the marks of disease developed prior to his admission to the army.

"The man, when he has passed his physical examinations, is paid. In many of the camps the Railroad Administration has established a railroad ticket office. The man is entitled to the soldier rate home or to the place from which he came.

"Men who are discovered to have remediable disabilities are sent to the convalescent centres or to the base hospitals for further observation, and, of course, their demobilization is deferred until they are cured.

"We found this process going on over the whole country, and apparently being pretty swiftly done."

Baker Silent on Ansell Letter.

WASHINGTON, March 26, (Associated Press.)—Secretary Baker upon his return today to Washington had no comment to make as to what he planned with regard to publication of the reply submitted for his consideration by Lieut. Col. Ansell of the Judge Advocate General's Department, to statements by Major Gen. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, previously given out through departmental channels.

One element of the controversy that has arisen over the military legal system is the investigation being conducted at the Secretary's order by Major Gen. Chamberlain, Inspector General. Mr. Baker said he had not seen General Chamberlain and did not know whether that investigation had been completed.

From other sources it was learned that the Inspector General probably would not finish his work for some weeks. He was understood to be investigating the whole controversy, including the conduct of the officers involved.

The only copy of Colonel Ansell's reply known to have reached any one outside the War Department was that furnished by Acting Secretary Crowell to Senator Chamberlain, Chairman of the Military Committee of the last Senate. When Senator Chamberlain made public the text of his telegram to Secretary Baker demanding that the Ansell reply be given out for publication, there was circulated among newspaper representatives in Washington, attached to the copies of Senator Chamberlain's message, a statement that Ansell had attacked General Chamberlain and other high army officers as "reactionaries" in the first brief he submitted to the Senate Committee.

The statement led to the belief among officers at the War Department that Colonel Ansell's reply to General Crowder raised objection to the assignment of General Chamberlain as investigator of the controversy. If such is the case, it was said, there had been nothing to indicate that the Secretary had changed his mind or that he had under consideration the transfer of this investigation to some agency other than the office of the Inspector General.

TO FIGHT HIGHER RENTS.

Tenants of Riverside Drive House Meet and Make Plans.

A committee composed of tenants in the apartment house 860 Riverside Drive held a meeting last night to complete plans to fight the attempt of the landlord to break leases and boost rents by demanding increases ranging from 40 to 69 per cent. Lloyd Willis, Chairman of the committee, said:

"The tenants have decided to appeal to the Board of Aldermen and the State Legislature for protection, not only on their own account, but for the benefit of all rent payers of the city. We have started this fight for proper treatment, and if we win it, which most certainly we believe we will, landlords will be powerless to revoke leases and boost rents as they please. Some of the leases in this house are made to 1920."

At the meeting the committee arranged a statement of the facts and a resolution, which will be presented to the Board of Aldermen for action by Alderman Clifford F. Bostwick of the Seventeenth District, in which the apartment house is situated. A similar statement and resolution will be taken before the Legislature by Assemblyman Earl A. Smith of the Twenty-first District.

There are forty-eight tenants in the Riverside Drive house, and forty-six of these are on the committee.

MUST SET CLOCKS AHEAD.

Law Orders Change of Time Early on Sunday Morning.

Under the daylight saving law, two hours after midnight on Sunday clocks all over the United States will be put forward one hour.

The Executive Committee of the National Daylight Saving Association, of which Marcus M. Marks is President, will give a luncheon on Saturday at the Aldine Club, 200 Fifth Avenue, in celebration of the defeat of the effort to repeal the law by a rider attached to the Agricultural Appropriation bill.

Car Fares to Drop in Jersey.

On order of the State Public Utility Commission, trolley fares in New Jersey will be reduced on April 1 to 6 cents, with a charge of 1 cent for transfer. The Public Service Railway Company has been charging 7 cents since last October and under the terms of the board's decision at that time it was to be reduced on April 1.

PROKOFIEFF
THE DUO-ART PIANO

THE remarkable young Russian pianist-composer Serge Prokofieff has fairly electrified the musical atmosphere of New York. His massive strength and virility—his complete mastery of the most intricate technique—his breadth and sincerity as a composer of the modern school, have won Prokofieff nation-wide praise and renown.

This very worth-while young musician plays in Recital at Aeolian Hall on Sunday afternoon, March 30th. Go and hear Prokofieff. He is different; startling perhaps, but thrilling.

The remarkable pianism of Prokofieff furnishes a splendid example of the endless versatility of the Duo-Art Piano. Of absolutely unlimited scope, this greatest of reproducing pianos is able to play just as Prokofieff plays—just as Paderewski, Hofmann, Bauer, Leginska, Novaes play. Come and hear the Duo-Art Piano. It is the musical marvel of our day.

The Duo-Art is pianoforte, Pianola and Reproducing Piano in one. It is made in Steinway, Steck, Stroud and famous Weber models. Grands and uprights.

The Reserve Telephone Equipment of Peace that Served New York in War

WAR, the great annihilator of the plans of NATIONS, also destroys the best laid plans of organized INDUSTRY!

Years ago the Telephone Engineer looked ahead and laid the broad plans for meeting the normal increase in the demands on New York City's telephone system. It was necessary that he plan far in advance.

For it takes time to provide additions to a telephone system as large and complex as that of New York City. It requires a year, for instance, to erect a central office building—a year to manufacture the complete equipment for a new central office and nearly another year to install it.

And so the Telephone Engineer back in those days of Peace, with his finger on the pulse of the City's social and business activity, made it his business to look ahead—often twenty years ahead—and lay his plans to meet the increased needs of the future long before they arose. New York City's telephone system was well prepared for every emergency of Peace.

But then came the day when the first low rumble of war sent the demand for telephone service shooting skyward. It leaped in bounds of tens and hundreds of thousands almost overnight. It reached eventually the enormous average of three and one quarter million calls a day!

New York City's telephone system was not designed and built for War, but by virtue of the engineering foresight that years ago visualized the increased future needs of peace, there was a reserve of equipment underneath the City's streets and in the central offices.

And it was only by bringing this reserve equipment into action, and by constructing quickly the limited amount of new equipment that war restrictions allowed, that the essential telephone needs of the City were met.

TODAY the Telephone Engineer's problem lies in the immediate future and it is a big one. To meet it his plans for the next two years provide for six new central office buildings—additions to eleven existing central office buildings,—seventeen new central office switchboards and additions to thirty-six existing central office switchboards!

It's a big construction program, but it's just a part of the general plan for restoring New York City's telephone service to its high peace-time standards of quality.

EXPECT AGREEMENT ON HARBOR TREATY

NEW JERSEY WANTS ACTION

Present Draft May Be Amended to Meet Objection of Mayor and City Officials.

George W. Wickersham, Samuel Untermyer, Julius Henry Cohen, and others argued at yesterday's special hearing before the Board of Estimate for the city's approval to the proposed treaty between New York and New Jersey for the development of the port of New York. Mayor Hylan, Controller Craig, and the other members of the Estimate Board have gone on record as opposing the plan, which has been drawn up by committees representing the Legislatures of both States, but as a result of yesterday's hearing it was said that an agreement might be reached whereby the city officials will change their stand.

Mr. Cohen was present as counsel for the New York-New Jersey Port and Harbor Development Commission and Governor Smith; Mr. Wickersham representing the Chamber of Commerce, Samuel Untermyer the Merchants Association, James Sherlock Davis and Frederick L. Cranford the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce; Lucia Nola the Knickerbocker Civic League, Nelson S. Spencer the City Club, and Colonel Henry W. Hodge, ex-Public Service Commissioner, the Citizens Union. Those who oppose the plan, either in whole or in part, are former Dock Commissioner Calvin Tomkins, William S. Peckham of the New York Connecting Canal Association, Charles F. McLean of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, Charles C. Quinton, Frank Joyce, and Henry H. Wynants. The opponents are to be given a hearing on Thursday.

The treaty as submitted provides that a general plan for a complete revision and improvement of port facilities must be presented to and approved by the Legislatures of both States and subject insofar as the law requires to Governmental approval. No change in the plan can be made by either party without the joint approval of both Legislatures. The various articles of the treaty provide for a system of financing which, the authorities contend, will not only bring about a vastly improved condition of the port of New York, but will make the burden of debt easier on all concerned. A system of bond issues based upon the value of the property affected in any special instance is proposed.

Mr. Cohen, the first speaker for the treaty, reviewed its history and gave warning that unless the two States get together on the proposition New Jersey is prepared to proceed with a comprehensive plan of port development on its own account. He said that unless New York and New Jersey worked the question out together this State would get little good from the zone rate case it won from New Jersey a short time ago. The Interstate Commerce Commission, in the event of no joint action being taken, he said, could reopen the case and give New Jersey a better rate to the serious damage of New York.

Mayor Hylan suggested that if the population of the New Jersey portion of the port district proposed is but 2,000,000, while the New York portion contains some 7,000,000 people, New York should have a larger representation on the commission.

Mr. Cohen replied that while the preponderance of population favored New York, the other side could say that it had the terminals and the trunk lines. The proposal was a partnership between two States to bring about a general plan of improvement by co-operation and unison of action, he said, and he expressed the opinion that the equality of representation would be essential to a full acceptance of the treaty by New Jersey.

MESSENGER STRIKE FADES.

Official Says Boys Are Returning to Work.

While an official of the Western Union Telegraph Company, at 195 Broadway, said that the strike of the messenger boys was practically over and nearly all the strikers had returned to work, John Bealin, the mediator of the State Industrial Commission, who is acting on behalf of the messengers in the absence of Miss Frances Perkins, said that the status of the strike remained practically unchanged.

Neither the company officials nor the strike leaders, Mr. Bealin said, had shown any indication of relenting on the one question that is now in dispute—the reinstatement of the four messengers discharged several days previous to the strike, and who are practically the leaders of it.

There was a conference yesterday, Mr. Bealin said, between officials of the Western Union and a committee of three strikers, when the company, he said, expressed a willingness to discuss any question except the return of the four men, while the Strike Committee said that was the only demand they were making.

There were fewer boys at the strike headquarters, 239 East Fourteenth Street, yesterday, and it was generally understood that many of the boys have deserted the union and gone back to work.

WOOLEN STRIKE RESUMED.

7,000 Return, but Walk Out Again During Day.

PASSAIC, N. J., March 26.—Nearly 7,000 woolen workers in the plants of the Botany Worsted Mills and the Gera Mills, who returned to their places yesterday, after a strike which lasted eight weeks, again walked out this afternoon because, the strikers declared, the companies discharged leaders of the labor movement and members of the workers' Shop Committee, contrary to their agreement when the strike was ended. The manufacturers would make no statement as to the causes of the second walkout.

Employes of the Garfield Worsted Mills who returned to work yesterday and walked out before the day was over gave the same reason for their action.

Without having made any offer to the striking employes, Acheson Harden Company, handkerchief manufacturers, opened their gates this morning to striking employes. About 150 of the 1,500 workers returned.

Hyman Bushell, counsel for the striking garment workers, said last night that of the 37,000 garment workers who have been on strike in this city 8,000 are out at the present time. All of these, he said, belong to Local 2, waist and dress operators. Settlement have been made with employers, he said, by Local 62, white goods workers; Local 41, lace and dress kimona makers, and Local 50, infants' and ladies' underwear workers. Mr. Bushell estimates that it has cost the strikers a minimum of $20 a week each in lost wages, and predicts that the strike will be completely settled soon.

BRITISH MINERS FAVOR ACCEPTING TERMS

But Threaten Government Unless New Conscription Policy Is Abandoned.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 26.—The miners' conference today decided to take a ballot on the Government's proposal and at the same time advised the men to accept them.

This is generally regarded as disposing of the danger of a great strike by the "Triple Alliance" for at least some time to come. Coupled with this satisfactory announcement, however, was the direct threat to the Government that if it did not abandon its Services bill the joint labor bodies would take steps to compel its withdrawal. This is a bold defiance of the conscription policy, for the Services bill authorizes the Government to retain certain specified numbers of men in the military, naval and air forces until April 30, 1920.

In the Commons yesterday, Liberals such as Sir Donald MacLean and Aneurin Williams declared that the Government's compulsory service measures were overinsurance. A suggestion by one member that the April, 1920, date fixed in the bill be advanced to November of this year was scouted, so evidently it is the Government view that rapid improvement in the situation cannot be counted upon.

LONDON, March 26, (Associated Press.)—The official report of the conference yesterday at the Board of Trade between Government representatives and the Executive Committee of the miners shows that the Government declined to accede to the modifications of the Sankey report, as suggested by the miners, who asked that the six-hour day be brought into force in July, 1920, instead of July, 1921, and that the wage advance be 2s. 6d. instead of 2s.

Andrew Bonar Law, for the Government, argued that the miners had gained enormously by the Sankey report, and that by striking they would lose many prospective advantages from the continuance of the Sankey Commission.

SUBWAY LINES STILL FACE COAL SHORTAGE

NO ACTION BY HYLAN

Silent on Navy Proposal That City Craft Solve Port Strike Problem.

Since the withdrawal by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt of the Navy Department's offer to act in cases of emergency to keep New York traction and light companies supplied with coal, no arrangements have been made to guarantee coal to New York public utilities and the danger of a subway shutdown and lightless nights is not at an end.

Mayor Hylan has not announced any decision with reference to the suggestion of Mr. Roosevelt that the municipal authorities could remedy the situation by using city-owned harbor craft to move coal from the Baltimore & Ohio terminals on Staten Island to the utility plants. No statement was issued on this subject from the City Hall, and Public Service Commissioner Travis H. Whitney said that, so far as he had been advised, the Mayor had not taken any steps to remedy the situation.

"I did not hear that there was anything alarming in the coal situation today," Mr. Whitney said, "and that means that there is a supply on hand for the different public utilities of twenty-four or forty-eight hours, at the least, but the danger of a tie-up through lack of coal is not past. The arrangements which have been made to supply coal, in spite of the strike, are not sufficient to insure a continuous supply and the situation is still being handled from day to day."

Using Non-union Crews.

Most of the coal for the Interborough and other public utilities has been moved in the boats of private boat owners with the help of non-union crews. The attempt of the Railroad Administration to keep the traction companies and other utilities supplied with coal had to be abandoned because the strikers, after giving consent for the use of railroad craft for this purpose, withdrew the consent on the ground that union conditions had been violated. They asserted that union crews of towboats had been asked to haul coal in scows which were manned by non-union men.

The private boat owners issued a denial yesterday that they had withdrawn boats in the service of the Navy Department or refused to re-charter them. They asserted that all craft which had been asked for by any Government department on the ground that it was a Government necessity had been turned over to the Government.

Further efforts of the Government to intervene with a new group of arbitrators have been declined again, it was learned yesterday by the boat owners, who have continued to urge the Government to enforce its original arbitration, the Macy award. Proffers of good offices by a variety of Federal conciliators have been met consistently with a request that the Government make good the assurance of President Wilson, cabled from Paris, that the forthcoming award would be enforced with all the powers of the Government departments interested.

Suggest Concessions.

According to Paul Bonynge, counsel for the boat owners, all the proposals made by the several arbitrators sent by the Government to deal with the situation after the War Labor Board and Umpire V. Everit Macy had retired from it, have been in substance that the private boat owners should grant the same concessions which were made by the Government departments after the strike was declared against the Macy award.

Conciliator James L. Hughes, representing the Department of Labor, held a long consultation yesterday afternoon with the leaders of the harbor workers and it was announced that his ideas of mutual concessions for the purpose of ending the strike, would be placed before the full Strike Committee today.

Officials of the Strike Committee announced yesterday that three more private boat owners had signed agreements to accept the terms of the strikers, making a total of thirty-eight private firms who have accepted the demands of the strikers. The boat owners asserted yesterday, however, that they had lost less than 3 per cent. of their members since the strike began nearly four weeks ago and that they presented today practically a solid front.

Every Style is Not Becoming to Every Girl, But There is a Becoming Style for Every Girl

IN THE GIRLS' DRESS SHOP

IT has been said that in femininity there is the greatest diversity. This is surely apparent in girls between childhood and young womanhood. At these ages no two girls are alike and what is charming on one might not even be becoming to another.

If it is an art to design dresses for women, it is a science to work out successfully well fitting, graceful and becoming styles for these young girls.

It has taken years of experience and study to work out the exact requirements and proportions for each individual type of girl, but as a result there is a becoming style for every girl in the Girls' Dress Shop.

And among them are dresses of plain, checked or plaid taffeta silk, georgette crepe, crepe de chine, foulard, pongee, chiffon or tricolette. Sizes 12 to 16 yrs.

ASSEMBLY APPROVES BOLSHEVIST INQUIRY

Eight Democrats and the Two Socialists Vote Against Investigation Resolution.

SAY IT WILL BE FUTILE

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 26.—After exhausting debate, the Assembly today gave assent to the proposal for running down the Bolsheviki in this State embodied in a concurrent resolution introduced last week by President Pro Tem. J. Henry Walters in the Senate and adopted by that body without dissent and practically without debate. In the Assembly all the Republicans voted for the resolution, but eight Democrats and the two Socialist members voted against it as unnecessary and ineffective.

The Assembly made only one change in the resolution, reducing the appropriation from $50,000 to $30,000, purely for reasons of economy. The change render new action by the Senate necessary, but this will be readily forthcoming tomorrow.

Senator Walters said tonight that he expected to get the inquiry under way before May 1. Indication that it would be thorough was forthcoming today when it was learned that ex-Judge Nathan L. Miller of the Court of Appeals had been asked to serve as counsel to the Committee. Senator Walters, too, is exercising care in the selection of personnel. It was reported tonight that the chairmanship would go to one of three Senators—Clayton R. Lusk of Cortland, who, while a first-year man in the Senate, is known as a lawyer of distinction; Herbert M. Sage of Albany, or Frederick M. Davenport of Oneida.

Minority Leader Charles D. Donohue of the Assembly was compelled to apply the whip to keep his Democratic following in line. Many Democrats manifested an unwillingness to vote for the resolution because, they contended, the investigation would produce no useful result. It was a tribute to Mr. Donohue's leadership that on the final vote only eight out of the fifty-four Democrats voted against the measure. They were C. C. Johnson, Lodinger, Lyons, McCue, McLaughlin, Mullen, O'Hare and Schwab.

The Socialist members, August Claessens of New York and Charles Solomon of Kings, were on the firing line almost continuously throughout the debate. Both admitted that, within the definition the Republican members placed on Bolshevism, they were Bolsheviki. The term was the subject of varied definitions, ranging from "universal social unrest" to "force, violence, and destruction let loose for the overthrow of capitalistic government." The milder definition was approved by the socialists.

"There are two Bolshevists here in this house," said Assemblyman Solomon, "Claessens and myself. If you want to stop the spread of what you have been pleased to call Bolshevism study the causes of social discontent and you will find them in the high cost of living, unemployment, inadequate housing conditions, and the intensity of the struggle for existence generally. What have you done to meet these conditions? And yet you wonder that what you call Bolshevism is spreading through the State.

"I know this resolution will pass, because there aren't enough men and women in this chamber who have the courage of their convictions.

"To the extent that Bolshevism is opposed to capitalistic government, the Socialist Party, as represented in this chamber, is in agreement with that purpose."

"Will the gentleman say that he is willing to overthrow organized government by whatsoever means?" queried Mr. Fertig, Democrat, of the Bronx.

"My answer is found in the fact that my colleague and I are members of this house and employing duly constituted legal means within constitutional limits," replied Mr. Solomon.

THREE PLATOONS OPPOSED.

Would Bankrupt Cities, Opponents Declare at Senate Hearing.

ALBANY, March 26. — City officials from various parts of the State opposed Assemblyman Blakely's mandatory three-platoon system bill for firemen in all cities of the State at a hearing today before the Senate Cities Committee. The increased expense was the chief opposition argument.

Representatives of the Mayors' conference asserted the enactment of the measure would mean the virtual bankruptcy of some municipalities, and Assistant Corporation Counsel McGoldrick of New York said it would increase the city's expense $5,000,000.

James P. Holland of the State Federation of Labor, supporting the bill, charged that firemen opposed to it must have been forced to do so by the men higher in authority. Others who favored the legislation included representatives of the National Firefighters' Association and members of the New York City and other Fire Departments.

ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL BILL.

Albany Measure Creates Forestry Experiment Station in His Honor.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 26. — J. Henry Walters, Senate leader, and Assemblyman Fearon of Syracuse introduced today a bill authorizing the State College of Forestry, at Syracuse University, to establish an experimental station, to be known as The Roosevelt Wild Life Forest Experiment Station, in which there shall be maintained records to show the results of experiments and research work in relation to the habits, life histories, methods of propagation, and management of fish, birds, game, food and fur-bearing animals, and of forest wild life generally.

The measure is in accord with recommendations made by a special committee appointed by Chairman Will H. Hays of the Republican National Committee to suggest some means of fittingly commemorating the life of Theodore Roosevelt.

HURRY ADVERTISING BILLS.

Activities of Promoters Cause Comment at Albany.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 26.—Three bills involving public advertising which have been pending in the Legislature for several weeks are beginning to cause comment now that the promoters are making their final drive to get them on the third reading calendars in time to have them rushed through in the closing moments of the session.

It is said that the billls, which were introduced by Assemblyman Caesar B. F. Barra, one of the Tammany members, would be of benefit chiefly to "Phil" Donohue, Treasurer of Tammany Hall and bosom friend of Charles F. Murphy, who is in the advertising business. The bills take from the courts the power now exercised by them of designating in court orders the newspapers in which court notices are to be published and vest this in the litigants themselves or their lawyers.

Another advertising bill which has given rise to comment would allow from $100,000 to $150,000 to be spent by the city in advertising in a Jewish paper in which Municipal Court Justice Aaron Levy, majority leader of the Assembly when Governor Smith was Speaker, is financially interested. This was introduced by Assemblyman Frederick L. Wells of Kings, a Republican, who said that Jacob L. Livingston, the Republican boss of Kings, had asked him to interest himself in the measure. Judge Levy is an out-and-out Tammany man.

The bill provides that all advertisements for the sale of bonds and of contracts to be let must be advertised in one Jewish newspaper in Brooklyn. There is no such paper in existence in that borough, but the newspaper in which Judge Levy is interested—Der Tag und Warheit—of late has been perfecting plans to issue a Brooklyn edition. The other Jewish dailies in New York City are rrotesting against the bill.

The interest taken by Mr. Livingston has caused some surprise at the Capitol, inasmuch as the advertising is awarded by the Mayor, the Controller, and the Supervisor of The City Record, all Democrats.

PLEAD FOR CONVENTIONS.

No Opposition at Albany Hearing on Direct Primaries Repeal.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 26.—The Rules Committee of the Assembly will have the disposition of the bills repealing in part the direct primary system and restoring the old-time convention system for the selection of State and judicial officers. This became known today when advocates of the convention plan staged an unscheduled hearing before the Assembly Judicial Committee. Assemblyman Louis M. Martin, Chairman of the committee, knew nothing of the hearing and at its end it was said that the committee would turn the measures over to the Rules Committee. In the Senate there is a possibility that the bills will be reported out.

A delegation of Albany County women urged favorable action on the Walton-Fearon bill restoring the party convention. John P. Dutton and William W. Niles, representing the Republican Club of New York City, declared their organization in favor of the measure. No one appeared in opposition.

EPIDEMIC SMITES LABRADOR

Fifty Per Cent. of Northern and 25 of Southern Population Dead.

MONTREAL, March 26. — Fifty per cent. of the inhabitants of Northern Labrador perished during the Winter from an epidemic of influenza, smallpox, and measles, according to dispatches to The Montreal Star sent by mail to Battle Harbor and by wireless to St. John's, N. F. Earlier reports had shown that an epidemic in the southern section of the coast had cost the lives of 25 per cent. of the natives, but first reports from the northern section are contained in today's dispatches.

Forty Newfoundlanders wintering on the coast for the purposes of trade, perished at Nain, with forty-odd Eskimos, representing nearly the whole population of that settlement. Okak, with a population of over 200, is entirely wiped out. At Hebron 200 died, leaving only a remnant of residents to dispose of the bodies, most of which were buried in a single pit without coffins or rites. Fifteen persons, engaged in sealing, died on an island in Okak Bay and their bodies were devoured by animals.

It is estimated that only 400 inhabitants from Groosvater Bay to Nain are left alive, the dispatches say, but the full extent of the calamity will not be known until the opening of navigation in the Summer. Medical aid was unobtainable.

POLICE INSPECTOR REDUCED

Enright Refuses to Explain Demotion Just Prior to Pension.

Police Inspector Frank A. Morris, in charge of the Fifth Inspection District, has been demoted to a Captaincy, and placed in command of the Richmond Hill Precinct in the Borough of Queens to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Captain John Barnes, who died on Tuesday, while on duty at the parade of the 27th Division. Command of the Fifth Inspection District is given to Inspector Thomas V. Underhill, at present in command of the Bureau of National Defense.

When an effort was made to see Police Commissioner Enright today regarding the demotion, word was sent out from his office that no explanation would be given.

Smith's Drug Bill Defeated.

ALBANY, March 26.—The fate of Governor Smith's recommendation that the recently created State Commission of Narcotic Drug Control be abolished and its functions transferred to a bureau of the State Department of Health was sealed today. The Assembly, by a party vote, refused to release from committee bills which were designed to perfect the proposed reorganization. A similar motion was defeated in the Senate last week.

ANNOUNCES BRITAIN WILL PROTECT TRADE

Proposes to Frame a Policy Encouraging Production, Bonar Law Tells Commons.

LONDON, March 26.—The prosperity of the country depends upon increased production, and the efforts of the Government will be directed to framing a policy on that basis, said Andrew Bonar Law, the Government leader, in the House of Commons, today, discussing the fiscal policy of the Government in reply to a motion by a member. Imperial preference, he said, would be put into effect at the earliest possible moment, and the Chancellor of the Exchequer was considering how to give effect to it in the budget.

There would be no hesitation in announcing the general fiscal policy of the Government whenever it was possible to decide how it would be carried out, Mr. Bonar Law declared. The election declarations of Premier Lloyd George would be fulfilled in letter and spirit, but the Government must consider the best permanent system for the country. An anti-dumping bill had been drafted, but had not yet been examined by the Government. Mr. Bonar Law promised that the Government would arrive at a decision as soon as possible and that an announcement would be made promptly thereafter.

The Government leader contended in an argument he advanced in favor of tariffs that the most vital vested interest in the country was high wages. He might be asked by labor, he said, how it would be possible to maintain high wages if cotton goods from Japan were put into the markets at a lower price than British manufacturers must pay for cotton. It was ridiculous to suppose, he said, that the old condition would continue.

TO GUARD FREE LICENSES.

Provost Marshal to Pass on Permits to Peddlers.

Captain Bernard Flood, U. S. A., who was a Lieutenant in the Police Department when his services were borrowed by the Military Intelligence Department of the army, consulted with County Clerk William F. Schneider yesterday as to taking steps to prevent free licenses for peddling goods on the streets from falling into the hands of unworthy persons. The State law gives licenses without charge to honorably discharged soldiers and sailors, and it is estimated that in the last few weeks more than 1,000 licenses have been applied for.

Captain Flood told County Clerk Schneider that many complaints have been received by Major Thomas, the Provost Marshal for this city, that uniformed men were annoying persons on the streets and dwellers in apartment houses, and were selling articles having little or no merit. As a result of the conference of Captain Flood and County Clerk Schneider it was decided that applications for licenses will be referred to the Provost Marshal's office for investigation before they are granted.

TO PROTECT DYE INDUSTRY.

War Board Announces Curb on All Importations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Importation of dye or dyestuffs into the United States is to be carefully censored under a ruling issued today by the War Trade Board, and it is understood that every precaution will be taken to protect the American dye industry which was built up during the world war. The formal order issued follows:

"The War Trade Board announces that hereafter all applications for licenses to import dyes or dyestuffs must be accompanied by a statement giving complete specifications of the character of the dyes or dyestuffs proposed to be imported. A supplemental information sheet, procurable from the Bureau of Imports, Washington, or from any branch office of the board, should be used for this purpose."

Added importance is given to this announcement by the fact that it is made soon after the Chemical Foundation, which will obtain title to many of the German dye and chemical patents seized after the United States entered the war, sent a cablegram to President Wilson asking that he recommend steps which would protect the American dye industry. American interests are especially anxious that no opportunity shall be given German dyemakers to regain the foothold in the industry, so far as the needs of this country are concerned, which they had prior to the war.

MISS DIAB GOES FREE.

Girl Whose Auto Killed Child Breaks Down in Court.

Miss Olga Diab, a 17-year-old student at Packer Institute, was arraigned before County Judge Norman S. Dike in Brooklyn yesterday for sentence on a charge of violating the motor vehicle law. On Oct. 25 last an automobile which she was driving killed a little girl named Jennie Stabile, and Miss Diab drove away without waiting to see what injuries her car had inflicted upon the child.

The Grand Jury dismissed the charges of homicide which were made against her but indicted her for driving away after the accident, and upon this charge she was recently found guilty. Judge Dike today suspended sentence. In contrast to her previous attitude, Miss Diab showed a great deal of emotion in court yesterday.

High Tide to Launch Navy Giant.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The superdreadnought Tennessee, now under construction at the New York Navy Yard, will be launched at the end of April or the end of May. Acting Secretary Roosevelt explained today that the ship is of such size that there is only one tide a month high enough to put her overboard. He said the Tennessee would be the heaviest ship ever launched, the actual weight being 16,500 deadweight tons.

BIG BUSINESS

Since January first, thirty-seven titles, involving more than a quarter of a million dollars each, have been sent to us for examination and guarantee.

One amounted to more than two million dollars and seven others amounted to a million dollars or more. Nine others of them were for more than a half a million each.

Fifty Thousand Dollars a Day for Preachers

—and they need the money right now.

Say, you business man, do you know that the average salary for preachers in the twelve leading denominations is just $774 a year?

That's the pay of the men devoting their lives to making your employees, and yourself, better workmen and better citizens. That's why we business men have to warn you to keep the church out of bankruptcy.

A preacher is a good investment. The man who goes to church on Sunday goes to work on Monday rested, refreshed, happy, ambitious to do his best for you. He is a valuable employee; are you helping to keep him valuable?

Never mind the bronze memorial tablet; look after the preacher's pay envelope. Don't think charity in the face of services rendered. It's debt you owe; the greatest "debt of honor" you ever incurred.

A preacher is a builder of citizens; you couldn't do business without him. You know a church adds value to surrounding property; and it's the preacher who makes the church valuable.

The church needs millions right now. Get the facts about this great investment. The most strictly business task before you in this instant is to say to a stenographer, "Take a letter to

MRS. THORNE SEEKS SON.

Seen in Grandmother's House, She Says—Not There, Family Answers.

Mrs. Mary Casey Thorne, whose husband, Joel Wolfe Thorne, left her a year ago, told Supreme Court Justice Cohalan yesterday through her attorney that she saw her four-year-old son, Joel W., Jr., for whom she has been searching since last September, in the window of the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Samuel Thorne, at 914 Fifth Avenue, on Tuesday, when she looked through field glasses from the opposite side of the street when the parade was passing. Affidavits were also made by friends of Mrs. Mary Casey Thorne that they saw the boy in his grandmother's home.

These affidavits furnished the basis for a habeas corpus application by the mother to compel the grandmother to produce the child in court yesterday, but neither the elder Mrs. Thorne nor the child appeared. Albert Stickney, counsel for the grandmother, was there instead, and told the court that the boy had not been in the house for a year.

Sworn statements by Samuel Thorne, Jr., uncle for the boy, and by the butler to the same effect were filed. Randolph Newman, attorney for the mother, insisted that she ought to know her own child when she saw it. Mr. Stickney, on the other hand, asked the court to censure the opposing lawyer for forcing his way into the Thorne residence with the habeas corpus writ, but the court ruled that Mr. Newman had done nothing improper.

Justice Cohalan said he would try to decide from the affidavits whether the boy watched the parade from his grandmother's home.

FULTON
If your motor trucks cover, on the average, 50 miles a day, you can have 20 miles of delivery a day made FREE by using Fulton Trucks.

When a truck is not operating it is not COSTING, except for interest and overhead. Two Fulton Trucks, one of them idle half the time, will cost you FAR less for deliveries than ONE 3 or 3½-ton truck operating with PART loads ALL the time—and that's what your big trucks DO NOW.

TWO FULTON 1½-ton trucks will deliver 12,000 ton miles MORE service—more Goods—in a year than ONE 3 or 3½-ton truck. The TWO Fultons will cost $500 or $1,000 LESS than your one big truck to buy—will cost you far less to operate and will deliver FAR MORE GOODS in the year.

We KNOW that all we have to do is to sit tight, for perhaps two months, and then we shall be BESIEGED for Fulton Trucks—that ALL good trucks of the Fulton type will be oversold. We KNOW that we shall be CLEANED out. But THAT isn't good business—that isn't EFFICIENCY.

If you come to us THEN we shall NOT be able to get more trucks from the Fulton factory, big and productive though it is, and at THAT time we CAN'T STOP to go into the scientific paring down—the GREAT money saving of your delivery costs, as we can now and WANT to do now.

Now, let us send you the VITAL information you NEED when we can take the time to do it, and when you can take the time to STUDY it.

For, remember, when the REAL flood of business sets in—and it is starting NOW—your time will be GONE—OUR time will be gone—the Trucks will be gone—the OPPORTUNITY will be gone.

Fulton Trucks are the most economical in first cost. They are priced at $1,850, and that is $475 LOWER than the AVERAGE of the Fulton carrying capacity class, and $1,000 LOWER than ANY truck of nearly equal performance value.

Save $420 a Year on GAS

Fulton Trucks run from 14 to 17 miles on one gallon of gas. Seventeen is not unusual. Most trucks run six miles on one gallon. Some makers are VERY proud of getting ten miles to the gallon. A Fulton Truck will save you $420 a year over the AVERAGE truck used for 50 miles a day.

Saving on Oil and TIRES

Fulton Trucks average over 250 miles to a gallon of oil. The average truck gets less than 110 miles to the gallon. Fulton Trucks get 7,000 to 10,000 miles on one set of tires. The AVERAGE truck of the same carrying capacity gets 15% LESS than the Fulton MINIMUM and 20% less than the Fulton average tire mileage.

Fulton Trucks cost 40% LESS in the essentials of operating cost than ANY other make of equal carrying capacity that we know of, and 60% less than SOME that we know of.

You PAY TWICE the FIRST YEAR for MOST trucks, but only ONCE—and THAT at LEAST $475 less—for Fulton Trucks.

A DANGEROUS Waste

Service records SHOW beyond any question of doubt that when you buy a 3 or 3½-ton truck at $4,000 or $4,500, you get $4,000 worth ONLY ONCE IN A WHILE. Service records SHOW that 80% of ALL cartage problems are BETTER taken care of by a 1½-ton truck than any other type.

TWO Fulton 1½-ton trucks costing $1,850 each, or $3,700 for the two, will carry 4 tons 50 to 150 miles a day at a FIRST COST of $500 to $1,000 LOWER than a 3 or a 3½-ton truck and at an OPERATING cost far lower.

You can't count on the full load, every minute, all day use of your 3-ton truck. Deliveries DON'T RUN that way. Your 3-ton truck will be operating at capacity only 20% of the actual 3,000 working hours of the year. It will often be carrying 1½ tons and 2 tons. At other times the 3-ton truck will have more goods to move than it can carry in its maximum number of trips for the day.

Two Places at Once

A 3 or 3½ ton truck CAN'T be in two places at once, but TWO Fulton 1½-ton trucks CAN.

McGRAW ARRANGES NOVEL BATTING ORDER FOR SEASON

GIANTS WILL HAVE VERSATILE ATTACK

SCHUPP IN FINE SHAPE

Southpaw Has Come Back, and Manager McGraw Says He Is in Old-Time Form.

Special to The New York Times.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., March 26.—The Giants today again were fed on the same diet of pitching, batting, and fielding practice. McGraw boiled down the morning practice quite a bit, as many of the boys are pretty sore in body. Some of the better conditioned men already are beginning to get over their stiffness, but several of the youngsters who tried to let out their arms last Saturday and Monday are finding it difficult to throw a lot of spirit into their work.

There should be a little more excitement to the practice beginning with tomorrow, as McGraw will put on the first conflict between his regular team and the second stringers. Each team will employ only young pitchers.

The two teams will line up: Regulars—Burns, lf.; Young, rf.; Chase, 1b; Kauf, cf.; Zimmerman, 3b; Doyle, 2b; Fletcher, ss; McCarty and Smith, catchers; Ross, Winters, and Jones, pitchers.

It may be noted that the batting order which McGraw will present during the coming season will contain alternating right and left handed hitters all the way down the line. Burns, lead off, hits right handed, and Young, second on the list, left handed. In the order named the other players follow: Chase, right-handed; Kauff, left-handed; Zimmerman, right-handed; Doyle, left-handed; Fletcher, right-handed; E. Smith, left-handed, and McCarty, right-handed. Smith will bat against right-handed pitchers and McCarty against the left-handers.

Few clubs in baseball have such a versatile attack, and a pitcher, whether right-handed or left-handed, has no soft spot to ease himself into. The new Giant lineup has all of its speed on the top and is followed by the men who are capable of driving runners around.

Ferdie Schupp, the clever little left handed pitcher, no longer is regarded here as an uncertainty. There no longer is any doubt that Schupp has come back. Right now he puts more on the ball than any pitcher in the camp. Ferdie is using more speed than any man here and says his arm is giving him no trouble. He had treatment all Winter, and even took up a course of diets. McGraw said: "I don't know exactly what they did to him in Louisville, but they seem to have made a good job out of it. Schupp looks like his old self again, no mistake about that."

In batting practice this afternoon, Brogan, Cleary, Smith, Benton, Ross, Steele, Jones, and Ryan did the pitching. Benton acted as though he was a bit stiff in his shoulders today.

McGraw seems to think very well of John Paul Jones, the young fellow recently discharged from the navy. Like Perritt, Jones comes from Shreveport, La., and he has quite a facial resemblance to Pol. But more than that, McGraw likes the way he handles himself in the box. He is a big, sturdy chap, and a right hander. In 1917, pitching for Shreveport, Jones led the Texas League pitchers. Last season he was in the navy and still hangs on to his sailor uniform.

COLUMBIA TO PLAY TIGERS.

Will Meet on Diamond Here April 19—24 Games on Schedule.

Twenty-four games are on the Columbia University baseball schedule for this season according to the list as it was announced yesterday by Levering Tyson, graduate manager of athletics. The opening game is the Seton Hall and will be played on South Field on April 5, while the closing contest will be the annual Commencement Day battle with Pennsylvania on June 4. Seventeen of the games will be played on South Field.

For the first time in many years Princeton will play the Blue and White in New York, the game being slated for South Field on April 19. The last game between the two was played at Princeton half a dozen years ago and it is twenty years since the two met on a New York diamond. There is no game with Yale on the card for the first time in fifteen years and Harvard, too, has disappeared from the Blue and White list. However, there are to be home and home series with Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, Brown, Syracuse, Wesleyan and Fordham. The only extensive trip planned for the team is into New England in the middle of May for games with Wesleyan, Brown and Dartmouth.

April 5, Seton Hall at South Field; 9, New York University at Ohio Field; 12, Manhattan at South Field; 16, Swarthmore at South Field; 17, Johns Hopkins at South Field; 19, Princeton at South Field; 22, Holy Cross at South Field; 25, Colgate at South Field; 26, Wesleyan at South Field; 30, Fordham at Fordham.

May 2, Cornell at South Field; 3, Stevens at Hoboken; 7, Fordham at South Field; 9, Wesleyan at Middletown; 10, Brown at Providence; 12, Dartmouth at Hanover; 16, Amherst at South Field; 17, Syracuse at Syracuse; 21, Pennsylvania at South Field; 24, Brown at South Field; 29, Dartmouth at South Field; 30, Lafayette at South Field.

Baseball Schedule Includes Contests with Local College Nines.

Manager Christopher of the New York University baseball team yesterday announced the schedule for the Violet nine for the coming season. Eleven games have been arranged so far, and negotiations are being made for four more with Amherst, Hamilton, Trinity and Middlebury. Five of the scheduled games will be played at home on Ohio Field.

The schedule follows: April 5, Lehigh at South Bethlehem; April 9, Columbia at Ohio Field; April 12, Rutgers at New Brunswick; April 16, open; April 19 (A. M.), Union at Ohio Field; April 23, open; April 26, Lafayette at Easton; April 30, Stevens at Ohio Field; May 3, open; May 7, C. C. of N. Y. at City College Stadium; May 10, Wesleyan at Ohio Field; May 14, Stevens at Hoboken, N. J.; May 17, Union at Schenectady, N. Y.; May 21, open; May 24, Swarthmore at Ohio Field.

COLUMBIA TAKES UP BOXING

Fisticuffs Gets Official Recognition on Morningside Heights.

Boxing has been officially introduced as a part of the work of physical training at Columbia University, and yesterday the freshman classes in physical education were put through their first drill in the manly art.

One-round bouts were staged, and every member of the classes had a chance to learn the rudiments of the game under the direction of Gerald Weeman, instructor of boxing. The new course is part of the physical training work required of every undergraduate.

KNABE TESTIFIES FOR FEDS.

Former Baltimore Manager Tells of Signing Big League Talent.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Testimony apparently designed to prove organized baseball a monopoly within the meaning of the Sherman Anti-Trust act was introduced today in the trial in the District of Columbia Supreme Court of the damage suit of the Baltimore Federal League Club against the National and American Leagues and certain officials of the former Federal League. The Baltimore Club is seeking to recover damages of $900,000.

Counsel for the Baltimore Club called two witnesses today, F. Otto Knabe, Assistant Manager of the Chicago Club of the National League and formerly Manager of the Baltimore Federals, and L. Edwin Goldman, former Director of the complainant club. The former said he had signed numerous players who came to the Baltimore Club and that the club was compelled to offer unusually large salaries. This was due, he said, to realization by the players that they were going to a new organization and fear that if anything happened to the new venture they might find it extremely difficult to return to the ranks of organized baseball, and might even be out of employment for the rest of their professional lives.

Both witnesses were asked many questions regarding the reserve in the contracts of professional baseball players, Goldman asserting that it was through these clauses the organization maintained control of players from one season to another.

In response to questions regarding the relative value of baseball players, Goldman gave it as his opinion that actually there were not enough real first class ball players in the country to form one team. He explained the system through which players are purchased and drafted, and agreed, on cross-examination, that the Federal League in paying big salaries to National and American League stars who jumped to the Federals did not have to take into consideration the original draft of the individuals.

"We would have been glad of the opportunity to draft men, however," he added, "and would have paid for them accordingly."

George Wharton Pepper, counsel for organized baseball interests, asked the witness whether he considered that part of the salary paid professional ball players was given them in consideration of the reservation the clubs held upon their services for the next season. Mr. Goldman said it was not his understanding that the salary of ball players was so divided into two parts. He said the Federal League in its contracts with players also inserted a reservation clause.

The examining attorney asked the witness whether he considered that the rules and regulations of organized baseball regarding relations between the various clubs did not in effect work to prevent rich clubs from buying out the poor ones. In reply the witness said a rich club could get certain advantages by reason of its wealth, but that it would not be good business for one club to have playing for it all the real first-class players.

BRAZILL MAKES HOME RUN.

Brooklyn Rookie Bangs Out First Circuit Clout of Season.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 26.—The squad of Dodgers in training here was increased today by the arrival of Warren Zan young first baseman. The youngster did not have to wait long before being p to work, as Manager Robbie, after sending him through some light fielding and batting stunts, sent him to the initial sack in the nine-inning game which was played this afternoon between the regulars and the Yannigans. The player covered the first stop during the entire game. He bats and throws left-handed.

The contest was a typical training camp game and was won by the Yannigans by a score of 11 to 3. The players proved that they are fast recovering their batting eyes by scattering a total of twenty-nine base hits over the lot. Ollie O'Mara was the leading swatter, collecting four hits out of five times at bat. Two of his clouts were doubles. Ivan Olson made a triple and two singles. Griffith and Nagle each made two hits, and Brazill, a rookie infielder, made the first home run of the training season.

Mamaux, Grimes, Pfeffer, and Marguard appeared on the mound during the first six innings and two local players working out with the club finished the game. Several curve balls were thrown by the members of the Dodgers' hurling staff during the batting melée.

MRS. BARLOW TAKES TITLE.

Philadelphia Golfer Wins North and South Final from Miss Fownes.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 26.—Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of Philadelphia won the North and South championship at Pinehurst today by defeating Miss Sara Fownes of Pittsburgh by 1 up, at the eighteenth hole of the final contest. Miss Fownes gained the lead at the eleventh hole, and after this both played more steadily, and all the holes were halved up to the seventeenth.

Here Mrs. Barlow topped her drive, but approached to within fifteen feet of the cup, and sank the long putt for a winning 3, thus squaring the match. Going to the eighteenth both were equal distant from the green in 3. Miss Fownes's four left her too far away to go down in 5. Mrs. Barlow was nine or ten feet away from the cup in 4, and won the match and the title by running down the putt.

With the exception of these two long and all-important putts on the seventeenth and eighteenth neither contestant did anything sensational on the greens, and as both landed in numerous difficulties in the course of the round, the medal score ran well over the 90 mark, including some generous approximations.

The new champion won the title in 1916 and lost it to Miss Elaine V. Rosenthal of the Ravisloe Club in 1917. Miss Rosenthal was succeeded last year by Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd.

Mrs. Hurd played by far the best round in today's finals, going out in 40 and coming home in 41 for an 81, incidentally defeating Mrs. Myra Helmer Pritchard of Midlothian by 7 up and 6 to play, in the contest for the consolation trophy. Mrs. Pritchard went out in 46, but was 4 down at the turn. Mrs. A. J. Harris of Janesville, Wis., won the trophy in the second eight by defeating Mrs. William West of Philadelphia 2 up. Mrs. Hurd and Mrs. Barlow, who tied for the medal in the qualifying round, will play off the tie on Friday.

CHESS MATCH UNDECIDED.

Capablanca and Kostich Deadlocked in Opening Game.

HAVANA, March 26.—The international chess match between José R. Capablanca, chess champion of Cuba, and Boris Kostich, the Serbian master and champion of the Western Chess Association in the United States, was formally opened at the Union Club today.

Capablanca won the toss for first move and elected to play the King's Pawn Opening, to which Kostich responded with the Petroff Defense. Play lasted to the close of the afternoon session and was resumed in the evening, but so closely were the experts matched that they failed to arrive at a decision and finally adjourned the game after sixty moves had been recorded. Neither player had any appreciable advantage in position. The finish of this game will be held over until Monday, and the second game started tomorrow in accordance with the program.

YANK PITCHERS CUT LOOSE WITH SPEED

O'Doul and Schneider Are Ready to Face Dodgers in First Game in South.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 26.—A cloudy sky and winds from the ocean interfered to some extent with the work of the Yankees today, but did not prevent Miller Huggins from putting his charges through two long practice sessions at South Side Park. Here and there could be seen evidence that some player or another had passed through the sore muscle stage and was able to put speed behind his throw, but for the most part it was a sore-limbed squad and there were no regrets when taps sounded on the afternoon session.

Huggins followed the same schedule that he used on the first two days, as he does not figure that the players are quite ready for a real game at this time. He said tonight he might take a chance with an abbreviated game tomorrow, but the chances are that he will wait until Friday before staging a real engagement. The Yankees are scheduled to play the Brooklyn Club on the Yanks field on Saturday in the opener of their Spring series.

O'Doul and Schneider cut loose with some real speed this afternoon and also tried out their arms with a few curves, not many. Both are ready now to pitch at least five innings. George Mogridge and Jack Quinn appear to be progressing faster than the other pitchers who had not been playing during the off season, and each showed some smoke in the practice this afternoon. So it appears that Huggins will have pitchers enough for his opener with the Dodgers. He plans to use three pitchers.

The squad was not augmented today by the arrival of any of the late starters but Duffy Lewis is expected in time for at least one workout tomorrow. The former Boston slugger is supposed to have left Hot Springs, Ark., this morning for Jacksonville. Huggins has heard nothing more from either Leonard or Fewster, the only other players likely to report here. Baker and Jones are not expected.

Colonel T. L. Huston announced today that the uniforms to be worn by the Yankees this season will differ but slightly from those of the past campaign. One difference is that the stockings will be blue, without the white stripe. All players who were in the service during the war will wear chevrons to attest the fact. About a dozen of the Huggins squad were in the army or navy when the armistice was signed last November.

For the game with Brooklyn on Saturday, Huggins will use his regular infield as far as is possible, the only break being at third, where Ward will fill Baker's position. He is in doubt as to his outfield but is inclined to try out some of his youngsters in order to get a better line on their actions under fire. Dominick Mullaney, a veteran umpire who served a season in the majors a few years ago, will handle the indicator in all these games, accompanying the two clubs on their jaunt northward.

GIANNINI WATCHES CREWS.

New Columbia Coach Sees Oarsmen in Action for First Time.

Eugene J. Giannini, reported for duty at the Columbia rowing headquarters in the Gould boathouse, at 116th Street and the Hudson River, yesterday, and saw half a dozen Columbia eights in action, the fleet being made up of five freshman, two 'Varsity, and one mixed combination. It was his first introduction to the squad, and he seemed to think that the material looked fairly good.

Giannini arrived at the boathouse late with Charles Halsted Mapes, Chairman of the university's Committee on Athletics. Fred Plaisted had boated the crews, sending them out two at a time, because only two barges were available for use. With two of the freshman combinations Plaisted rowed at No. 5, but when the 'Varsity boats took the water he put his single overboard and rowed in company with them, coaching as he went along. Water conditions were ideal.

Following the practice Giannini, Mapes, and Plaisted had a conference, and a plan of action for the season was mapped out. Giannini, because of his business engagements, will be unable to devote more than two or three afternoons a week to the squad for the present, and probably not until the final week of the season, when the crew is being prepared for the Child's Cup race, will he be able to give more time to it.

SHIFTS IN YALE'S CREWS.

Dr. Mather Plans Changes in Boating of Oarsmen.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 26.—Yale's rowing squad today reported at the George Adee Boathouse to the head coach, Dr. Mather Abbott, for its first practice in direct preparation for the opening regatta of the season, the two mile races which will be rowed on the Housatonic River at Derby on April 19 between the first and second 'Varsity crews of Yale and the University of Pennsylvania. The first two Yale 'Varsity and the first two freshman crews reported today to Dr. Abbott, who directed the work of the 'Varsity oarsmen, while Alton Hyatt, Captain and stroke last year and assistant coach this season, looked after the 1922 oarsmen.

Since the squad first reported about six weeks ago almost no changes in the makeup of the first 'Varsity eight have been made, but the boat has not been showing the speed desired, and a number of changes are planned before the close of the week.

Two promising candidates for the position of 'Varsity stroke oar, Soderston and Schieffelin, have been tried. It is likely that Soderston will be retained and that Schieffelin will have a place in the waist of the 'Varsity shell.

Dr. Abbott plans a series of races between the first and second 'Varsity and the first and second crews respectively until college reopens next week.

A shell made by Rough, the Oxford, England, boatbuilder, and received two years ago, has just been rigged and put in use.

CAMP IS ON A. A. U. BOARD.

Yale Athletic Adviser Will Serve on Governing Body.

Only one change is furnished in the delegates at large for the A. A. U. National Board of Governors, according to the appointments announced yesterday at local headquarters. Walter Camp, for many years athletic adviser at Yale and leader of the Athletic Committee of the Navy Department's Commission on Training Camp Activities, has been appointed the fifth delegate. The other delegates, selected by Samuel J. Dallas, A. A. U. President, are men who have served in this capacity for years.

Colonel A. G. Mills, one of the founders of the A. A. U.; Colonel Robert M. Thompson, President of the American Olympic Committee; William F. Garcelon, former graduate manager of athletics at Harvard, and M. F. Humphrey, President of the Olympic Club, San Francisco, are the other delegates.

Inferno, Canadian Horse, Dead.

TORONTO, March 26.—Inferno, one of the best race horses ever foaled in Canada, was put to death yesterday at the Ontario Veterinary College, where sections of his skeleton will be preserved. During several years, beginning in 1905, Inferno won many open events, including the King Edward Hotel Cup three years in succession.

STARS IN TENNIS TOURNEY.

Many Racquet Experts In Draw for Indoor Title Event Saturday.

The draw for the twentieth annual indoor national tennis championship was publicly made at the 7th Regiment Armory yesterday afternoon by A. C. Postley, Chairman of the Tournament Committee and official referee of the event. There were fifty-eight entries, necessitating six byes, evenly divided at the top and bottom of the list.

National Champion R. Lindley Murray is unable to compete, and Frederick B. Alexander, who recently defeated him in Buffalo, will enter only the doubles. But aside from these two notable absentees the singles draw presents a thoroughly representative list.

The indoor titleholder of the last two seasons, S. Howard Voshell of Brooklyn, will play through, and is drawn in the upper half, along with Abraham Bassford, Jr., A. S. Cragin, Frank Anderson, C. B. Herd, W. T. Tilden, Jr., Dr. William Rosenbaum, and other stars. In the lower half are G. Carlton Shafer, Craig Biddle, Ingo F. Hartman, H. B. O'Boyle, Fred Anderson, and the boy prodigy, Vincent Richards, making a fairly even division of talent.

Play will begin at the 7th Regiment Armory on Saturday morning, March 29, at 10 o'clock. Entries for the doubles are still open. The complete draw is as follows:

TOWNSEND SWIMMERS BEST

Take Dual Meet from De Witt Clinton in C. C. N. Y. Pool.

The Townsend Harris Hall swimming team easily defeated De Witt Clinton High School in a dual meet held last night at the City College swimming pool.

The Clinton swimmers annexed three firsts, but failed to take enough second and third places to make up for the other losses. Pressman of Clinton was the individual star, taking the dive for form and the century swim.

The fifty-yard swim was the most keenly contested event of the evening. Bergman of Clinton nosing out Palmer of Harris, who overtook him after the Red and Black boy assumed the lead.

SHOEMAKER BEATS WESTON

Amateur Champion Outplays Professional at N. Y. A. C.

J. Howard Shoemaker, national amateur pocket billiard champion, defeated Charles Weston, professional, last night in an exhibition match at the New York A. C. by the convincing margin of 125 to 91 in seventeen frames. The amateur champion, playing steadily and in superb stroke from the start, led in scoring throughout. As the match progressed Shoemaker's efforts improved and Weston was left far in the ruck.

Shoemaker took ten of the frames and returned high runs of 25 and 18. Weston had to be content with four frames. His highest runs were 14 and 13. Two of the frames were evenly divided and the other, the seventeenth, was utilized by Shoemaker to complete his string with four points.

The score by frames:

J. Howard Shoemaker—15 3 3 12 12 13 10 9 2 9 7 8 1 8 7 4—126. Scratches, 7; high runs, 25 and 18.

Charles Weston—1 11 9 2 2 1 4 5 5 12 8 7 8 13 6 7—91. Scratches, 5; high runs, 14 and 13.

Porter Defeats Ortiz with Cue.

Don Porter scored a close victory over Anthony Ortiz last night in the three-cushion carom billiard tournament at Daly's Academy. The score was 35 to 33. Ortiz made the highest run of the match, a cluster of seven points. Porter's best run showed three.

Cosgrove Wins at Angle Game.

In the three-cushion billiard tournament of the A. A. B. A. at Doyle's Academy, Joseph Cosgrove defeated Fay Scudder last night by 35 to 26 points. A. Stewart won the first block of his two nights' match at English billiards from C. Morris by 500 to 443.

SENATE FAVORS BOXING BILL

Sunday Baseball Measure Also Likely to Pass Upper House.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 26.—The Senate, after brief debate today, voted to place the Bibbs Boxing bill on the third reading calendar. The bill provides for the creation of a single-headed athletic commission to regulate the sport in this State for limited bouts and a decision by a referee.

The Senate Codes Committee reported favorably by a vote of six to five the bill sanctioning baseball games on Sunday afternoons.

Both bills are regarded here as likely to pass the Senate, where the twenty-two Democrats will vote for them, while not a few Republicans, who formerly were opposed, now favor both measures.

N. Y. A. C. Chess Players to Dine.

The chess players at the New York Athletic Club are planning a program of activities, including a tournament to be started on March 29 and a series of interclub team matches, under the supervision of the Chess Committee, consisting of Colonel J. R. Branch, Chairman; Dr. Robert L. McCready and Jasper A. Campbell.

This evening the chess members will gather at a dinner, which will be followed by a simultaneous exhibition by H. Helms, editor of the American Chess Bulletin. Major J. Moore Hanham of the Manhattan Chess Club has been engaged as coach.

SAY WEISGERBER DID GERMAN TESTS

WORK FOR ARMY QUESTIONED

Defendant Did Not Show Proper Regard for the Service, Said Captain Belcher.

Captain Edwin G. Weisgerber of the Gas Service of the United States Army, at one time in his career worked for German military authorities, performing experiments with high explosives, both in Africa and at the Kiel Canal, according to testimony brought out by witnesses yesterday in the court-martial of Captain Weisgerber which is now being held in Corbin Hall on Governors Island.

In answer to a question by the counsel for the defense, Major E. Lowry Humes of Pittsburgh, Captain Lewis R. Rowell, who was associated with Captain Weisgerber in experiments at Camp Dix, N. J., said that his suspicions had first been directed against the loyalty of the latter when he learned that the defendant had "trained with the German Army." Captain Rowell admitted that Captain Weisgerber had never made a secret of the fact that at one time he was connected with the armed forces of the Kaiser.

It was explained later that the German Government had offered Captain Weisgerber employment when he had first graduated from Heidelberg and he had accepted. The Captain, it was said, was a born American citizen. Another bit of testimony brought out by Captain Rowell was to the effect that Captain Weisgerber had criticised his superior at Camp Dix. Captain H. D. Trounce, who was at one time in the British Army.

"And England expects to lick Germany with men like that," were the words of the defendant, according to Captain Rowell.

The witness admitted further under cross-examination that several officers at Camp Dix had been in the habit of criticising Captain Trounce. He admitted that in a report he himself had made unfavorable comment on that officer's "bad judgment."

Captain Paul W. Belcher, another engineer officer, who was connected with the Engineers' School at Washington, said that Captain Weisgerber, in his opinion, did not show the proper regard for the service and the country, and that he had so reported to the Bureau of Military Information.

"In my office Captain Weisgerber made the statement that 'no Colonelcy for him and for Major Zimmerman, no fuel for the army and navy,'" said Captain Belcher. "He further made the assertion that the Government needed him worse than he needed the Government."

At the morning session there were several witnesses who had examined the fuel offered by Captain Weisgerber to the British Government. G. B. Helsig, Assistant Instructor of Chemistry at the University of Minnesota, said that he had examined two specimens of the fuel, and that one showed one one-hundredth of 1 per cent. of picric acid, while the other was just plain gasoline.

Captain Edward A. Doyle, another witness, took up the question of the interchangeable, standardized pipe connection, which the defendant is alleged to have recommended for oxygen containers, tanks, and regulators. Captain Doyle, who said that he had had many years of experience in this sort of work, asserted that he was so surprised that an officer of the army should have suggested such a thing that he sent back to Captain Weisgerber to be sure that officer had meant his recommendations to be taken seriously.

The witness went on to explain that at present pipe connections for oxygen and hydrogen have different sized pipe connections and a different sort of valves. He declared that, otherwise, there would be danger of putting hydrogen in an oxygen tank or vice versa. If this happened, the witness said, there would be danger of explosion and serious accidents. It was to avoid possibility of accidents, he explained, that the different sized and differently adjusted pipe connections were used.

Henry R. Swartley, manufacturer of oxygen, hydrogen, and acetylene containers, was called by the Government to tell how long it would have taken the nation to get the equipment if the radical change suggested by Captain Weisgerber was carried into effect.

"Suppose the Government had adopted single standards for all gases during 1918, while we were at war with Germany," asked Major Francis M. Bass, the Judge Advocate, of the witness, "was there any available equipment?"

"There was not," answered Mr. Swartley. The witness then, in answer to other questions, estimated that it would have taken fully a year to get the equipment needed. Mr. Swartley said that there were about 300 concerns in the United States making the sort of equipment that would be needed.

During the morning session, witnesses, among them a lawyer, an army officer, and a woman, Mrs. Edward B. Morris of Newark, sister of the former wife of the defendant, testified to facts in the accused man's private life, upon which the Government is basing some of its allegations. It was stated that he and his wife, who now lives in East Orange, had not lived together for five years, but that she had not gotten a legal divorce until only a few days ago. While in Washington, witnesses asserted, Captain Weisgerber had lived with another woman as his wife and had so introduced her to his brother officers and their families.

The court-martial will be continued this morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Hackett Sings Duke in "Rigoletto," Werrenrath Valentin in "Faust."

Two men of Mr. Gatti's more than 50 per cent American company sang at the Metropolitan yesterday with distinction in rôles ordinarily given to foreign stars. With Barrientos, De Luca, and De Segurola in last evening's "Rigoletto" appeared again Charles Hackett, an acknowledged star and already a popular one, though the Duke in this opera must challenge living memories of Caruso. Miss Braslau also gave added cause for musical satisfaction as well as native pride. At a special matinée "Faust," earlier in the day, Miss Farrar sang with Martinelli, Delaunois, Rothier, and others, Miss Howard taking a minor rôle, and Reinald Werrenrath appearing as Valentin, his first essay of a principal part here.

Mr. Werrenrath's approach from the concert to the operatic stage, first as Silvio in a five-minute episode of "Pagliacci" recently, and now as the baritone with important airs to sing at more than one point in "Faust," had been shrewdly advised by Victor Maurel and sanctioned by Gatti. He sang, if not greatly—for Valentin has its more distant memories of Del Puente and Campanari—at least with great beauty and sincere art. Just as Hackett has done in a rising scale of tenor parts, so Mr. Werrenrath "makes haste slowly," but he is making his place secure as he goes. While in action he has yet to acquire more of stage tradition, the Metropolitan is the place for good singing to win its public, as surely as any opera house in the world.

Damrosch Going to France Soon.

Walter Damrosch is to sail for France early in April to conduct several symphony concerts there and to look after the American Army School for Bandmasters and Band Musicians, which he established last Summer at the request of General Pershing.

MUSIC NOTES.

Hildegard Nash Donaldson, violin, and Bruce Simonds, piano, will give a benefit recital for the Avenue B Nursery this afternoon at the Cosmopolitan Club.

Cantors Meisels, Sternberg, and Greenbaum, with Marie Deutscher, violin, will give a Passover benefit for the needy of the east side tonight at the Educational Alliance.

Rosalie Miller, soprano, and others will appear on Saturday evening at Aeolian Hall in a concert for the Blind Men's Improvement Club.

A NEW "CHU-CHIN-CHOW."

Gest Also Has "Aphrodite" Scheduled for a Century Production.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 25.—Morris Gest left London for Paris today after a week's strenuous work which will result in a considerable addition to the exchange of stage commodities between New York and London. A new edition of "Chu-Chin-Chow" is in Gest's baggage, and when it is produced in New York he hopes that both Oscar Asche and his wife Lily Brayton will appear in it.

In the circumstances a long look ahead is necessary, and Mr. Gest's plans for a new edition of "Chu-Chin-Chow" contemplate its New York production as late as February, 1920.

At an even remoter date, a successor to "Chu-Chin-Chow" will see the light in "Mecca," another Eastern fantasy, with Oscar Asche doing the book, Percy Fletcher the music, Percy Anderson the designing, Simmonds making the costumes, and Joseph Harker painting the scenery.

"Aphrodite," a stage version by Fendaye of Pierre Loti's famous and very undressed story, will be given by Elliott Comstock & Gest at the Century Theatre next October, and Gest expects to pick up some more Parisian tidbits while he is over there. Gest made a number of arrangements here whereby several of the firm's American successes will be produced in London and Paris.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Penny Wise," which closed its engagement at the Belmont Theatre last Saturday, will resume its New York run next Monday at the Punch and Judy.

Eugene Walter's newest play, "The Challenge," will be given a preliminary production in Washington this Spring. The cast will include Margaret Lawrence, Alan Dinehart, and John Holliday.

A play from the French, entitled "Montmarte," will soon be put into rehearsal by A. H. Woods.

Amelia Summerville will be seen in the Theatre Guild production of "The Bonds of Interest," at the Garrick Theatre on April 14.

"Bohohemia," contrary to announcement, will continue its run at the Greenwich Village Theatre. "Shakuntula," a fifth century Hindu play, will be presented on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday afternoons, beginning April 8.

"The Doubter's Faith" will have its first performance tonight at Butler Davenport's Bramhall Playhouse in Twenty-seventh Street.

"Smith, Jones, and Brown," a musical comedy, will be produced next season by Oliver Morosco.

SCRAMBLE FOR PRISON JOBS

Places of Warden Moyer and Three Appointees to be Filled.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, March 26.—William H. Moyer, for over two years Agent and Warden of Sing Sing, in an interview today confirmed an unofficial report that he had resigned, and gave as his reason that he desired to give Superintendent of Prisons Charles F. Rattigan a free hand to name his own Wardens.

The first announcement that Mr. Moyer will step out April 15 precipitated a scramble today, not alone for his place but for three rotary jobs the Warden is empowered to fill—superintendent of industries at $3,200 per year, confidential clerk at $1,750 and assistant clerk at $1,500.

Prison reformers, led by Thomas Mott Osborne, former Warden, who enthusiastically supported Governor Smith last election after he declared for more liberal prison management, are exerting pressure upon the Albany officials to have an out-and-out prison reformer appointed. The Westchester county Democrats are advancing three candidates, led by James H. Moran, independent Democrat and publisher of the Democratic Register of Ossining.

Two Soldier Artists Play Again.

Louis Wins and Edouard Gendron, two soldier artists of France, who won critical praise at Carnegie Hall recently, for the first time in America gave a recital of sonatas for violin and piano in Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon. Like the veterans of the Paris Conservatoire Orchestra, these chamber musicians marked their second public concert here by playing a program that recognized no barriers of war. They gave classics of Handel, Mozart, Beethoven, and Schumann, which they had made their special field in Europe before the call to military service. On April 10 they are to present more of their own countrymen's latest work of popular appeal at this time, including sonatas of Guillaume Lekeu, Gabriel Faure, and Sylvio Lazzari.

"The Good Bad Woman" April 7.

FURTHER DELAY.

The censure which has been visited upon the Peace Conference for its unconscionable delay in ending the war will be redoubled in volume and severity if the signing of the Treaty is put off until May 1 merely for the sake of making a comprehensive treaty to be signed by all the parties to the conflict. There may be good reasons for putting the terms of peace into one treaty instead of four, for preparing an instrument to be signed by Germany, Austria, Bulgaria, and Turkey as parties of the one part, and all the nations associated in the war against them as parties of the other part. But it is preposterous to assume that the necessary changes in the plan would consume a month of time; it may be declared without hesitation that if a month were required, the change in the plan would not be worth while.

The world's quarrel was with Germany. She was the instigator and first cause of the outbreak. She is still the head and front of the enemy forces. When we make an end of the war with her it will be ended with her allies, for they are minor quantities. The world is very little concerned about them. Austria is shorn and parceled; Bulgaria will have to do what is required of her, and Turkey is practically non-existent. And with Bulgaria and Turkey the United States was not even at war. The Conference would arouse the world's indignation, it would give freer play to dangerous forces that have already made trouble enough, should it disappoint expectation by such an unreasonable and unjustified postponement of peace.

We fear that the Conference is in sore need of better information as to the present attitude of the peoples of the allied nations and of the United States toward it and its deliberations. Impatience with the slowness of the progress made in Paris is already everywhere manifested; it is growing. It is to be feared, moreover, that the Conference lacks clear understanding of the political situation of the enemy Powers. The Conference ought to have knowledge of what is going on in Germany, it ought to see that every day and week of delay will enable the Germans to put themselves in a position where it will be more difficult to enforce the conditions of the Treaty. The Hungarian episode ought to open its eyes to what is going on. And all the time the Bolsheviki are profiting by the indulgence and great consideration for their wishes and feelings exhibited by the representatives of some of the nations at Paris. The world cannot with safety put up with any further postponement of peace.

THEATRES OF WAR.

To Mr. WINSTON SPENCER CHURCHILL things are apt to seem very dark or very bright, and perhaps most often very dark, particularly when he is defending a bill in the House of Commons. Nevertheless the official reports on conditions in Egypt which have now appeared suggest that he was nearer the truth in describing that country as "in a state of virtual insurrection" than were his more euphemistic colleagues. There have been serious and bloody riots; and Germans, Bolsheviki, and Turks may be counted on to do what they can to make Egypt uncomfortable for the British, which means making it ultimately uncomfortable for most Egyptians.

Mr. CHURCHILL also gave a comprehensive picture of the fighting around the borders of Soviet Russia. The British are giving supplies and munitions to the Esthonians and other Baltic races which have won some considerable successes in the past few weeks, and which apparently are receiving some support from Scandinavian volunteers who do not want to see the Red revolution sweeping any further west. In the south DENIKIN, in the east KOLCHAK are also supported by the British and seem to be at least holding their own against the Bolsheviki. But the French and Greek forces in the Ukraine have been forced to fall back before superior numbers, and in this quarter the population seems to prefer even undesirable Russians to intervening foreigners.

These are wars which will continue so long as the Bolshevist leaders retain their power and their determination to stir up worldwide revolution. The continuing wars are further away from us than they are from the British, but the whole world would very soon feel it if Egypt were turned over to German, Bolshevist, or unmodified native control. These campaigns are with us whether we like it or not, and they cannot be brought to a conclusion by thrusting our heads in the sand or by treating Bolsheviki as brothers.

FOR POSTMASTER OF BOSTON.

It is a little more than fifty years since THOMAS A. JENCKES of Rhode Island made a report in the House of Representatives recommending that the merit system be established in the Federal civil service. That memorable pioneer of civil service reform was far in advance of most of the politicians of his time. The fruit of his labors ripened slowly at first, in later years rapidly. Among the many extensions of civil service reform, President WILSON'S executive order in regard to first-class Postmasterships was one of the most striking. Second and third class Postmasterships were torn from the spoilsmen, not without great foaming at the mouth, and gnashing of the teeth; but, surely, a big, fat first-class Postmastership was, is, and ever should be awarded on rigidly political grounds. Yet a Washington dispatch to The Boston Transcript tells us that "no less than forty-four candidates for the position of Postmaster at Boston have filed their applications with the Civil Service Commission." Experience and ability will be the main tests.

This would be sorry reading for the faithful were it not that one dreads to think of the pained feelings of Mr. BURLESON should the candidate proved to have the highest qualifications be guilty of being a Republican. This lamentable case has occurred in Newark. The indiscreet Republican at the head of the list hasn't got the job. The old spoils gospel is still believed in, notably in Texas, the State of that immortal Republican, WEBSTER FLANAGAN. Let us hope, for Mr. BURLESON'S sake, and perhaps for the sake of Mr. DAVID I. WALSH, the Democratic Senator-to-be from Massachusetts, that the "high man" of the forty-four will be a Democrat in good and regular standing.

THE PRICE OF COAL.

Pennsylvania is answering its own question as to why the price of coal is rising when it should fall. There is now before the Legislature of that leading coal State a bill proposing a tax of 1 per cent. on all coal mined, hard or soft. It is Pennsylvania's way to put on a tax when the price is high enough to make it worth while, and the State learns by experience. The previous Pennsylvania tax was quashed for more reasons than can be given here, but mention may be made of those which the pending bill proposes to meet.

The earlier tax was discriminatory between anthracite and bituminous, so this bill taxes all coal. The earlier tax was in the nature of an export tax, which is unconstitutional. Therefore, this tax is levied in language asserting that the tax is for intrastate purposes. The earlier tax was allotted to the counties producing the coal taxed in proportions which were discriminatory toward other counties, so this tax is a State tax only. This interests chiefly lawyers, but consumers can be sure that their experience will be similar, whatever the fate of the tax. The earlier tax was about a nickel, so the wholesalers added a dime to the price and the retailers added a quarter. Millions were collected from consumers, thousands were paid to the State, and nothing worth mention was ever refunded to those who paid the unlawful demand.

West Virginia is another coal State which is answering in the Pennsylvania manner the question about why coal is dearer. It is considering a law that nobody shall mine coal without a license, and that the fee shall be proportioned to the production. A Philadelphia lawyer might see the difference between this license fee and a tax on production, the most discouraging tax known to economists. West Virginia also is considering a tax on coal substitutes, gas and oil. This is not to be an export tax, but is proportioned to the distance the commodities are transported. After the tax at the border is paid there is discouragement enough to transportation to keep the fuels near where they are produced and cheapen them to consumers there at least. Returns from other fuel-producing States will be awaited with curiosity regarding their ingenuity in meeting the objections to raising the price of this necessary of life and industry.

Coal prices are officially regulated and certified reasonable until conditions shall change. The prosecution of the Coal Trust conspirators resulted in the decision on highest authority that there were six coal monopolies, which is absurd, at least as absurd as the prosecution itself with such a result. The cost of coal is now so much above the price and the demand that there is a surplus where there was a deficiency, and the production has fallen off until unemployment is worse in the coal trade than in others. There is nothing to prevent quarreling with the price, but the counsel of prudence is to provide for coal necessities as though present conditions were to prevail as long as can be foreseen. There may be doubt about other prices, but coal prices will be no lower, at least not until economic conditions are worse than any would wish for as the condition of lower coal prices. There is a better prospect that we shall for the first time export coal in quantities than that, with such State taxes, coal will be cheaper to domestic consumers.

MAGYARS ALWAYS.

It hardly needed a dispatch from Prague to tell us that the late and present bedevilments in Budapest were staged long ago by Count KAROLYI. A Magyar magnate remains a Magyar magnate, however he disguises himself and whatever democratic, proletarian, or Bolshevikian decoys he finds it necessary to set up in his business. Not much more than a year ago it was the admitted policy of the Magyars forcibly to expropriate the lands of the then subject races. The Minister of Agriculture declared that the soil of the most productive districts of Southern Hungary "was in the hands of a population by no means reliable. The soil of these threatened districts must be in the hands of those who deserve confidence." The Czechs in the Austrian Parliament protested. A Budapest paper calmly reminded them of the Magyar doctrine that "the Magyar State has the right to decide what elements shall possess the soil." The policy of the decree must be enlarged to cover all Hungary. The State "must carry out a healthy distribution of land to the Magyar race, which alone is a support of the State." This is "agrarian reform," as understood by the then ruling race, still passionately determined to rule, no matter what temporary ruin, even to itself, ensues.

A few weeks ago Count KAROLYI, then Provisional President, went through the form of dividing his great landed estates among the people, the proletariat. Like the modest man he is, he had the distribution made in public. Some peasant, some little retired Government clerk, would declare his thirst for land, his inability to buy it. Then the "boundary pegs" would be shuffled about, the applicant's little estate duly marked by metes and bounds; the people would be impressed by the Count's self-sacrifice, and the Count would probably wink with that curious right eye so evident in his photographs. If the Count gives up his land, it is because he can't help it. Undoubtedly he expects to get it back again.

His newspaper organ beamed upon the attempts of the Magyar authorities to get control of Serb, Rumanian, and Ukrainian churches and so proselytize and Magyarize. They are all alike, these Magyar grandees. If they coquet with Bolshevism, it is for the purpose of breaking down, if they can, the Czechoslovaks, Rumanians, and South Slavs, and out of the general destruction recreating the old intolerant, masterful Magyar State with a Government of, for, and by the Magyars.

BY SURRENDER?

The London Daily News speaks for a considerable body of opinion when it blames the Hungarian outbreak on "the failure of the Allies to provide "the Central Powers with food and "raw materials," and our desire for "territorial spoliation." This naturally appeals to all the pacifists and Laodiceans, both here and abroad. It is also the view of Magyars and Germans, the former insisting that their territory should be left intact, the latter acclaiming a Ministerial declaration that not one inch of German soil is to be given up. It has also found support in certain quarters in this country which would hardly be expected to hold such views, where there is denunciation of our "imperialism" in occupying territory belonging to the Magyar State but inhabited by peoples who have hailed allied victory as liberation from a hated rule.

The suggested remedy is a simple one. Let us surrender to the enemy who so lately surrendered to us. Let us feed our enemies while our friends starve. Let us supply raw material to German factories before we consider the factories of Belgium and Bohemia. Let us break our promises to the Czechoslovaks, the Jugoslavs, the Poles, the Rumanians, and turn them back to Magyar and German rule. Let us set up again the old Central European system and give it as much food and raw material as it needs to regain its former strength. Let us forget why five million men gave up their lives, and give the enemy anything he may ask as the price of letting us alone.

It is an alluring program, one which naturally falls in with the views of those who would have had us ignore German acts of war against the United States in 1917. One may be surprised at some of the supporters which it has won, but it ought to appeal to all pacifists and pro-Germans. As for the others who hold that view, one may legitimately ask them for guarantees that the enemy's requests will stop there. Will he be satisfied with Posen and Danzig, with Transylvania and Slovakia; or will he not also ask for Alsace-Lorraine, and the parts of Rumania which were annexed to Hungary a year ago? If you begin to pay blackmail it is hard to stop; the only conclusion of yielding to German threats would be such an arrangement as would leave Germany and her allies, after they have been defeated, in the position which they would have occupied if they had won the war.

It is hardly to be supposed that any allied Government is contemplating that. For if you satisfy Hungary you dissatisfy several other nations who have rebelled against her and who believed in our promises to help them to freedom. Materially and morally they are worth more than Hungary. If you satisfy Germany you betray Poland, Belgium, and France. If you satisfy Central Europe you are likely to stir grave dissatisfaction among the peoples of the allied nations which were fighting for their own safety, and do not like to see that safety sold back to the enemy.

BAD FOR THE BALD.

Very soothing to the perplexed mind at times is the voice of authority resolving doubts and establishing a status. Nearly everybody knows, for instance, what a time the people of these United States had for years in trying to be sure they were right in pronouncing the name of the noble State of Arkansas. But when the Legislature of that Commonwealth decreed by statute that it should be pronounced as though spelled Arkansaw a great load was removed and people felt free once more to concern themselves with minor matters such as trade, finance, and politics.

At present a number of thirsty souls are trying to get an equally authoritative and binding decision on the important question of the percentage of alcohol which a non-intoxicating drink may contain. They have their respective views, of course, but so did folks with regard to Arkansaw. An official edict is what is needed to set their minds at rest and, perhaps, breweries in motion.

What prompts these casual remarks just now is the passage of a law by the Government of Bulgaria, which, contrary to some opinions, still seems to function. The law in question prohibits the importation of a large number of articles into the domain formerly presided over by a hirsute gentleman named FERDINAND. A glance at the list of the prohibited articles shows it to contain precious stones and other jewelry, fiery liquors, works of art, fancy millinery, toys, silk goods, ivory, and divers articles of luxury. It looks quite fair and reasonable until one comes to the end of the list, which is in these words, "and wigs."

Now, it has all along been a mooted question whether wigs are or are not a luxury. To the actor, as well as to the British Magistrate, they are a necessity. One can hardly conceive of a bald hero or a smooth polled Chancellor. But, when it comes to the average man of spare locks, the element of doubt enters. His conception of the beginning of Hamlet's soliloquy is apt to sound like "Toupee or not toupee—that is the question." And there are doubtless many such in old Bulgaria. While the departed FERDINAND was not in that class, it should be remembered that he was not a native. The Encyclopaedia Britannica describes the Bulgarians as having light and thin hair. This being the case, it is evident that if wigs are only a luxury in Bulgaria they can hardly be considered anything else in any other country. Hence the value of the dictum which is the provocation of these remarks.

So having by statute put wigs into the luxury class, Bulgaria has performed a real service for the first time since it furnished a fermented milk enabling those who can drink it to live more years than they care to do with that kind of food. And the psychologic and economic possibilities of this legislation are such that it will be surprising if some of our Senators do not insist on having it referred to in any draft of a League of Nations before it is acceptable to them. It would at least furnish a good pretext for insisting on a poll of the nations.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Seemingly All Were Militants.

A reflective pacifist, interested in the true interpretation of observed facts—if any such pacifists there be, which is doubtful—must have been painfully puzzled if he stood in the crowd anywhere along Fifth Avenue on Tuesday and tried to make out with just what feelings his neighbors watched the soldiers marching by. Inevitably he would have asked himself whether the emotion so lavishly displayed was one of admiration and respect for men who had just been taking vigorous and successful part in the killing of other men or whether it was a manifestation of joyous thankfulness that these particular men were about to return to the paths of peace and seemingly were to have no more excuse for resuming work of that dreadful sort.

The second of these explanations, especially if buttressed by a firm belief on the pacifistical observer's part that the great majority of his fellow-citizens hate war as war, and hold soldiering a reprehensible and obnoxious trade, might seem to him a plausible one. If he did so believe, however, he would have to ignore a good deal of what he saw, and to imagine a good deal that was invisible, for, judging by any ordinary and accepted tests or standards, the enthusiasm of the multitude, women and men alike, was for the soldiers as soldiers.

In it there was no trace of adverse criticism based on what the soldiers had been doing—no sign of repulsion because of it. On the contrary, one could hear frequent expression of delighted confidence that what these men had just done they could and would do again if need arose.

Celebrated Victory, Net Peace.

As a matter of fact, there was much to dishearten a pacifist in the behavior of Tuesday's crowds, and nothing at all to confirm or encourage in him the hope that peace at any price is the present object of general aspiration. Indeed, to all seeming, it was a day vastly more in celebration of victory than of peace, and it was as victors that the marchers were cheered by everybody who made any noise at all. Perhaps there were some watchers who made no noise of any kind, and heard in sorrow the militant vociferations of those around them, but they must have been very few—of the whole a negligible fraction, at least so far as numbers went.

Whether with regret or not, it probably must be admitted by all votaries of veracity that the soldier, and notably the conqueror, retains firmly his ancient place in popular esteem. Somewhere deep down in every normal heart and mind still lies the primordial conviction that the ability and inclination to fight well in a just cause are traits equally admirable and useful—that courage is a virtue so magnificent that its display in any cause entitles its possessor to something of praise.

Attempts to exalt moral above physical courage—to establish a real distinction between the two—have as yet met with little or no success of a practical sort, and the old belief that the two either are one, or that at least they always go together, shows few if any signs of weakening. Moreover, women, whose turn toward pacifism is supposedly so much stronger than that of men, certainly do not scorn the laureled and uniformed hero now any more than in the past, and mothers, haters of war as they proverbially are, seem no less proud than fathers of a son decorated for exceptional gallantry on the battlefield.

A Logical Penalty for Drinkers.

Serious attention should be given by our prohibitionists to the fact that the Hungarian Bolsheviki have imposed a fine of 5,000 crowns as the penalty for selling intoxicants, but punish the drinking of them by a fine just twice as large. This is not enough, by a good deal, to make Bolshevism admirable, but there is no denying that it compels the admission that these particular Bolsheviki, in this particular matter, have shown a courage and a consistency such as never have been displayed by any other prohibitionists except perhaps the followers of MAHOMET.

Yet obviously if it is a sin and should be a crime to sell spirituous and malted liquors—and every prohibitionist everywhere says it is and should be—the drinking thereof is at least twice as deserving of statutory inhibition. Not selling, but drinking, is what sharpens the parricidal axe, sends the child to school barefoot, and keeps empty the domestic cupboard. Yet our foes of the demon have never ventured, as yet, to make a direct, frontal attack on the chief, if not only, offender, and when the law punishes him at all it is for some other crime or misdemeanor. Indeed, it inclines to view intoxication as a mitigating circumstance, in some degree removing the assumption of evil intention, and that is a really wild absurdity against which every prohibitionist violently should protest.

But it is not noble for the prohibitionists to make the manufacturers and sellers of intoxicants the sole objects of their assaults. Of course it's safer to do it, because the manufacturers and sellers have few friends. Can that be the reason why it was left for the Bolsheviki to strike the first blow at the root of the alcohol tree? To think so, or even to suspect it, is very painful.

His Name Should Be Known.

It is to be regretted that The Wellesley College News printed without a signature a letter from an American officer now in the occupied territory which somebody has sent to it. For in this letter sentiments at once so reprehensible and so foolish are expressed that the condemnation of them ought to have a personal target, lest officers undeserving of it suffer reproach. Not many of them, one feels sure, would write such vicious stuff as this:

Here (Diedenhofen, Lorraine,) and in the Rhenish Provinces it is much more like America than anything I've seen yet. I like the country people much better than the French, as do all of us. With us, good people are good people, and an American can't jump on a licked man.

Why He Likes Germany.

This particular American evidently has no compunctions about "jumping on" a people who have suffered hideous wrongs from his new friends, and he enjoys himself so much better in an undevastated country than in one plowed and harrowed by war that he forgets many and important things. But what he does not forget is to set down a truly naïve explanation of his preference, for he writes:

Have good quarters and good civilian friends. Am able for the first time since I have been in Europe to enjoy a bit of family life here in a Lorraine family, the Mayor of Diedenhofen. He has a son who is a Lieutenant in the German Army and has a paralyzed arm. He is a fine fellow and we are good chums and have some interesting discussions on the war. It is very interesting to know first hand the enemy's point of view. There are also two very beautiful daughters, one 20 and one 14.

Memorial Buildings.

Your editorial comments on the question of community houses as memorials to the heroes of the great war—summed up in the following sentence: "But the plea that such 'memorials' as these would be 'useful' is the perfectly adequate reason for rejecting them all, as the one purpose of a memorial is to be a memorial, and the effort to make it serve two purposes will always be a failure and an absurdity"—make strange reading to one who has spent most of his life in an academic environment, surrounded by buildings many of which are memorials. Some of these buildings are erected with money contributed by individuals, one of whose motives at least may be to perpetuate their own names—in which they succeed as well, perhaps, as by any other method they could have chosen. But many of these buildings are true memorials of former students, beneficiaries, or honored officials of the institution, and they are not only genuinely useful, (assuming that education itself has its uses,) but also are much more efficient memorials, in the strictest sense, than the bronze statues and ornamental arches that are sometimes to be found on the college campus.

FRESH AIR FOR SENATORS.

Sunlight and the Breeze Might Advance the League of Nations.

Apropos of the rather amazing Senatorial attitude toward the League of Nations, permit me to call attention to the significant fact that not a single breath of fresh air nor a ray of sunshine ever penetrates either chamber of the Congress of the United States. Over the door of the Capitol might well be written in plain English, since it appears the classics are to be "scrapped" in our educational scheme of the future, "Who enters here leaves hope behind."

Being at present in Washington engaged in work that had to do with the winning of the war and which is now a part of the plan of reconstruction, it was my privilege to attend the session of the Congress during its dying hours. I use the term dying merely out of courtesy, for long before the Vice President, by a fortuitous slip of the tongue and with singular appropriateness, announced that the Congress was adjourned "sine Deo," the members of both houses were practically dead, or so far overcome by the now prevalent sleeping sickness, that, to all intents and purposes, they were moribund, to say the least.

And little wonder, considering the lack of ventilation, the isolation from fresh air and sunshine which the insanitary seclusion of the halls of Congress impose upon the members. This fact should be taken into consideration when judgment is passed upon the amazing attitude of the reactionary Senators. No wonder their brains were befogged; no wonder so many nodded at their desks; no wonder the Vice President vacated the chair so often to be succeeded by an ever-changing relief of dozing Chairmen pro tempore.

Really the matter needs to be called to the attention of the public. With all our vaunted intelligence along sanitary lines, we send the legislative body of the Government to the Capitol where they are so completely interned as if they were in a prison cell, and complacently expect them to pass good and wise laws for the guidance of the nation's destiny. The thing is an impossibility.

I venture to suggest that President Wilson would find a very different state of mind on the part of the Senate if he would break another precedent, and call the Congress to assemble in a really extraordinary session outside on the west terrace of the Capitol, or, better still, on the lawn below.

In the light of God's glorious sunshine, with the breath of heaven to bring refreshment to their souls, the provincialism, the egoism, the befogged vision of the Senators would, no doubt, disappear. With the Star-Spangled Banner floating to the breeze above their heads, with the grim, gray monument rising as a majestic expression of patriotic idealism, and the silver waters of the Potomac sweeping to the quiet tomb where sleeps the first great American idealist, I venture to say the Senatorial fog would vanish like the mists of the morning and melt away.

I submit the suggestion for the President's consideration, anyhow. There may be hope for the Senate, after all.

The Charity Organization Society.

The increased cost of everything has increased the expenses of the Charity Organization Society for rendering service and for material aid to families in need.

The society is now caring for 1,750 families. The number of families who are in trouble because of the death or illness of the breadwinner is greater than usual and unemployment is beginning to add to the burden. Every one recognizes the force of the appeal of the Red Cross for help for the families of soldiers and sailors. The State helps the needy widows of citizens. The widows of aliens and their children must rely on voluntary assistance. The families that seek the aid of this society need an effective presentation of their claims because there are few to speak for them. We must, therefore, appeal with all the greater diligence on behalf of those who might otherwise be neglected.

The society is not content to pay the rent and feed the hungry. It procures the right surgical or medical care, finds employment, teaches home-making, restores the family spirit, mends broken homes, puts families on their own feet.

The society has in various ways been serving other social agencies. It has trained many of those who are working for the home service of the Red Cross. Some say this and other societies furnished the workers and the methods and the experience for the splendid work the Red Cross has done for those at home.

The society maintains a bureau to indorse proper charitable and social agencies. Its Tenement House Committee upholds the law and seeks better housing conditions. The Criminal Courts Committee was the chief instrument in reorganizing the inferior criminal courts. These courts represent all that thousands know of law and justice.

Those who have been accustomed to give to this society have been generous. Many have increased their subscriptions. Nevertheless, the society's income has declined. We hope that many who have not contributed in the past will respond to this appeal to afford service at home to those who need it most. LAWSON PURDY, Secretary.

TO THE GOLDEN STARS OF THE TWENTY-SEVENTH DIVISION.

The joyful strains that play,
The tread of boys a-marching,
For this is Victory Day!
An endless field of khaki,
Of steel, and trophies won,
By the boys who cut the passage
In Belgium through the Hun.

But some, they lie in Belgium,
And some on Kemmel's crest,
And some down deep, at Cambrai;
A few, they lie in Brest.
Their glory liveth still—
Was carried through the Mill.

From out their field of white,
As a symbol to New Yorkers
That's why your eyes shall moisten
Today when pass the men

Perhaps you'll see it clearer
Perhaps you'll know the reason
Of a Flag for which to die,
Of an Ideal, and a Country,
And a Faith to bind and tie.

So may I ask you, citizens,
When those golden stars appear
To lift your hats in honor
Of your New York Volunteer?
It's glory to their kin,
For they were Boys of New York's Own—
They fought—they're gone—you win!

TELLS OF K. OF C. PLANS.

Mulligan Reorganizes the Work of the Organization Abroad.

William J. Mulligan, Chairman of the Knights of Columbus War Activities Committee, has returned from France, Belgium, Germany, and England, where he went to reorganize the work of the Knights. He said yesterday that it was now necessary to increase the recreation activities. A system of zones had been organized, he said, each zone in charge of a supervisor with from 50 to 100 secretaries. More than 200 workers are with the Army of Occupation in Germany.

While in Europe Mr. Mulligan opened fifty new stations. He also had a long interview with General Pershing and conferred with the representatives of other welfare organizations. When he left Europe, he said, the impression was that the peace treaty would be whipped into shape by the middle of May. Our overseas forces, in Mr. Mulligan's opinion, might not leave the other side for another twelve months. While in Belgium Mr. Mulligan was the guest of Cardinal Mercier. He presented to the Cardinal a check for 10,000 francs from Cardinal Gibbons, and he also acquired a building for K. of C. activities in Antwerp.

The K. of C. are sending over troups of entertainers. A minstrel company of forty-nine performers is now visiting the camps and outposts in France and Germany. According to Mr. Mulligan some times as many as 10,000 men witness K. of C. boxing contests. At one boxing contest in Paris Samuel Gompers presided. Two rings were employed so that there was no waiting between rounds.

OPEN INTERRACIAL COUNCIL

Plan to Spread American Ideals Among Foreign Born.

The representatives of many of the leading foreign language newspapers of the country were present yesterday when the Interracial Council opened its two-day conference in the Engineering Societies' Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street. The council is an organization of business men who are banded together for the spread of American ideals among the foreign-born people of the land. At yesterday's meeting a committee of eleven was appointed to frame a Constitution and draw up by-laws, and to report at the meeting today.

There are at present at the conference 200 delegates, and they represent many foreign lands. Germany was not represented.

Miss Frances A. Kellor, Secretary of the council and formerly in the Americanization Bureau of the Interior Department, outlined the plans for influencing the foreign language newspapers to assist in making good Americans out of those born on the other side of the world. She predicted that these newspapers are going to be among the stanchest supporters of American interests if the American people will become interested in their success. Miss Kellor spoke in favor of a campaign of advertising to educate and Americanize, and to open up a market here as desirable as the export market, to which so many manufacturers are now turning their attention.

A report of a Committee on Advertising urged a standardized system of rates and audit of circulation with refusal of objectionable advertising to the foreign language press, and to insure the consideration of the foreign language papers by national and local advertisers.

This afternoon the editors will meet in Room 210 in the Flatiron Building, where Joseph Hartigan, manager of the Foreign Language Division of the Liberty Loan Committee, will ask their cooperation in "putting over" the Victory Loan.

The conference will end tonight with a dinner at the Hotel Biltmore, at which the principal speakers will be Charles E. Hughes and Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan.

SAYS GLASS IS WRONG.

Williams Appointment Illegal, McFadden Asserts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—There was a new development today in the campaign Representative Fadden of Pennsylvania is conducting against the appointment by Secretary Glass of John Skelton Williams as Controller of the Currency. In a letter to Secretary Glass Mr. McFadden takes the stand that the appointment is against the law.

In a statement Mr. McFadden called attention to Sections 325 and 327 of the United States Revised Statutes, which provide that the Deputy Controller of the Currency "shall possess the power and perform the duties attached by law to the office of Controller during a vacancy in the office or during the absence or inability of the Controller." Mr. Glass contends that under Section 303 of the Revised Statutes he had authority to designate Mr. Williams to continue in office pending the appointment and confirmation of his successor.

Mr. McFadden, the statement goes on, "claims that Section 303 does not apply to the case, but that Sections 325 and 327 do. Section 303 provides for the manner in which certain vacancies in the Treasury Department shall be filled temporarily and makes no specific reference to the office of Controller of the Currency. Sections 325 and 327 deal specifically with the office of Controller, and Mr. McFadden argues that they alone apply to the present controversy.

"The Congressman declares that legally a vacancy has existed in the office of the Controller of the Currency since March 4. Never before since the creation of the Controller's office, Mr. McFadden points out, has the Secretary of the Treasury undertaken to name a man for Controller when a vacancy existed and the President had failed to appoint; instead the law as provided in Section 327 was permitted to operate normally and the Deputy Controller acted.

"Mr. McFadden offers the rather startling warning that official acts performed by Mr. Williams since March 4 may lead to serious litigation. National bankers are now under no legal compulsion, he says, to respect the orders of Mr. Williams and have a perfect right to ignore any and all of his instructions since the 4th of March."

WAR SUPPLIES SOLD.

Foreign Governments Get $200,000,000 Worth from United States.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Sales to foreign Governments of more than $200,000,000 worth of surplus war supplies were announced by the War Department today. Most of the material went to France, whose purchases included smokeless powder, acids, copper, cannon, and steel plates, for which $155,000,000 was paid.

Italy bought $41,000,000 worth of machine guns and ammunition, acids, and other supplies. The Netherlands bought $685,000 worth of nitrate of soda. About $1,000,000 worth of airplanes and supplies, $396,000 worth of soldiers' personal equipment, $294,000 worth of machine guns, and $171,000 worth of hand grenades went to Czechoslovakia. Supplies were sold to other countries in the following amounts: Great Britain, $2,300,000; Cuba, $108,000; Liberia, $14,500; Switzerland, $9,500.

This is the second purchase of airplanes made by the Czechoslovaks from the United States. A few months ago Colonel Durban bought six planes for the use of the Czechoslovak troops in Siberia and they have been shipped to Vladivostok.

NEW SUBWAY WORK AGAIN LACKS FUNDS

Whitney Says Construction Must Stop if Board of Estimate Fails to Act.

INVOLVES 1,000 EMPLOYES

Head of Public Service Commission Assails Hylan Policy on Lines Being Built.

The Public Service Commission announced yesterday that unless the Board of Estimate at its meeting tomorrow appropriates sufficient money to carry on the work of building the rapid transit lines the entire work will cease, that nearly 1,000 employes will have to be laid off, and that former employes just returned from the war will have to remain idle until other jobs can be found for them. Further delay, it was also pointed out, will destroy the organization built up by the commission.

On Dec. 30 the board reduced the appropriation sought by the commission, so that at a few hours' notice nearly 400 employes had to be dismissed. After trying for a month to induce the board to readjust its figures the commission appealed to Governor Smith. He came here and smoother the difficulty to the extent of obtaining for the commission enough money to reinstate a number of the discharged employes.

The appropriation asked by the commission for the second quarter of the current year is $557,060. Commenting on the situation, Travis H. Whitney, acting Chairman of the commission, said that there is need of a real legislative investigation into the situation and of legislation which would compel the board to act. Even the pending legislation dividing the commission in two single headed commissions if passed, he said, will not affect the present situation, the money will be needed on April 1, and if it is not at the commission's disposal all rapid transit construction work will stop.

"The do-nothing policy of the Board of Estimate upon every matter of importance in the city," said Mr. Whitney, "constitutes such misconduct in public office that it should have the immediate attention of the Governor and the Legislature. Never was there a time when it was more important that construction work of every kind should furnish maximum employment if the city is to escape social trouble. Governor Smith said the other day that this was a government of laws and not of men, yet in this city it is actually true that the government is no longer one of laws but of two men—Mayor Hylan and Controller Craig—who have throttled the initiative of every city department, have blocked every plan of development so far proposed, and have halted the progress of rapid transit construction."

Gives Employment to Thousands.

Mr. Whitney declared that the rapid transit work gives employment to thousands of men, besides providing sorely needed transportation facilities.

"Yet, with calculated deliberation," he continued, "these two men have so withheld action on rapid transit matters as to add at least six months' delay in the completion of the work, and have demoralized the engineering and technical force of the commission."

Mr. Whitney said that no suggestion had been received from the board that a conference between the commission and the board was desirable, and no notice had been received as to the time when the board might be expected to act upon the requisition.

"The Mayor may be interested in learning," he added, "that in the 27th Division there are about twenty employes of the commission who have called to see about getting back their old jobs, which are of course dependent upon the action of the board. In addition there are about forty other employes in other military units near the city awaiting their discharge who are more interested in getting jobs than they are in parades.

"In the meantime the Legislature is deciding to investigate Bolshevism, as if the American people would not deal with that disorder without the aid of a legislative committee. The Legislature should, instead, pay some attention to the breakdown in the present form of government in this city. Practically every department of the city government is at a standstill. Every matter requiring the approval of the Board of Estimate has been referred to Craig, and there it sticks. So far as rapid transit is concerned we have not hesitated to speak publicly of the difficulties, whereas at city department heads, being subordinates of Hylan, are under a ban of silence.

"To extend the censorship and to silence official critics Hylan and Craig hope that the Legislature will remove the Public Service Commission and then the appropriations can be increased, contractors' claims settled without offensive publicity, and new contracts let, providing the new rapid transit commissioner is sufficiently subservient."

Mr. Whitney pointed out that progress or the lack of it did not depend on whether a commission is single headed or hydra headed, and said the Board of Education, of seven members, is blocked by the Board of Estimate, as well as the single headed Dock Commissioner. In conclusion, Mr. Whitney said:

"There is a real need of legislative investigation and of real legislation that will compel action, if the entire working season is not to be lost, unemployment increased and transit facilities benefits postponed."

VON ECKHARDT SAILS AWAY.

Former German Ambassador to Mexico on Way to Holland.

Among the 700 cabin passengers who sailed from Hoboken at 5 o'clock last night on the Holland-America liner Nieuw Amsterdam for Rotterdam, Plymouth, and Havre was Heinrich von Eckhardt, former German Ambassador to Mexico, accompanied by his family. He was escorted to Pier 7, Hoboken, during the afternoon from the Hotel Pennsylvania, where he arrived on Monday night, and was taken to the cabins reserved for his party on the promenade deck.

The gangway to the Nieuw Amsterdam was guarded by Customs Intelligence guards, and no one was permitted to interview the former German Ambassador. He remained in his cabin until the vessel left the pier. Johannes Brulow, former German

POLICE CAN'T FIND THEM

Believed Now That Clothing Was Burned—Prisoner Denies Ever Owning Suit Described.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., March 26.—The investigation of the murder of Mrs. Julia Wilkins took a sensational turn today when District Attorney Charles R. Weeks disclosed the testimony of a New York tailor, who declared that three or four days after the murder on the night of Feb. 27 at Long Beach, Dr. Walter K. Wilkins had brought to him for cleaning a suit of clothes bearing stains which, he said, resembled blood.

The suit, which was of a greenish hue with white pencil stripes, according to the District Attorney's informant, was cleaned, pressed, and delivered to 104 West Sixty-fifth Street, the Manhattan home of Dr. Wilkins.

The significance of this new evidence, District Attorney Weeks pointed out, arises out of the contention of Dr. Wilkins, who is in the Nassau County Jail charged with the murder of his wife, that the suit he wore when arrested in the Pennsylvania Station after his disappearance for several days was the same one he wore the night his wife was killed. This suit, a black cutaway coat and vest with gray trousers, bore no evidences of blood stains when examined by county officials.

The new evidence came from Joseph Jacobson, proprietor of the Sanitary Valet Shop, at Broadway and Sixty-fifth Street, New York, whose statements were corroborated by three employes of a cleaning establishment he brought with him to Mineola today. He said, according to the District Attorney, that on the night of March 3 or 4 Dr. Wilkins entered his shop carrying two bundles, one of which he left. This bundle contained a three-piece suit, described above, and a pair of gray trousers.

Jacobson said he noticed that on the inside and edges of the righthand trousers' pocket and on the upper righthand side of the vest inside and out were what appeared to be blood. Knowing that Dr. Wilkins, a customer of long standing, was a physician by profession, he said, his suspicions at the time were not aroused. He thought that the doctor might have got the bloodstains while performing an operation.

As he does not do dry cleaning, Jacobson said, he sent the suit to L. Blau, a cleaner and dyer at 151 Avenue C. When he received the clothes back from the cleaners he sent them to the Wilkins home. After reading that Dr. Wilkins had been indicted on the charge of murder Jacobson notified New York Police Headquarters about the clothing.

Other witnesses were Julius Kaplan, a presser; Max Weiss, an examiner, and Alessandro Molea, a cleaner, all employes of L. Blau. The four men were shown the suit which Dr. Wilkins asserted he wore the night he said his wife was killed by thieves. The witnesses said it was not the suit they had cleaned.

Jacobson, according to District Attorney Weeks, has identified Dr. Wilkins in the Nassau County Jail as the man who brought the garments to him. Although a careful search has been made for the suit which Jacobson said he had received, thus far it has not been found by detectives.

Witnesses who roomed at the West Sixty-fifth Street house have testified that they saw Dr. Wilkins take what appeared to them to be a bundle of clothes into the cellar of the house a few days after the murder. When he reappeared, they said, his hands were empty. County officials now believe that he burned the bundle.

Charles N. Wysong, attorney for the physician, said today that Dr. Wilkins emphatically denied ever owning a suit such as Jacobson described. He possessed three suits, the physician said, none of which was of a greenish color. Dr. Wilkins admitted, his attorney said, that he had had a pair of gray trousers pressed at the Jacobson shop about the time that the tailor mentioned.

WALTER J. SALMON WEDS.

Miss Elizabeth J. Davy, daughter of Mrs. Burton Hodges Davy, and Walter J. Salmon of 38 West 49th Street, this city, were married yesterday at the home of the bride's mother, 241 Oxford Street, Rochester, N. Y. The Rev. Don G. Husted officiated.

James B. Davy gave his sister in marriage. She wore a gown of white satin trimmed with crystal and a veil of rose point and duchess lace. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. Miss Lois Salmon was the flower girl and Master Walter Salmon acted as ring bearer.

The bride is a granddaughter of the late Justice M. Davy of the Court of Appeals of this city, and is a graduate of Wells College. Last year she won a fellowship in the School of Philanthropy in New York City. Mr. Salmon is an owner and lessee of large real estate properties here, and has been President of the Forty-second Street Association for ten years. He is also an amateur sportsman, his racing colors being well known at all the Hunt Club meets and race tracks controlled by the Jockey Club. Recently he was elected President of the New Symphony Orchestra of this city.

Weds; Leaves for Father's Funeral.

Miss Winifred M. Schley of East Orange, N. J., whose father, Charles Frederick Schley, died on Tuesday in Chicago, was married to Hunter R. Grant at East Orange yesterday afternoon. Later the couple left for Baltimore, where the funeral of Mr. Schley will be held. Mr. Schley was connected with the Singer Sewing Machine Company for forty years, and was stricken with influenza while on his way home from a business trip to the Pacific Coast.

EULOGIZES HENRY BLOSSOM

Funeral services for Henry Blossom, the playwright, whose death occurred Sunday, were held at 11 o'clock yesterday morning at the Campbell Funeral Church, attended by more than 500 persons, including many leading managers and actors.

The Episcopal burial ritual was read by the Rev. Charles A. Brown of All Saints' Protestant Episcopal Church of Bayside, L. I., and Augustus Thomas of the Lambs Club delivered the eulogy, in which he said:

"The plays of Henry Blossom have been listened to by tens of thousands and on three continents. He had the greatest power, the power to give innocent pleasure, pure and unalloyed. He wrote humorously and in a lighter vein with considered intent, but he had a very much deeper stratum. He was a man who consciously made humor, and to be humorous consciously is to have a great sense of proper understanding of proportion. We are saying good-bye to a man whose memory will live as long as fellowship and brilliancy, as charm, as charity and gentleness will live."

The honorary pallbearers were Victor Herbert, R. H. Burnside, John L. Golden, Chester Curry, William Currie, John Bardner, Roy Cooper Megrue, Raymond Hubbell, Major Wallace McCutcheon, and Wallace Eddinger. Others who attended were Joe Weber, George H. Nicolai, John Leffler, Nathan Burkan, Georgie O'Ramey, May Vokes, Edgar MacGregor, Bruce Edwards, Walter Laurence, William Seymour, and the entire cast of the "Velvet Lady," which was Mr. Blossom's latest play, now running at the New Amsterdam Theatre.

John Tregaskis.

John Tregaskis, an old-time newspaper man and clerk of the Domestic Relations Court in Brooklyn, died on Tuesday at his residence, 94 Vernon Avenue, Brooklyn. He was 70 years old. Mr. Tregaskis was born in Wales and served throughout the civil war with Duryea's 6th Regiment of Zouaves. During the war he sent dispatches to New York newspapers, and afterward served on the staffs of The Brooklyn Times and The Brooklyn Standard-Union. He was for twenty years on the staff of The New York Herald and then went to The Associated Press. In 1906 he was clerk in the New Jersey Avenue Police Court and later went to the Domestic Relations Court. Mr. Tregaskis was a Past Commander of Mansfield Post 35, G. A. R.

The Rev. Father George F. Dean.

The Rev. Father George Francis Dean, 45 years old, for the last ten years rector of the Church of St. John the Baptist, Yonkers, N. Y., died yesterday at the rectory of St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, N. Y., of pneumonia. He was born at New Milford, N. Y., and was ordained at St. Joseph's Seminary, of which he was treasurer at the time of his death, in 1899. His first assignment was the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Fourteenth Street, this city. Solemn requiem mass will be sung Saturday morning at St. Patrick's Cathedral this city, and Archbishop Hayes assisted by Mgr. Joseph P. Chidwick, President of St. Joseph's Seminary, will celebrate the mass.

Mi-Careme Ball for Italy Tonight.

Many novel features are planned for the Mi-Careme ball, which is to be held tonight at the Vanderbilt Hotel for the benefit of the Free Milk for Italy Fund. Special divertissements, in charge of Miss Louise Prussing, will take place in the Italian Village, while Neapolitan singers and musicians in costume will lend a picturesque touch. The Queen of Italy and the Countess Macchi di Cellere, wife of the Italian Ambassador, head the patronesses.

Daughter in Justice Hoyt's Home.

A daughter was born yesterday to Justice Franklin Chase Hoyt of the Children's Court and Mrs. Hoyt. Mrs. Hoyt was Miss Maude R. Borland and her marriage to Justice Hoyt took place last June.

Obituary Notes.

JOHN T. LANGAN, 73 years old, for many years a lawyer in Manhattan, died on Tuesday at his residence, 956 Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn, from heart disease. He left two daughters and two sons, the Rev. John T. Langan, S. J., and Frank B. Langan.

MAJ. J. A. ROOSEVELT DIES ON TRANSPORT

PROMINENT AS AN ENGINEER

As Commander of 302d Ammunition Train He Was Cited for Bravery Under Fire.

Major James Alfred Roosevelt, cousin of the late Colonel Roosevelt, died yesterday on the naval transport Great Northern while the steamship was 400 miles east of Sandy Hook. News of the death of Major Roosevelt came in a wireless message received last evening by Major W. Emlen Roosevelt, Jr., at 804 Fifth Avenue.

The message, which was brief, did not give the cause of death. The transport will dock this morning at 9:30 o'clock at Pier 3, North Side, Hoboken, N. J. Major Roosevelt on March 14 was detached from command of the 302d Ammunition Train of the 77th Division and ordered to report at Brest to lead a detachment of Camp Upton officers directed to proceed to New York and arrange plans for the welcome home of the National Army division. The party left Brest on the Great Northern on March 20.

Major Roosevelt was born in this city in February, 1883, the son of Albert and Catherine Lowell Roosevelt. He attended private schools and, after a course in a preparatory school, entered Harvard University. He was graduated with the class of 1905, ranking high in his class. Shortly after leaving Harvard he came to this city and formed the engineering firm of Roosevelt & Thompson, at 80 Broadway.

In 1907, when a difficult problem in railroad engineering developed in the operation of the Third Avenue Railroad system, young Roosevelt was called in. He solved the problem and accepted the post of General Superintendent. He held that position for four years, and when he resigned a dinner was given him in the Engineers' Club, at which he received a loving cup. Speaking at the affair, the late Frederick W. Whitridge, then receiver for the Third Avenue lines, claimed the credit of discovering Mr. Roosevelt.

In 1911 he was appointed to direct the system of street railway and interurban electric lines of the British Columbia Company, with headquarters in Vancouver, B. C. The Victoria lines, as well as the Chilliwack, came directly under the management of Mr. Roosevelt. He also assumed control of the light and power companies in British Columbia operated as subsidiaries of the British Columbia Company. He introduced a number of new features in the management of the properties.

When the first Plattsburg Officers' Training Camp was opened in 1917, Mr. Roosevelt, then in New York again, applied for admission and was accepted. He came out at the end of the training period with a commission of Captain of Infantry and was assigned to the 308th Infantry, then being formed at Camp Upton. He was promoted with that unit. After seeing much action with the 77th Division he was promoted to Major and assigned to the divisional ammunition train.

When the New Yorkers were at the height of their fierce fighting for possession of the Vesle River, Major Roosevelt was cited for displaying exceptional bravery and courage under heavy fire. According to a dispatch dealing with the incident, he coolly directed the delivery of much needed ammunition to the men through one of the tremendous barrages that the enemy indulged in toward the later stages of the war.

Stocks Move Down as Traders Act with Caution—Foreign News Leading Factor.

The trend of stocks in the downward direction yesterday indicated increased caution among speculators because of the political disturbances in Eastern Europe and also reflected some uncertainty over the steel market. At times selling was fairly heavy and the price list at the close showed considerable weakness among stocks of the classes which had previously been bid upward with zest. Among these were the oil, steel and some of the railroad shares. In its general aspects the market seemed to be shaped by the operations of professional traders, and while the turnover in the neighborhood of 750,000 shares denoted a rather broad interest in stocks, selling was not sufficiently persistent to indicate extensive liquidation by the public. Gossip of the market place seemed to show that participation in the day's business was not widely spread outside of the Street itself and those centres, connected by direct telegraph wires, which played a part in the advancing movement of the earlier days of the month.

Reports coming from steel producing and consuming quarters indicate that differences of opinion exist over the effect of the recent price reductions. While there has been a natural increase of buying, nothing like a hurried entrance by purchasers into the market has occurred and some of the large contracting firms insist that last week's cuts were by no means large enough to facilitate new building ventures on a really satisfactory scale. It will take some time, of course, for the market to become adjusted to the new basis and one step in the process will be the rearranging of certain old contracts. On orders placed since Jan. 1, or perhaps since the armistice was signed, there may be some slight revision of quotations to fit the new schedules. The Iron Age notes that mill operations have declined somewhat in the last week and this publication states that it is yet to be seen how far new business will be stimulated by the lower quotations. In the copper market news continued to be encouraging, the information of the day going to show that purchases begun last week were still proceeding in moderate volume with the price a little firmer.

As regards the foreign situation and its effect on the security markets the most that could be said was that greater attention and study was devoted to the cabled news than on Monday. Throughout the peace negotiations it has been puzzling to all observers to attempt a survey of speculative sentiment as affected by the events at Paris and at the other Continental centres. The financial community fears for an early settlement of the various controversies centred about the peace table, but the prices of stocks look far ahead and it has been a question to date whether the news from abroad has had much direct application to quotations. It stands to reason, however, that this situation cannot long maintain and bankers are studying the markets more than they did a month ago to detect reflection of the occurrences in Europe.

The railroad stocks seemed to lose ground more in sympathy with the industrial group than because of anything which had application to them. The fact that the War Finance Corporation has completed arrangements for April 1 money requirements is a matter of favorable import to the carriers even though it was expected. Call money was quite firm, lending at 6 per cent. most of the time. Sterling exchange moved within a narrow range, indicating a stable tone. Paris exchange again displayed weakness, the cable rate at the close being 5.89½ compared with 5.81½ the day before.

SEES GOOD ALREADY IN STEEL PRICE CUT

Gary Says Business Has Increased in Volume Since the Approval of New Schedule.

FAVORS REDFIELD PLAN

Predicts Era of Great Prosperity if Industries Will Co-operate with Industrial Board.

The reduction in steel prices as agreed upon last week by the steel manufacturers of the country and the Industrial Board of the Department of Commerce has already resulted in stimulation to the industry, according to Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Board of the United States Steel Corporation. It is his opinion that, while it is too early to make definite predictions as to the Redfield plan of stabilization, conditions at present presage great prosperity. In discussing the situation yesterday he said:

"Apparently there has been a decided, though not large, increase in the volume of our business since the approval of the present scale of prices by the Industrial Board in Washington on Friday of last week. It is not yet time to determine the full effect of the movement inaugurated by the Department of Commerce under the direction of the Industrial Board for the purpose of stabilizing business and readjusting conditions from a war basis to a peace basis.

"However, I have great confidence in the plan adopted. If other lines of business without delay shall co-operate in the same direction with the Industrial Board, as I believe in their own interests and the interests of the country generally they will do, I see no reason to doubt there is great prosperity in front of us."

When Judge Gary was asked to comment on published statements said to have originated in Pittsburgh, that the schedule of prices determined upon was held by some prospective buyers to be rather high as to certain articles, he replied:

"If there are any who make claims of this kind it is probably because they are not familiar with the present costs of production. Wage rates alone have increased since Feb. 1, 1916, 131 per cent."

Judge Gary was asked what part of the cost of production applied to labor. He answered:

"From the raw products to the finished products in our lines it is probably at least 35 per cent."

"Considerable encouragement is being derived from the initial response of buyers to the reduced prices," according to The Iron Trade Review. "While the market scarcely has squared itself to the new basis, and secondary price adjustments still are running their course, a very noticeable tonnage in finished steel is being released to the mills. At the same time it remains to be shown just what part of this business represents the requirements held back in recent weeks by the announcement of the Government's stabilizing plan and what part actually is stimulated, new enterprise.

"Structural steel supplies the clearest example of reawakening activity, as various projects which have been dormant, and some new undertakings, are being brought out for figures. To the very vital question whether the Government itself will accept the new prices for its large needs, especially for those of the Railroad Administration and the Fleet Corporation, indications point to a favorable answer. A co-operating committee, representing the different governmental departments, which is working with the Industrial Board, has recommended the adoption of the new prices by the various purchasing officers of the Government."

The Iron Age says:

"The opinion is general in the steel trade that the reduced prices announced by the Industrial Board at Washington on March 20 will bring out in the near future a moderate amount of new business, most of which buyers have held up since the stabilizing movement loomed up six weeks ago. It is yet to be developed how far the reductions will go in stimulating a demand over and above what has accumulated, and whether the new prices can be maintained as minimum through the year as proposed in the Washington program.

"Operations at steel works have fallen off in the last week. The Steel Corporation's Chicago district plants, which ran exceptionally well in February, are now on an 80 per cent. basis. In general independent steel companies are averaging 60 per cent."

COTTON STILL ON DECLINE.

The cotton market continued to labor under the adverse influence of the muddled European situation yesterday and the decline which was started in Monday's market was again in operation yesterday, with the net result that prices finished the day 20 to 35 points lower for the active months. The far months suffered a little more than the near months, but there was little to choose between the two classes. Trading was rather light.

The trade is more concerned over the European situation than is generally appreciated. The breaking out of fresh labor troubles in England, the spread of Bolshevism, and the elimination of support to English, French and Italian exchange are all factors which have caused great uneasiness. Doubtless if there were a wheat market, it too would be feeling this influence. The heaviness of the corn market tends to substantiate this. But stocks, except to a very limited extent, have not felt it. The reason is natural—England is prevented from taking a material interest in our securities, but is able to take a very substantial and very active interest in our cotton.

In yesterday's trading the selling was not as aggressive as was that of Monday. At times there were good rallies, but on all such occasions the market met a lot of what looked like real cotton and always sold off again. At the best of the day only a few options were up to Monday's closing figures and at the low of the day the decline ranged from 45 to 65 points. At the end the market was down 20 to 35 points.

FRENCH EXCHANGE SHOWS WEAKNESS

Cables Break to 5.90, a Loss of 8 Centimes, to the Low Point for More Than a Year.

STERLING RATES FIRM

Bloch Attributes Withdrawal of Support to Curtailment of Imports Into France.

Franc exchange was the weak feature of the exchange market yesterday, with a break to 5.90 for cables, a loss of about 8 centimes from the day before and the lowest point to be reached in more than a year. Sterling exchange was reasonably firm and Italian exchange was steady.

J. Frederic Bloch, a member of the French High Commission, arrived in this country yesterday after an absence of several months. M. Bloch was inclined to lay less stress on the curtailment of unnecessary imports into France as a reason for the withdrawal of support for French exchange, and appeared to be less optimistic than some others who have recently commented upon the situation. He spoke of the necessity for credits, but stated that he knew of none being negotiated now. He believes that the recent shift in the exchange market means that from now on private bankers will play a more important part in international finance, and that Governments will gradually withdraw.

Speaking of possible indemnities, M. Bloch referred to the return of machinery stolen from France. This and the return of German machinery to replace French machinery destroyed, he said, were very necessary. In this respect the Commissioner agrees with all other Frenchmen who have expressed themselves recently. The "indemnity in kind" idea appears to be very popular with these men.

Before France can say definitely just what she needs, M. Bloch continued, it will be necessary to make a complete survey of the French industrial and commercial situation. Turning war factories into peace factories is already in progress. It is likely, he thinks, that a great deal of the American Army equipment now in France, including a quantity of railroad equipment, will be purchased by the French, either by the Government or by private concerns.

From another source it was learned yesterday that the amount of sterling exchange which J. P. Morgan & Co. purchased for the account of Great Britain during the period in which the firm, acting as British agents, stabilized sterling, which was from early in 1915 until last week, was close to $4,000,000,000. This was actually purchased by the firm's foreign exchange manager. On several occasions, it was said, the Morgan firm took more than $20,000,000 in a single day. On last Thursday, the day it was decided to withdraw support, it was said in exchange circles that the firm had been a heavy buyer all through the morning.

Suggest Change in Exchange Dues.

The Committee on Constitution of the New York Stock Exchange suggested to the Governing Committee yesterday that Article XIV. of the constitution be changed so that dues payable by members in each year, exclusive of fines and assessments, shall not exceed $100 a year, to be payable semi-annually on May 1 and Nov. 1. The Governing Committee shall determine the amount of each installment fifteen days before the date on which it is payable. Dues heretofore have been $150, payable semi-annually.

The products of the company are oil-drilling and pumping engines, tubular boilers, various forms of portable and steel tanks, etc.

Its customers include various Standard Oil subsidiaries, Tide Water Oil Co., Texas Oil Co., Gulf Refining Co., and other large independent oil producers. The Continental Supply Co., The American Radiator Co. and similar concerns.

The plant covers five acres and is of the most modern design,—adequate, without expenditure, for largely increased production.

The company has no money invested in plant or equipment for war purposes and has done practically no war business.

Average earnings for the past three years after bond interest have been about three times preferred dividend requirements and last year were four and one-half times. Dividends have been paid for 29 consecutive years except 1907, when $305,000 was put back into the property.

The plant is now running overtime and is booked to capacity for four months ahead.

The business has grown with the development of the oil industry and of oil-burning locomotives and vessels.

The books of the Titusville Iron Company have been audited by Messrs. Haskins and Sells and the plant appraised by Messrs. Coats and Burchard. The property and business have been examined by our engineer, Mr. Francis W. Collins, and all legal proceedings are under the supervision of our counsel, Messrs. Lyon and Lilly, of New York City, and Mr. Henry W. Williams, of Baltimore; titles are being passed on by Messrs. Brooks and English, of Erie, Pennsylvania.

RAILROADS RECEIVE LOANS ON NEW PLAN

$4,000,000 TO BURLINGTON

Rest to Western Maryland and C. & O.—Explanation of Policy.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The first loans to railroads on the security of certificates of indebtedness issued by the Railroad Administration were made today by the War Finance Corporation, to an aggregate of about $5,700,000. The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy got about $4,000,000, the Western Maryland $931,000, and the Chesapeake & Ohio $800,000.

Other applications for loans have been made and will be acted on soon. In all cases the War Finance Corporation will make advances only on adequate security and to roads financially responsible. In making this explanation, officials of the corporation sought to correct the impression that special attention would be given by the corporation to the needs of weak roads.

The corporation also explained that the policy of making loans to railroads was not essentially different from that pursued before the financial predicament created through the failure of Congress to replenish the Railroad Administration's fund.

"The policy which is now being pursued in loaning funds for the operation of railroads," said the statement, "is entirely in line with the original intention of Congress, as expressed by the statute, and also in line with the settled procedure of the finance corporation throughout the course of its brief history. The number of applications from railroads for advances have been greatly augmented by the failure of Congress to provide the appropriations asked by the Director General just before the adjournment of Congress."

Bangor & Aroostook, $1,575,000; Georgia, Florida & Alabama, $57,637, and Detroit, Bay City & Western, $85,000.

In banking and railroad circles yesterday the news that arrangements had been completed for financing the railroads up to April 1 was well received.

Howard Elliott, President of the Northern Pacific Railway Company and Chairman of the railway executives who have been co-operating with the Director General of Railroads and the War Finance Corporation in handling the emergency financial requirements of the roads caused by the failure of the last Congress to replenish the revolving fund, said:

"All arrangements have been completed for taking care of the pressing cash requirements of the railroad companies for April 1, which are estimated at from $70,000,000 to $75,000,000.

"The loans made by the War Finance Corporation will be cleared through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. I desire to express our appreciation of the good will and co-operation shown by the Director General and his staff and by the officers of the War Finance Corporation in meeting this difficult and unusual financial emergency."

Rea Re-elected P. R. R. Head.

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—At the annual meeting today of the Directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Samuel Rea was re-elected President to serve one year. The Vice Presidents were also re-elected. To manage the interests of the company in the leased lines west of Pittsburgh, formerly operated by the Pennsylvania Company and now merged with the Pennsylvania Railroad through re-assignment of the leases,

FINANCIAL NOTES.

S. W. Straus & Co. have underwritten an issue of $325,000 Fur Merchants' Warehouse Corporation first mortgage serial 6 per cent. bonds.

The Directors of the American Shipbuilding Company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the common stock and an extra dividend of 2½ per cent., payable on May 1 to holders of record of April 15.

James H. Perkins, Executive Manager of the National City Bank, recently a Lieutenant Colonel with the American Army of Occupation, will address the Bond Club tomorrow at the Bankers' Club on "An International Viewpoint with Reference to America's Participation in Financing World Commerce."

The Guaranty Trust Company has been appointed agent for the Liquidation Trustees of the American Malting Company first refunding mortgage. Tenders of bonds will be received until April 1 at a price not exceeding par and interest to June 1, 1919.

COSMOPOLITAN BANK HEAD.

Oscar Stiner Leaves East River National to Become President.

Harold Stiner, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Cosmopolitan Bank, at Prospect and Westchester Avenues, the Bronx, announced yesterday that his father, Oscar Stiner, had retired from the Presidency of the East River National Bank to assume the Presidency of the Cosmopolitan Bank.

"It is the intention of my father," said Mr. Stiner, "to reorganize the Cosmopolitan by substantially enlarging the capitalization and also to transfer the main office of the bank to the Borough of Manhattan. The Bronx institution will be an important factor in the local business of the Bronx.

"The recent larceny of $26,000 from this bank has in nowise hampered us, as $23,000 was recovered and the bank at no time stood to lose a dollar as it was fully insured and protected."

The Laclede Gas Light Company was created by and organized under an act of the legislature of the State of Missouri in 1857, and has under its charter a perpetual right, the validity of which has been established by the Supreme Court of the State of Missouri, to vend gas within the city of St. Louis, Missouri, the fourth largest city in the United States.

The proceeds of these bonds will be used to retire at maturity, May 1, 1919, the Company's $10,000,000 par value of First Mortgage 5% bonds and for the general corporate purposes of the Company.

These bonds are now secured by a direct mortgage lien upon all the Company's physical property, and upon retirement of the First Mortgage Bonds, due May 1, 1919, will share equally in the lien of the then existing first mortgage of the Company.

The physical condition of the property is excellent in every respect, it being the policy of the management to maintain its plant at all times in first class condition.

100 and interest

The right is reserved to reject any and all subscriptions and in any case to award a smaller amount than applied for. Temporary bonds will be ready on or about May 1, 1919.

All statements herein are official, or based on information which we regard as reliable, and, while we do not guarantee them they are the data upon which we have acted in the purchase of this security.

HINES PROMISES TO IMPROVE ROADS

Railway Corporations to Determine if They Will Assent to Program.

THEY MUST FINANCE WORK

Director General at Pittsburgh Indorses Private Ownership Unde r Government Supervision.

PITTSBURGH, March 26.—Despite the financial predicament of the railroads, the Railroad Administration plans to carry out as much of its improvement program as possible to keep labor employed and roads in repair, Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, declared in an address tonight before the Pittsburgh Traffic Club. He asked for a more adequate understanding on the part of the public of the problems facing the railroads in the immediate future, and presented suggestions for operating roads privately under public regulation as a permanent solution. He emphasized that the ability of the Railroad Administration to finance itself in spite of the failure of its appropriation did not mean that it would not need the appropriation as soon as Congress met again.

"Unfortunately the impression has gone out," Mr. Hines said, "that the Railroad Administration has decided to cut off all improvement work, including additions and betterments and maintenance. This is not a fact. What has happened is that we are taking steps to give the railroad corporations full opportunity to determine whether they should assent to the work which they must finance. It is the intention of the Railroad Administration to carry forward just as much additions and betterments and maintenance work as possible in order that labor may not be thrown out of employment unnecessarily, and in order that the railroads be kept in good repair and extended to meet the needs of the situation."

"My own view is that a moderate guaranty of capital should be prescribed by the Government so as to give a reasonable assurance to capital, and that there should be a right to a participation in any profits made in excess of that guaranty so as to furnish the needed stimulus to private initiative.

"I further believe that the Government should be strongly represented on the Boards of Directors, and that these Government Directors should constitute an important part of the regulating body which prescribes the rates, so that this regulating body will know as necessities develop that the necessities are developing and will be able to meet the needs of the situation much more nearly at the time the needs arise than is possible at present.

"I do not believe these fundamental changes can be successfully carried through except by the construction of a comparatively few great railroad corporations, each of which will so combine the prosperous and unprosperous roads as to present a fair average result and stay away from the hopeless diversity of earnings which has resulted in the past; and upon each of which it will be practicable to have ample Government representation."

Baltimore bankers has purchased $3,000,000 6 per cent. five-year collateral trust notes from the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company. The security behind the notes is the Coal & Coke Railway, which the Baltimore & Ohio bought about two years ago. The proceeds from the sale of the notes along with funds secured by the B. & O. from the War Finance Corporation will be used to pay off $5,000,000 Coal & Coke Railway 5 per cent. first mortgage bonds. The bankers are offering the notes at 97½ and interest to yield about 6.6 per cent. Holders of the Coal & Coke notes have the prior right to subscribe for the new issue. The syndicate is headed by the Mercantile Trust and Deposit Company, Robert Garrett & Sons, Baker, Watts & Co., and Townsend, Scott & Sons, all of Baltimore.

Bank for Savings 100 Years Old.

The Bank for Savings, at Fourth Avenue and Twenty-second Street, the first savings bank in New York State and the third oldest in the country, passed its one hundredth anniversary yesterday. The bank received its charter on March 26, 1819, after its founder, Thomas S. Eddy, had spent two years in persuading the Legislature that a savings bank was a safe financial venture. The bank did not begin business until July 3, 1819.

GULF STATES FUEL CO.

The annual report of the Gulf States Steel Company for last year shows gross profits to have been $1,725,850 as compared with $4,499,929 in 1917. After all deductions, and the payment of preferred and common dividends, there was a deficit for the year of $3,810, this contrasting with a surplus of $1,792,748 in the preceding year.

In commenting on the report to the stockholders, James Bowron, President of the company, says:

"Instead of the extensive and profitable export business previously enjoyed, the company was requested to make shell steel for which its equipment was not adapted; and in lieu thereof was then required to deliver steel for railroad equipment of a character unsuited to the company's works and business, and to deliver the same at a point geographically unsuitable and outside the ordinary range of its markets."

ESTIMATES BRITISH WEALTH

Crammond Figures $120,000,000,000, with Income of $15,500,000,000

LONDON, March 26.—In a talk before the Institute of Bankers of London yesterday, Edgar Crammond gave an optimistic survey of Great Britain's economic position and prospects. Mr. Crammond estimated the nation's wealth at present at £24,000,000,000 and the income at £3,500,000,000, while the national debt would represent 20 per cent of the former and the post-war budget 22 per cent of the latter.

Mr. Crammond thought that for the next ten years the country would be in a position to spend £400,000,000 yearly at home on renewals and machinery, houses, roads, &c., and invest £500,000,000 yearly, largely within the Empire.

Haskell & Barker Report.

The Haskell & Barker Company in its annual report for last year shows net earnings of $3,936,917, an increase of approximately $1,500,000 over the preceding year. After dividends and deductions for renewals, but before Federal taxes, there was a surplus of $2,761,917, as compared with $1,380,859 in 1917. The company now has on its books about $30,000,000 worth of business to tide it over the period of reconstruction.

Offer $11,000,000 Laclede Bonds.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. are offering $11,000,000 first mortgage collateral and refunding ten-year 7 per cent. gold bonds, Series A, of the Laclede Gas Light Company of St. Louis, at 100 and interest. The bonds are convertible at the option of the holder into either common capital stock, par for par, or into a like amount, face value, of Series B thirty-year 5 per cent. bonds, issued under the same mortgage, the Series A bonds to be computed at par and the Series B bonds at a 5½ per cent. income basis.

Dollar Above Par in Norway.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Prices closed heavy in an active market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Final quotations were about the lowest for the session and represented losses from a fraction to about three points in the leading issues. Selling pressure in heavy volume developed in midafternoon after the market had rallied for slight gains and was continued to the close. While the selling centred chiefly in the industrials and emphasized the standard issues in that group, it extended also to the rails, all of which sold lower.

Predictions Are Coming True.

Predictions made in certain quarters of the local market for unfinished cottons, to the effect that the current buying movement would not last much longer, are in a fair way of coming true. Much of the trading that has been going on in the last two weeks or so was, it was contended, more or less speculative in character, and that, therefore, the advances in prices that it brought about could not be sustained. That there was speculative buying is said to be proved by the fact that, as soon as the demand slowed down, second hands at once began to throw goods on the market at concessions. The action of certain first hands yesterday in meeting resale prices, without the usual attempts to keep the market from breaking, is regarded as further proof that the "boom" was not based on anything substantial.

Clothiers' Bulletin to Trade.

The National Association of Clothiers yesterday mailed a bulletin to over 15,000 merchants throughout the country calling attention to conditions in the clothing industry and the necessity of completing orders for the Fall season as soon as possible. It is pointed out that the mills are 60 days late in opening their lines and that manufacturing and selling must be rushed if the merchandise is to be placed before the consumer in regular season. Every indication is, the bulletin states, that the consumer demand will be normal or ahead of normal and those dealers will suffer who have not the goods when they are wanted. Over-conservatism is descried.

Men's Jewelry Selling Better.

With the increasing demobilization of men in service on both sides of the Atlantic there has come a corresponding increase in the demand for men's jewelry of various kinds. Not only is there a better call for men's rings, but scarf pin and cuff link sets also have shown a more active sale of late. These articles are also selling singly in a big way. Simple things like collar buttons are moving more freely. About the only things in this line that men wear which have not shown a proportionate improvement are watches. This is said to be because most of the men either still have the wrist watches they used while in service, or are using again the timepieces they had before that.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Crowded out of its present location by the expansion of financial and insurance interests the wholesale drug firm of Lehn & Fink has sold the building it has occupied for years at 118 and 120 William Street and 79 John Street, and purchased a new site for a home in the Greenwich Village section.

The drug firm's buildings, six and eight story structures, surrounding the northeast corner of John and William Streets, were sold to the Broadway-John Street Corporation, of which Elias A. Cohen is President. They will be remodeled into high-grade offices for insurance firms. No. 120 William Street is an eight-story building, fronting 24.6 feet and extending back 155.7 feet, with an "L" 125 feet to John Street. No. 118 is a six-story building, 25 by 125. The combined properties were held at $625,000.

As a site for a new home Lehn & Fink purchased from the Trinity Church Corporation a group of old two and three story buildings at the northeast corner of Greenwich and Morton Streets, on a plot 100 by 173, and the abutting property, 50 by 100, on Barrow Street, comprising a combined parcel of about 22,000 square feet, and valued by Trinity's trustees at $225,000.

The buyers plan to start work immediately upon the erection of an eight-story building for their exclusive use, which will cost about $250,000. The two transactions, which will involve an outlay of over $1,000,000, were negotiated by W. J. Russell.

Buys on West Broadway.

Norman S. Riesenfeld bought from Mitchell Woodbury Company of Boston the five-story business building at 28 and 30 West Broadway, assessed by the city at $90,000. The property runs through to 66 Park Place and measures 40.11 by 86.7 on West Broadway and 23 by 60 on Park Place. William H. Whiting & Son negotiated the transaction, which was for all cash.

Buy Business Building.

Brown Sells Rockville.

Frederick Brown sold to a client of Byrne & Bowman the Rockville, a six-story elevator apartment, 107 by 100, housing forty families, with two stores, and renting for $25,000, at the northeast corner of Audubon Avenue and 177th Street.

Division Street Sale.

The Metropolitan Savings Bank sold to a Dr. Siegel 261 to 263 Division Street, 41 by 92, near Montgomery Street, which the bank acquired in foreclosure in July, 1915.

Private Dwellings.

Jacob C. Rosenblum sold the three-story dwelling, 18.9 by 100, at 160 West 130th Street, to Morris Drenshpon through B. W. Smith.

George J. and William L. O'Neil sold the four-story dwelling, 21.8 by 100, held at $30,000, at 145 West Eleventh Street, to St. Vincent's Hospital, owner of the adjoining property.

Mrs. Mariana G. Van Rensselaer, who has been a tenant at 9 West Tenth Street for a great many years, has purchased from Joseph S. Auerbach this residence, a three-story and basement brown stone dwelling on lot 25 by 94.10.

Tenement Deals.

Land Estates, Inc., associated with the New York Title and Mortgage Company, sold the two four-story and basement tenements on a plot 56 by 100 at 220 and 222 East Seventieth Street to an investor.

James H. Cruikshank bought the six-and-one-half-story tenement with stores, on plot 28.6 by 100.11, at 305 East 109th Street, from Walter H. Liebmann through Harry Sugarman.

Joseph T. Ryan sold the two five-story houses, on plot 40

WOMEN AND FOREIGN TRADE.
In a field where many women have attained remarkable success, there is a demand today for trained executives who have a thorough understanding of foreign trade principles and practice. A most practical means of obtaining this knowledge is through our well-known Course in Foreign Trade. The director of the Course is Dr. Edward Ewing Pratt, formerly Chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. Twelve weekly lectures and round-table discussions will be conducted by experts in foreign trade procedure on Wednesdays, from 5:30 to 7 P. M., in the auditorium at 115 Fulton St.

If your business experience has prepared you for a study of this character, or if you are vitally interested in the growing and profitable foreign trade positions which are opening up, send in your name and business address for the interesting booklet, "Foreign Trade, Today's Opportunity," which contains full information. No obligation, of course, is involved.

MOTHER DIES WITH 2 CHILDREN IN FIRE

FATHER ALSO INJURED

Vainly Tries to Help Wife When Flames Destroy Home While Family Sleeps.

Mrs. Louise Mercier, 34 years old, gave her life in a vain attempt to save her three children when fire destroyed her home in Gracie Avenue, Richmond Hill Circle, Queens, early yesterday. Two of the children also perished. They were Lonia, aged 6, and Helen, aged 3. George Mercier, the husband and father, and Emily, aged 8, the other child, got out of the house, both are in St. Mary's Hospital, Jamaica. The child is in a serious condition, but Mercier will recover.

Mercier, from his hospital cot, charged that the city firemen were more than an hour in reaching the blaze. Records of the Fire Department show that the apparatus responded as quickly as possible. Acting Chief George Kavanaugh, of the Fifty-first Battalion, in whose district the fire occurred, said he reached the scene within eight minutes after receiving the alarm and found one company already there.

Mrs. Mercier discovered the fire about 5 A. M., according to the account given the police and aroused her husband. He found escape by the stairway cut off, smashed a window in the bedroom and jumped to the ground, directing his wife to bring the children into that room, which was not then afire, and drop them down to him and then jump herself.

As he landed on the ground Mercier saw a man passing along the road and called on him for aid. The man peeled off his overcoat, Mercier having on nothing but his pajamas, and the two men held the coat under the window as a lifenet. Into it Mrs. Mercier safely dropped little Emily, but the child had already been badly burned on the hands, face, head, and one foot. Mrs. Mercier turned back to get the other children. When she did not reappear Mercier tore down a section of a picket fence surrounding his house, and, with the help of the other man, raised it to the window, using the pickets as rungs in a ladder.

He started through the window, when a sudden burst of smoke and flame hurled him out of the window to the ground below. In landing, he sprained his ankle. Neighbors kept him from trying to go back again. The roof and upper floor collapsed, carrying the bodies of Mrs. Mercier and the two younger children with it. Their bodies were not found for several hours.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. Mercier, a signalman employed by the Long Island Railroad, did not get home from work until 2 A. M. Then he looked at the fire in the kitchen range and fixed the dampers for the night. Everything appeared in good order. He declared, however, that the fire evidently originated on the lower floor, but he does not know whether it started inside or outside the house. He says that a workman whom he had employed about the place threatened on Monday to "get hunk" with him because he told the man he would get no money if he did not complete his work faster. The police are investigating this statement.

COMPLETE DR. WISE FUND.

$100,000 Quota Contributed Here for Hebrew Union College.

New York City's quota of $100,000 toward the fund of $300,000 sought in the United States for the support of the work of the Hebrew Union College and the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, of Cincinnati, is assured. This announcement was made yesterday at the final meeting of the Dr. Isaac M. Wise Centenary Campaign workers at the Hotel Biltmore, where the teams reported receiving contributions amounting to $77,000. The remaining $23,000 was pledged by the teams of Temple Emanu-El and of Temple Beth-El.

The organizations which went "over the top" of their quotas were the Central Synagogue, Temple Israel of Harlem, the New Synagogue, Shaaray Tefila, Temple Rodeph Sholem, Temple Israel of Brooklyn, Temple Israel of Far Rockaway, and Temple Israel of New Rochelle. Other synagogues, which have not reached their quota, will continue their work until the desired amount is reached.

At a meeting held yesterday at the Unity Club, Brooklyn, the Brooklyn delegation pledged itself to underwrite the balance of the amounts allotted to each synagogue. Those present included Rabbis of Brooklyn congregations, Judge Edward Lazansky, Daniel P. Hays, Chairman of the Campaign Committee, and David M. Bressler.

The Campaign Committee, in announcing that there had been more than 1,000 subscribers to the fund, as compared to an average of forty-six in previous years, stated that its offices would remain open indefinitely to receive further reports and subscriptions. Checks and communications should be forwarded to the Isaac M. Wise Centenary Campaign Committee, Room 210, Times Building, Times Square, New York.

PLAN TO ENDOW CATHEDRAL

Board of St. John the Divine Discusses Fund Drive.

The Board of Trustees of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine decided yesterday afternoon at a meeting at the cathedral to start a fund-raising campaign in the early Autumn for the double purpose of completing the nave of the cathedral and getting an endowment fund sufficiently large to enable the cathedral to function efficiently as a great municipal church. Bishop Green presided. Though no amount was determined upon, several millions will be required, it was said. The campaign is to be the chief material task of the diocese during the year, and is to be continued up to the diocesan convention in May, 1920.

The Board was unanimous in its decisions regarding the campaign and decided to fix the time with a view to the approach of the Victory Loan, which, it felt, should have full financial right of way. Just how wide the appeal would be was not decided, but it was understood that the general public would be asked to contribute.

TO TELL OF AIR COMBATS.

Rickenbacker's Lecture Will Aid Fund for Rheims Hospital.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, America's ace of aces, who has twenty-six German planes to his credit, will lecture on "The Arena of the Skies" at the Metropolitan Opera House on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the American Fund for French Wounded. The proceeds of the lecture will go to the fund which is being raised by that organization to build and support an American hospital at Rheims. The French Government has already given the site.

The lecture will be illustrated by moving pictures showing Rickenbacker fighting in the air and also showing other American fliers, some of whom have been killed in service. There will be pictures of German aviators which Captain Rickenbacker obtained from a German pilot when he accompanied the American Army of Occupation into that country after the armistice.

CHICAGO'S MAYOR ACCUSED OF SEDITION

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 26.—Mayor William Hale Thompson is charged with disloyalty, and sedition in pleas filed in the Circuit Court today by the Tribune Company in answer to the Mayor's suit for $500,000 damages, based on the publication of articles in September, 1917. The articles consisted of resolutions adopted by the National Security League and the statements of various persons condemning the Mayor.

As justification for the publication of the articles the pleas present a recital of the Mayor's acts and statements prior to and during American participation in the war. These statements, made by him in interviews, the first in March, 1917, and the second April 15, 1917, are quoted:

"'There is a flag sticking out of every broker's window. These stockbrokers are a patriotic lot. I wonder sometimes if it is pure patriotism or some of the "war babies" that need nursing.'

"'You'd come to the conclusion from the number of non-enlistments that the people of the United States do not favor sending an army to Europe. I believe, however, that the people of the United States would go to the limit in defending this country from invasion.'"

These statements, the plea contended, were intended "to give to the people of the United States his opinion that the people of the United States and himself were not in favor of the war with the German Empire, and that the policies and actions of the President and the Government were not in accord with the wishes and desires of the people of the United States."

Among other acts cited are the Mayor's refusal in the latter part of April, 1917, to invite the French and British missions to the city because of his expressed doubt of his "legal authority to extend an invitation to war visitors"; his reference to Chicago as the "sixth German city of the world"; his refusal to prevent the meeting in Chicago of the People's Council of America for Democracy and Terms of Peace, and his expressed opposition to the draft and to the shipment of men, ammunition, and food to Europe.

Mayor Thompson today filed a suit for $250,000 damages against Bertram M. Winston and George Hull Porter, officers of the Robert M. Sweitzer Nonpartisan League, as a result of published statements issued in the Mayoralty campaign. Sweitzer is Mayor Thompson's Democratic opponent.

Boston Illustrator a Suicide.

BOSTON, March 26.—The disappearance two days ago of Arthur Hutchins, a magazine illustrator, was explained today by the finding of his body in his studio, with a bullet wound in the head. He is believed to have shot himself as a result of ill-health. He was 32 years of age.
